My DRAR MOTHER: Here we are at this interior station of the American Board about 80 miles from though we can make it answer, especially ous to get to our destination before it gets any hotter. We got away from Tientsin a week ago last Thursday by native boat. like the one I wrote father from, going up The to Tung Cho, and with my trunk, one sea trunk, bags, lunch baskets, a small table a stool and rocking chair, it is so close and crowded as to be rather confining on a rainy day, and woefully not when the sun

We were delayed at Tientsin nearly a day after we were ready to leave owing to a mistake in my passport which had to be corrected, and after we got started we had such stray head winds and a day of rain, that we had a most tedious, tiresome trip, not reaching this place for disembarkation until noon of last Saturday We had accompanying us another boat closing in in reverse order and following carrying some of our household goods. By the time we had gotten most of our goods packed on wheelbarrows, and the rest stored away to await future orders, it was half past six in the evening, but notwiths tanding the lateness of the hour we determined to take a cart for this place, 45 ll south ( ) li is 1 of a mile ) as we were both so sick of our boat, and of the fuss and worry connected with moving our things that we were anxious to get away from foreigners and spend a quiet, comfortable Sunday. We had a very plucky mule and a good natured earter, and moonlight until midnight, but the man lost his way so often it was one o'clock in the morning when we reached here very tired indeed, but glad to get to bed in a foreign home, away from such close contact with the Chinese. Mrs. Murray had invited us to stay with her, and even at that unsessonable hour gave us a warm welcome. She is one of our nissionaries in Che nan foo, but staying here temporarily keeping house for Mr. and Mrs. Smith who are at Shanghai attending a missionary conference. By morning we were somewhat rested and prepared to enjoy a very pleasant, quiet Sabbath in marked contrast to our two last Sundays, which were both spent on native boats. I know of nothing more dreary than a Sunday on a house boat anchored to a canal bank, or in a Chinese Inn, so that yesterday was all the more refreshing in comparison with our previous exper'ences. While at Pang Chwang we were entertained at lunch and dinner by Dr.

and Mrs. McClure. Mrs. McClure was formerly Mrs. Baird of Canton, and Dr. Mc. Clure a scotchman of about my own age, who belongs to the Canadian Presbyterian Mission. They are both very pleasant. His mission is having a very tedious. wearisome time trying to secure a foot hold in Horean, and the prospects are far from bright for the future, as the people, or rather the officials, are very much opposed to them and anxious to prevent their getting in at all. Horcan is said to be one of the most hostile provinces in China, to foreigners. This station of Pang hear from. Chwang is unique among mission stations, being located in a village of probably less than a thousand inhabitants (instead of in a city, as is usually the case) right in the midst of this great plain of China. We did not see the sign of a hill in all our trip from Tientsin, or rather from Pek ng all the way here, and here nothing but a flat surface everywhere is to be seen. All the work of this station lies around within
