A Vicious Autmal. On Tuesday afternoon William Giger was badly injured by his fron gray horse, known as the man-eater. Giger was at work on the fair grounds and was just hitching his team to the wagon at quitting time when the horse caught him by the arm, and throwing him down fell on him with its knees, and chewed his arm until the bone was broken in two places. Giger was released from his position with some trouble, the vigorous use of a pitchfork be ing required before the norse would let up. Giger purchased the horse from Richard Ivy about a year ago, and though its vicious disposition was known to him, he thought he had the brute under control.

Bloomsburg Carpet Mills.

The formal opening or the Bloomsburg Carpet Mills took place last Frid ay afteroon. There were over two hundred of the business men, accompanied by their wives in attendance. The first of the program was witnessing the machinery in operation, following this was a photograp h Give, children; The Beautiful Golden Gate. of the building, showing the visitors present. Speeches were made by Rev. D. J. gee. The guests were afterwards invited to a bountiful lunch, prepared by the proprictors. Music was furnished by Mr. Metherell's orchestra, and many indulged dancing on the fourth floor. Magee & Co. have now 30 looms running constantly and will soon add more.

His Ignorance Cost Me $150.00. I was sick abed for three months. The doctor said I had Prolapsus Uteri, which was untrue. He didn't try to cure me but wanted to make a $1.50 every day. My uncle is a druggist, and he told me to turn the doctor off and try Sulphur Bitters. did so and five dollars worth of Sulphur Bitters cured me of general weakness and

The beautiful Christian Chapel at Cambra was filled to overflowing last Sunday night. The occasion was Children's day. The church was profusely decorated with evergreen of many, and choice varieties, wrought into arches, baskets, crosses and other designs. An artificial spray was formed under a glass dome of considerable size under which were placed a couple of dolls, the water being conducted thence by means of hose from the reservoir. The droppings, or flow of water was received into a bath tub which was also decorated with moss and snrubbery, all of which looked as natural as a spring of different parts of the county, were also in water. The water escape conducted it under the floor and allowed the tub to get only about half full. Space will not per mit to enter into detail, but the exercises throughout were grand. The music su perb. The exercises opened with singing by the Sunday school, after which prayer was offered by Prof. C. C. Hughes. The children were trained to a high degree of perfection and not a blunder nor ripple occurred. Declamations were well rendered by the Misses Zora Huges ---- Cary, Zell and Lena McHenry, which did credit to in other exercises in which they did equally "Floral Drill," in which ten young ladies engaged, each carrying a floral wreath which they displayed with wonderful accuracy as they marched to the music of the organ, at which Mr. Stanley McHenry presided. The floral wreaths were so joined that at certain stages of the drill in their display they chimed like bells. It was a rich treat and every one enjoyed it. Mrs. Rose Runyan died last Wednesday evening week ago, aged a little over 69 years. Now is a better time for festivals since the rain has cleared away. It is a bad habit many people fall into both young and old, to stand about in groups at or near a church and engage in various discussions until the services of the sanctuary begin. The testival at Hamiline last Tuesday evening week ago was postponed from lime to time on account of rain, and even then it showered all around and but few steended.

The golden grain is about ready for the eaper's sickles. Jacob F. Karns of this township died Jacob F. Karas of this township died Wednesday evening one week ago, aged 22 years. Mr. Karas was interred at Ham-iline and Mrs. Runyan in the South Hold cemetery. Rev. S. P. Boone preached both funeral sermons at the Hamiline M. E. Church, the latter on Friday and the former on Saturday following the day of

CHILDRENS DAY.

Children's Day services were held a Canby and Espy in the pastorate of Rev. indulge in now a days. We fisherman feel A. R. Glaze on Sunday, June 22nd, and at Buckhorn on Sunday 29th, both morning and evening. Throughout the services were a great success, both children and others were greatly edified and delighted At Camby the offerings were devoted to home purposes. At Espy and Buckhorn they were devoted to the work of the Lavs ville Orphans' Home, amounting in the former place to $10 and in the latter place to $13 65. The children had the pleasur of appearing on the stage before large and rod and go to a stream and catch a nice appreciative audiences. We are sorry that ness of trout. During gaming season he at Espy the House was too small to admit that many squirrels, and, I am told that all who came to enjoy the children's services. Space will allow only a par, of the program of exercises. All the churches were beautifully decorated with a choice selection of flowe's and evergreens. The great reader and can read much without program at Espy consisted of the follow
