The 8.35 train on the D. L. & W. ran ver an old man named Taylor, last Wednesday morning and killed him, at a point about two miles this side of Danville. His ead was crushed and one foot cut off-The train was stopped and run back, and early all the passengers got off, and the nangled remains carried into the house of his daughter near by. The deceased was 73 years old, and was so deaf that he did not hear the cars. He was picking coal along the track. The engine came upon him suddenly, and struck him before the engineer could stop the train.

St. Paul's P. E. church was filled last unday evening by a congregation that was drawn together by the announcement that special music would be rendered The choir consisted of Miss Annie Mille and Miss Annie Fox, soprano, Mrs. Osbourn and Miss Ella Fox contralto, Mr. P. E. Wir tenor, and Mr. L. S. Wintersteen, bass, Miss. Mand Runvon played an opening luntary, and the Gloria in Excelsis, the Cantate, and the Benedic, the three latter being elaborate and difficult authems. She also played the accompaniment for a beautiful solo. "In the Depths," sung at the Offertory by Mrs. Osbourn. Miss Runyon is rapidly developing into an accomplished organist. Mr. Geo. E. Elwell, at present acting as organist of the church, played the hymns, the Gloria Patri, and the closing voluntary. The services consisted of Even ing Prayer, without a sermon, and it was a most beautiful and impressive service.

The editor of the Dushore Review has een over the new Lehigh Valley branch n Sullivan county which is being built to connect with the Harvey's Lake R. R. and thus make a through route to William port, and here is what he says about it Leaving Lopez the locomotive steamed up the steep grade at a high rate of speed and in almost no time at all left Trexler, Turrell & Co's mill and Kipp's mill, with their thousands of saw logs behind. With abored groans but undiminishable speed the train climbs the steep incline, farther and farther toward the summit of the old North Mountain, and every revolution of the wheels taking us deeper into the largest forest in Pennsylvania. Here is timber in seemingly inexhaustible quantities. Hemlock, spruce, beech, birch and maple rees of centuries growth and enormous girth, tower heavenward and crowd each ther until the sun's rays are almost entirey excluded and the forest is impassable seems almost a pity that these immense solitudes should be invaded by railroads and telegraphs, bringing in their train hun ireds of vandals who will cut and slash and hew until the last stick has been out nto lumber and dragged off by the scream ng iron horse. But it will take years t accomplish this, no matter how thick the mills are set, so enormous is the quantity of lumber standing in this tract. And be fore that is done the buried treesures of coal and iron will be wrenched from the earth and coal gondolss and dumps will quickly follow the almost endless stream of flat lumber cars which will pass out of this region for the next fifteeen years Still climbing we cross the Sullivan county line, cross Mehoopany creek on a spiendid iron bridge and about three miles beyond the labored puffing of the locomotive suddenly ceased and we are running down We have passed the summit, the a locomotive, over 2000 feet above tide water, and the tiny rivulet at the side of the track is the head waters of Bowman's creek. At last the whistle gives a series of shrill shricks and the train comes to

HESS RE-UNION.

The Hess re-umon at the Grove of Reuben Hess, Rupert, on Thursday of last week, was a success notwithstanding the occasional shower. There were present about four bundred people, representing Lycoming, Union, Northumberland, Luzerne, Northampton and Columbia counties, besides several from other states. The representation from Columbia County, was not as large as it should have been. This is the second re-union, and it is now a fixed fact that this re-union will occur during the month of August each year. The following officers were elected; President, J. Wilson Hess, of Montandon, Pa.; Vice-President, Stephen Hess, of Easton, Pa Secretary, A. W. Hess, of Mifflin, Pa.; Assistant Secretary, Dr. M. J. Hess, Bloomsburg, Pa.; Treasurer, Reuben Hess, Rupert, Pa. In order to make the day more interesting the following committees were appointed:-On Music; Tilgham Straus, Benj. Workheiser, Dr. M. J. Hess. Program and Time; Geo. Hess, Charles M Hess, Jeremiah Hess, Jr., J. K. Bittenbender, Geo Wilson Hess. The date for the meeting of 1891 will be announced in due time. It is to be hoped that at the next meeting we may have fine weather in which event there should be an attend acne of nearly a thousand people.

New School Books for Old Ones At the last meeting of the School Board, the subject of a change of readers, spellers and copy-books was discussed. Compialuts were made by scholars that the present books were becoming tedious to them. Through the efforts of M. J. Phillips, representing the American Book Company, the board adopted Swinton's works, and Spencerian copy-books, upon an even exchange of an old one for a new one. The patrons can readily see the advantage of such a change, especially when the new book has the same retail price as the old one. Also those having the Barnes reader of the first grade may exchange for a new one of the next grade by paying only the difference of price between the two grades. It is seldom a school district has such an opportunity to get new books for old ones. Several book agents were here and entered into a contest to supply the district, this brought on the cutting rates. Another advantage of the change is that the same reader is used in our Normal School, Those completing the common school ut buying all new text books.

