

SOME OF THE INTERESTING PLANS BEING DEVELOPED FOR 1893.

The history of no previous Exposition attests at so early a date such general interest among all classes of people as to the general character, extent, the benefit that it is believed will follow, and the possibilities for good awaiting agriculturists from the exhibit in the Agricultural Department of the Exposition, as at the present time.

A great advancement has been made since the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition in all branches of farm work. Since that time the Department of Agriculture has been given a position in the Cabinet; has attained a firm foothold in the estimation of the people, and has not only become one of the most prominent of the governmental Departments, but has been productive of most beneficial results to the commerce of our country, and every one engaged in farm-work.

Another advance in agricultural work is the Experiment Stations, that are now connected with the Agricultural Colleges of our Country, supported by the Government, with trained scientists and educators at their head, their work reaching out into all the fields of scientific research, seeking to assist in a practical way those engaged in farm-work and to advance the standard of excellence in this great industry to a foremost place in the estimation of mankind.

In a letter referring to Agriculture and the Exposition, Chief, W. T. Buchanan says:

"The subject of irrigation and its possibilities has, within a few years, become one of intense interest, and it is expected at the coming Exposition to present the subject in such a way that it will attract very great attention, and within the next ten years be the means of reclaiming vast regions supposed heretofore to have no value for farming purposes.

"The great advance made in the study of dairying and the successful breeding of live stock has been one of the marvels of the past decade, and with the impetus that will be given these industries by the proposed Dairy School and the immense Live Stock exhibit at the Exposition, the good result likely to follow cannot be estimated.

"The interest throughout the country in beautifying our road-ways by tree planting, the setting aside by several of our state legislatures of one day in the year to be devoted to the purpose, known as Arbor Day, and the encouragement given this excellent practice in our common schools; the popularity of, and interest taken in Farmers' Institutes throughout the country by the Farming community, are all indicative of the rapid advancement that has been made in agricultural pursuits since the Philadelphia Central Exposition.

"The coming Exposition will be, as it were, the focusing point at which all the best results, the thought, intelligence, and energy of those interested in the great problems connected with the agricultural life will be centered. As an instance, the question of the production of sugar from sorghum and the sugar beet is one that is attracting great interest in many sections of the country, notably in the west. The Experiment Stations in connection with the Agricultural Department at Washington are devoting time and attention to this work, and the results that will be shown in '93 at the exposition, as what can be done with an acre of ground devoted to producing sugar from these products, will be a source of wonder and amazement to the visitor. It will attract attention to the localities adapted to this industry, and will be the means of building factories and other industries connected with the production of sugar in this manner.

"The South, until recently supposed to be devoted entirely to the production of certain crops, will be represented at the Exposition by so great a variety of products that one will cease to wonder at the great material advancement made by that part of our agricultural area.

"One purpose of the Exposition of 1893 is to show to the assembled world such a magnificent result of the energy, advancement and culture of our agricultural population, such an overwhelming illustration of the unending variety, and the untold wealth of our natural resources that it will be one of the most lasting monuments to the success of the Exposition.

"For the first time in the history of Expositions, a magnificent building is to be devoted entirely to the use of agricultural organizations, with a splendid auditorium or lecture-room in which to meet and deliberate, where all of the great topics connected with the work engaged in by agriculturists can be discussed, and from which will go out results that will be far-reaching, and of inestimable value and benefit to our country.

New Fish Law.

Following is the new fish law, relating to bass, pike and pickerel, as it passed both houses of the Legislature: "No person shall catch or kill, in any of the rivers, waters or streams of this Commonwealth, any black bass or wall-eyed pike under six inches in length, or any rock bass under five inches in length under a penalty of ten dollars for every fish so caught. But should any such fish be taken of less size than the above, or should any wall-eyed pike or rock bass of any size be taken from the waters in which they have been introduced within two years from the passage of this act, it shall be the duty of any one taking or capturing the same to return the fish immediately to water from whence taken, and no person shall by any means or device whatever catch or kill in any of the waters of this State any pike or pickerel between the first day of February and the first day of June in any year. Any violation of this section shall subject the offender to a penalty of ten dollars for each and every fish so caught."

A Ninety-Year-Old Son.

A man 90 years old going home to visit his mother and father, was at the Union Depot last night. If his story is true, Julius Schneider, of Washington, Pa., has a family whose length of life will go on the records. He is a German, and went to New York, thence to sail for the Fatherland. He says his father and mother live in Leipzig, and are 114 and 112 years old, respectively. He had his ticket for New York, and appeared plentifully supplied with money. Notwithstanding his years, Mr. Schneider was far from showing the infirmities of age. His hair was snow white, but a bloom still freshened his cheek, showing his rare vitality. He has been in the tannery business in Washington county for many years. If he arrives safely at his birthplace he will remain there to end his days.—Pittsburg Times.

Mehoopany people are considerably excited over the prospects of a monstrous lumbering and tannery scheme. Davage and Co., of Berkshire, N. Y., representing a great English syndicate, have secured an option on the Ricketts tract, comprising about 16,000 acres of timberland lying along the Mehoopany Saturday looking the ground over with a view of building a huge tannery at that place, provided they purchase the tract. They will also build a standard gauge railroad back to Forkston, by way of Jenningsville, by which lumber and bark will be brought down to the Lehigh Valley Road. This will necessitate a bridge across the river, which it is proposed to build as a combination railroad and wagon bridge. The tannery will probably be located on the east side of the river, near the depot. Jennings Bros., of Lopez, will doubtless cut the timber, and will erect a huge mill for that purpose back in the woods. The plan, if it materializes, will be a big boom for the lumbering interests of Wyoming county.

