

POULTRY NOTES.

No. 14.

As laying hens and those fattening for market require different food, it is best to keep them separate.

As poultry and lice are antagonistic, it is best to keep them separate also.

Breed is everything, says the Southern Fancier. The machine for converting food into eggs must be the best to be had; anything and everything will not do.

Do not feed chicks for the first twenty-four hours after they are hatched. Brooding is what and all they want.

It is best for the man of limited means to use great care as to the building of poultry houses, etc., not to go to too much expense. If the house is good and warm and admits sunlight and is properly ventilated, will be sufficient.

Remember that rats and chickens cannot be raised together profitably.

One cock for ten hens of the larger breeds, and fifteen hens of the small breeds is about right.

It is best to change the food of fowls in case of bowel disease, as it will often effect a cure.

W. B. GERMAN.

"A stitch in time saves nine" and if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla now it may save months of future possible sickness.

Never mind! Never mind what the people say, it is a fact nevertheless that the Popular News Agent, has added to an already well selected stock of Games, Books, Novels, &c., wall paper, beautiful designs and at very reasonable prices. Call and examine, just a few doors below Market street.

F. P. BILLMEYER, Sec'y.

Some advertisers spend their time, space and money telling the size of their rooms; but that dont interest you near so much as to know where the stock and quality of goods is which you wish to select from. You want to buy where you can get the best quality for the least money, and have the largest stock to select from. If it is or Window Curtains you need, then we can interest you. If you are anxious to know the cost of the work you propose doing, we will carefully make you estimates and guarantee every thing first class.

When we say estimates we mean calculations based upon the quality and quantity of work and material required. When we name you a price we do it with a knowledge of what there is to be done. We never take a contract to do a piece of work for less than cost, and as a consequence have no temptation to slight our work in order to come out whole. You may sometimes get a low price from parties who will make you a price without carefully figuring up the cost, but then did you ever think of it, that they must either slight your work or charge the next party who employs them a double price? We think ours the more honest way. Our customers get just what they bargain for every time. We do not lose money on any of them nor do we in any case charge more than a fair profit.

Josh Billings says: "If a man cums to you for advice, find out the kind of advice he wants and give it to him."

This is not our plan. Very few people can tell what wall paper will look like before it is hung on the wall. We believe our experience qualifies us to do this and we will be pleased to give you advice as to the combinations of colors in order to produce the most pleasing effect in your rooms, and any other suggestions you may desire.

If you have a church, a parlor or a kitchen to paper, come and see us. We will tell you what kind of goods we think you need, and sell you them as cheaply as they can be bought anywhere.

If you wish to hang the paper yourself or if you want us to hang it come and see us, see our stock and we will get acquainted with each other.