The Concert.

hundred people were seated before it. It was one of the most select audiences ever in the hall. About 350 tickets were sold, and the net proceeds were $140. Miss Ella A. Fox can well feel assured of her personal popularity, and that the neople of Bloomsburg are interested in her success, and that her singing is highly appreciated, for the rain was pouring down when the concert began, notwithstanding which nearly everybody who had tickets were on hand. The playing of the orchestra elicited words of praise on all sides. Considering the short time that they have practiced together, their performance is remarkable. They played "Silver Bell," and "The Brigands," and for encores they gave "First Kiss" waltz, and a galop. The female quartette consisting of Mrs. Osbourn, Misses Fox, Miller and Beth Runyan, sang two numbers, "Holloa" and "Annie Laurie," and were obliged to repeat them both. "Annie Laurie" was beautifully rendered without accompaniment, and fairly took the house by storm Mrs. Grant Herring recited "Two sides of a story" in a most pleasing manner, and Miss Ella Fox sang a contraito solo, "The boquet from admiring friends. She was encored and sang a pretty ballad. Her voice has improved wonderfully under Mrs. O bourn's tuition. It is strong and sweet and clear, and she never sang better. Miss Annie R. May, of Philadelphia, who is visiting friends here, played two numbers on the zither. She is only a little girl just in her teens, but she performed on this difficult instrument with the skill of a professional. It took well with the audience, and she was encored both times. Mr. William Montague Perrett, of Philade'phia, who was in town on a summer outing, sang a baritone solo, accompanied by the female quartette; he also sang a solo, "Anchored." His voice is a pleasant one, and he received well merited applause. Mrs. Osbourn sang the flower song from Faust, and her magnificient voice was at its best. Her range is wonderful, running almost from bass to high soprano, and all her tones are clear and full. She has sung in the Metropolitian Opera House, New York under the leadership of Walter Damrosch and she expects to go to London next year to still further cultivate her voice. She was recalled, of course, and presented with a boquet. Miss Fox and Mr. Paul E. Wirt sang a duet so well that they were obliged to repeat it. Miss Annie Miller was warmly welcomed, and sang "In Sweet September." This was beautifully rendered, and so well appreciated that the audience made her sing another song, and tandstill eighteen miles from Lopez, is she too received a boquet. The program-Luzerne county, and about nine miles me ended with a quartette, "Sleep, Dar from the opposite terminus of the Harvey's ling Sleep," Misses Fox and Miller, and Messrs. Wirt and Wintersteen, a beautiful composition by Parry, charmingly sung by these well known yocalists. Mrs. Osbourn sang "Dreams" by special request. Miss Maud Runyan is entitled to special praise for the very laborious part which she so well performed. She played the piano > and did her part with ease and grace. The piano used was kindly loaned by J. altzer. It was one of the celebrated Esey make, and its fine tones added greatly the excellence of all the music. The concert was under the management of Geo. E. Elwell.

The chairman ap pointed J. S. Blue, Theodore Christian and F. A. Robbins. The committee went into the grand jury room followed by witnesses and delegates of the contested townships of Benton and East Scott. The roll cal was stopped pending the decision of the committee. Upon their return they reported that C. L. Sands and W. H. Utt having received a tie vote in each of the contested districts, as ppeared by the certificate of returns, they gave each a vote in the districts. Balloting was then continued giving a result as follows:

C. L. Sands, 30; W. H. Utt, 20; Samue Camp. 10. Upon resolution the name of Samue Camp was dropped and a second ballot called. On this ballot when Briarcreek was reached J. H. Eck voted for C. L. Sands, after proceeding for a few townships some one informed Mr. Eck that h could not vote for Sands when he was in structed for Utt. It was some time before the chairman could understand why Eck could not vote as he pleased and endeavored to count him for Sands, but when Se cretary Kline stated that Mr. Eck must vote for Utt as long as he was a candidate the vote was so recorded and again the roll ce'l was commenced and continued until all townships were called, resulting as fol lows:

The name of Smith was dropped, as h had the lowest vote, when Freas withdrew and Deimer was made the nominee. COMMITTERM EN.

The chairman announced that the town sips would be called and the delegates should report the names of members of the standing committee, in townships where committeemen had been voted for delegates should report such names. All went pleasantly until Mt. Pleasant was reached when an effort was made to shut out J. J. Crawford who had been voted for, by offering the name of Jacob Fisher. Angry words were used and we feared the convention would wind up in an open fight. C. M. The Cyclone Stricken District. After a few days of a new and strange experience caused by the phenomena orm visitation, a survey of its track reveals an awful condition. It left its mark and stamped its impression on every inch of ground over which it sped. The harbinger of destruction came without warning, surprising the people, as this stranger was not expected in such mountainous and broken localities. The beautiful groves, shade trees and shrubbery will bear testimeny of its presence for years to come. The stricken people will chafe from the effects of its merciless hand during the remainder of their lives. A fear of its repetition will give anxious forebodings to every one in the land when storm clouds lower with threatening aspect, for the question of cyclones in its worst forms, in ocalities like ours is now settled once for