Catarrh Can't Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

A Burglar Captured

This morning about two o'clock, John Wood, the well-known plumber who resides on Main Street, was awakened by hearing glass break. On getting out of bed he received a blow on the head. He immediately grappled with the burglar, and after a terrible struggle succeeded in holding him until his wife obtained help. On being searched at the station, Mr. Wood's watch and wallet was found on his person. He gave the name as Robert Terry. The broken glass proved to be a bottle of Sulphur Bitters which had almost cured Mrs. Wood of rheumatism.—Exchange. 5-29-21.

The Much-Traveled Irishman

"This twelve months since I came to America the fortune of me uncle to enjoy. Bless his name! Where he left me the whole as it is. And in his will he said, 'Now Pat, me boy, ye're ought to spend a solid year in travelin'. The great world at this country for to see. And sure me uncle didn't need to urge me to catch for travelin' is a trick that just suits me.

So I've traveled over all this mighty nation from north to south and from the east to west; I've traveled both on land and on the water. But sure the railroad travelin' suited me best. And of all the nice railroads in America, And myself sure has traveled on them all. The one that heads the list for solid comfort is the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul.

Both for sittin' and for drinkin' and for shapin'. Their equipment is most costly and complete. There is splendor enough for old King Solomon. And dainties for his thousand wives to see. O! I've traveled all up and down America. The railroads and the shiteamboats tried them all. But there's nothing can compare in solid comfort with the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul.

The New Moon.

"How is it your Tommy is so small for his age, Mrs. Briggs?" "O, the little dear always was a shrinking child," exclaimed his mother.

Bennie: "Mamma, do people really buy babies?" Mamma: "Of course, child, of course. Run out now and play." Bennie, in a brown study: "Then why is it, mamma, that poor people buy more of 'em than anybody else?"

Aunt: "Didn't you get another thrashing in school to-day?" Johnny: "Yes, indeed I did; but it didn't hurt a bit." Aunt: "Did you cry?" Johnny: "Yes, I bellered like everything; but I only did it to humor the teacher."

A little girl, who had mastered her catechism, confessed herself disappointed, "because," she said, "though I obey the fifth commandment and honor my papa and mamma, yet my days are not a bit longer in the land, because I am put to bed at seven o'clock."

Willie, regretfully: "I'd like just awfully to kiss you, Gracie, but I s'pect it wouldn't do. You know your mamma said you mustn't never kiss the boys." Gracie: "Yes, that's what she said. That is, it's about what she said. I member just as well. She says to me, she says: 'Gracie, don't you ever let me see you kissin' the boys.' Mamma, she's gone over to Mrs. Billy's."

There is a smart little boy of our acquaintance whose memory is a good deal like his trousers pocket,—a receptacle for all sorts of odds and ends, which are retained with no little pertinacity, but in more or less picturesque disorder. Things pop up now and then in an odd way. The other night this little boy undertook to say his prayers before going to bed. He began all right,—

Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray the Lord my soul to keep; If I should— Here he "got stuck" for a moment, and seemed to be groping around for the remainder of the lines. And then all at once, he steamed ahead— If I should chance to fall below Demosthenes or Cicero, I pray the Lord my soul to take.

A mother on Delaware Avenue was giving her son, a boy of seven years, some Bible instruction. She was telling him the story of Adam's fall. Having narrated the tale of the apple and what mischief it did, the mother asked, "Now don't you think Adam did very wrong to eat the apple?" The little fellow thought a moment and then answered, "Mamma, would it, have been polite to refuse the apple when the lady offered it to him?"

"What do you want, boy?" "Ma sent me after a tourist's guide." "Sure your mother sent you?" "O yes, and she wants to know the name of the best hotel at Long Branch, and the price per day." "Going to the seashore?" "No, sir. We're going out to spend two weeks in the Country at my Uncle William's, but ma wants to post up on Long Branch and be able to tell everybody what hotel we stopped at and how expensive it was."

What it Costs.

Must be carefully considered by the great majority of people, in buying even necessities of life. Hood's Sarsaparilla commends itself with special force to the great middle classes, because it combines positive economy with great medicinal power. It is the only medicine of which can truly be said "100 Doses One Dollar," and a bottle taken according to directions will average to last a month.

Scrofula and Salt Rheum. The heritage of which every human being is almost certain to be heir of air, sunlight and breath, is Scrofula Humor. Far away in the realm of history we catch glimpses of what a curse upon the people this all-prevalent contamination made itself. Poor diet and insufficient food, ill ventilation, filth and dampness, all assist the slumbering germs of Scrofula to overpower the vitality of the body and run riot in the system. The blood in its process of renewing the waste cannot expel any inherited taint of weakness or impurity. It can only be removed by the action of some purifying medicinal agency, which assisted by nutritious food, well digested and assimilated into blood, gradually insures the possession of sound health. Such a renovating remedy has Brown's Sarsaparilla given rise to Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Liver Complaints, or Kidney Diseases, which are the most frequent manifestations of its presence, all have readily yielded to the clean and purifying action of Brown's Sarsaparilla.

Cured by the Use of. SALT RHEUM. On Davis Street, in Bangor, resides Mrs. Edwin Wiley, whose daughter was badly afflicted with Salt Rheum. At times her face and hands would be covered with blotches. So intense was the itching sensation that applications of salt were made to destroy it. For a long time no relief could be obtained. One day some one suggested Brown's Sarsaparilla, and a bottle was purchased. Later Mrs. Wiley brought her daughter to the establishment of Mr. Amos Warren where Brown's Sarsaparilla was made. The face that a short time previous was covered with blotches, burning and itching, presented a fair and smooth appearance as that of any young lady. LESS THAN ONE BOTTLE WAS USED.
