The upper stories of the Western Union milding in New York were burned out last Friday night, and valuable batteries and the great switch boards were destroyed. The following account is given of the narrow escape of several people: "Meantime the crowds which had collected in the street discovered half a dozen women and two or three men on the roof. They ran up and down wringing their estion and loss of appetite by a single hands and shouting aloud for help. Great sheets of flame were bursting from the windows just beneath them and curling upward in a most threatening way. These people on the roof were the em ployees of the restaurant on the top of the ouilding, where the majority of the operators of the Western Union main office take their meals. They were prisoners. All was gaining ground. The women cried out pitifully. One advanced and put her foot on the railing with the evident intention of jumping down into Broadway. But the crowd on the street yelled to her to keep back and she did so.

The first order that Fire Chief Bonner gave on his arrival was that ropes should be sent up to the roof. A rocket with a rope attachment was let off, and it landed safely. A secand rocket was sent up. It also carried its rope. But the people on the roof were bewildered. Now that they had the ropes they did not know what to do with them. Geo. E. Reed D. D., President of Dickin- No. 7 slope, owing to bad air in the Hazleage all over the State. At some points They were helpless. Every now and then they would be enveloped in smoke, and the stubliorn flames were creeeping slowly toward them.

Firemen were distributed on all the agiacent housetops, where they directed streams of water into the fiery furnace. The water ower, extended to its full height, was situated on the Broadway side of the building. All the lower floors were flooded with water. The upper ones were afire. They included the battery room, the operating room, the gallery, the dressing room, the main office of the Associated Press, on the top floor of the building, and the restaurant adjoining it.

It did not seem likely that the women or he roof could be saved.

There were no fire escapes from the roof Had there been fire escapes there would have been no danger. A long ladder was rushed upon the roof of No. 8 Dey Street and placed against the rear of the burning building. It fell fifty feet short of its mark, for it did not reach the women. A fireman scaled the ladder. One of the women lowered him a rope. He climbed up, hand over hand, and reached the eighth story. Plunging through a window, he fought his way up the narrow stairway to the roof. Here he sent the rope that had been sent by rocket, hoisted up his omrades and lowered the women one by one to the roof of No. 8 Dev Street." From the window of their room in the Astor House, New York, the above scene was witnessed by P. S. Harman, W. R.

Saturday last, July 19, was witnessed one of the most interesting games of base ball played upon Athletic Park. The game was between the Jeansville and Bloom burg teams. The Jeansville team came here with a record of but one defeat for the season. Bloomsburg was sent to the bat, but failed to score a run. Jeansville followed making a run. The game was continuous blanks for the Bloomsburg cam until the ninth inning when Hagen buch hit a low ball which passed the pitcher, second base and centre flielder giving him two bases, Watts followed making short hit, but by a bad throw to first he made two bases, and Hagenbuch scored the first run, amid the wildest enthusiasm ever shown-hats, caps, bandkerchiefs and umbrellas were flying in the air, and the voices of the coschers could not be heard for the deafening cheers. Watts, Shaffer amid deafening roars of applause. The Jeansville club evidently came here with the intention of 'shutting our boys out,' but were disappointed. The following is

If Man Must Drink . If a man must drink the best thing he an take with his meals is a little claret or light Rhine wine, and if he wants some thing a little stronger, Scotch whiskey with water is the best thing he can have. The habit of taking a drink early in the morning-a cocktail or stimulant of that kind commonly called an eye-opener, is one of the worst things that can be done. The effect of alcohol is to inflame the stomach, and it will do this even when diluted; and will do so a great deal more when taken on an empty stomach early in the morning. The best drink that a man can possibly take is milk. Milk, though, is hardly a drink. One can live longer on it than any one thing. Milk is more near ly a perfect food than anything; it contains more elements that go to build up the system than any other article. Early in the morning the best drink to take is water. Tea and coffee drunk in moderation will not hurt anybody, although they are both

Jackson, July 8, '90. Pensions! Veterans!!

The Disability Pension Bill. Act of June 27, 1890, grants pensions lays or more in the Army or Navy during days or more in the Army or Many during the rebellion, and were honorably discharged, and who are now suffering from any permanent, mental or physical disability contracted since the war or during the war whether from disease, injuries or effects of old age, at the rate of from $6 to $12 per month, according to the degree of his dismonth, according to the degree of his dis-ability for the performance of labor requir-ing the exert'on of physical strength; provided the disability is not due to vicious habits. This pension is not restricted to the veterans who have to make their living by hard labor, but is equally due to professional men or cierks, provided they have an existing disability which would prevent the continuous exercise of the physical strength of an abir-bou'ed man.

Those who have applied under the general laws and who are unable to prove up the pending claim can apply for and secure this pension and then continue the presecution of the former claim.

WOMEN AND BURGULARS. OW A TIMID WOMAN PREVENTED A HOUSE

"I think buglars are more often utterly routed by women than men," said a policeman to the reporter the other day. "It is wonderful what a woman will do some times when she hears a strange noise in her house at night. I know that my own wife is a nervous, excitable invalid, who often lies awake in the night, when I am out on my beat, trembling in her bed with apprehension lest a burglar might enter the house. So far she is an absolute cow-

"But let her really hear a noise in any part of the house which might be made by a burglar, and the opportunity for action is a positive relief to her. Up she gets in a minute, and without a second's hesitation makes her way in the dark all over the house, loooking for the intruder-not sign of fear then-but as the fact that no body has actually entered the house be comes apparent, her fear lest some one might do so returns, and she goes back t bed a coward again. Strange, isn't it? "I remember a desperate burglar, wh was hanged for killing a man whose house he had been discovered robbing, telling m inmates of the house he was 'cracking was when a slight, delicate woman, clad only in her night dress, came ranning down the stairs, and, putting her hand on his arm, inquired in a terrified tone: "What's the matter? Is there a burgla in the house? Oh, protect me!" In her terror she did not think of him as
