WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, D. C. June 22, 1891 The terrible effects of the crime of "check kiting" by private individuals should have been sufficient to have prevented the Treasurer of the United States from engaging in the reprehensible practice, but they were not. For two days there were checks outstanding against the Treasury amounting to nearly one million dollars more than the amount of cash available to pay them therein. Thus the much-denied deficit made its debut. Some people believe that Secretary Foster, by di-recting these checks to be issued when he knew that there were no available funds in the Treasury to meet them, so far exceeded his authority as to lay himself to impeachment. It would be no excuse to say that he expected the money to pay them to be in the Treasury before they were presented for payment-that's the excuse of all the "check-kiters." Let the fact be remembered that republicans high and low, big and little, have persisted in saying that there would be no deficit, and that for two days there was a deficit, one day amounting to $787,108, and the next to a little less. t is not surprising that Secretary Foser was anxious to extend the $50,000,- lay greatest stress is that the heavy 000 of 41 per cent bonds which will disbursments for June are past, and mature next September. #### For The Presidency.

The apostle of protection, Colonel McKinley, has fairly begun his cam-paign for the presidency. Ohio politicians could do no less than gratify his desire to be the gubernatorial nominee of his party, and this to Mr. McKinley means not simply a chance to win the governorship, but an opportunity to gain Sherman's seat in the senate with when they returned to power had en- a very good show for the presidential nomination.

In Mr. McKinley the Republican party has one of the best representatives of its principles. The Republiculty. The statement was due, the figures could not be altered. The expenditures: Mr. McKinley, has figures could not be altered. The truth, therefore, must be told, bad as never opposed this. It favors party it was and as humiliating to the auth- domination in selection of departmental officials and clerks; Mr. Mc-Kinley has been consistent in his practical opposition to genuine civil service reform. The Republican party, above all else, favors a tariff that prevents consumers from buying the best goods in the cheapest markets; Mr. McKinley has made his public reputation as a Chinese wall advocate. Mr. McKinley, therefore, is a natural leader for the party of public extrava-gance, of office-grabbing inclinations, of market narrowing purposes. Mr. Blaine broken in physical health and no longer of sufficient mental strength to direct a great party, Mr.

McKinley is the proper leader. The result in Ohio next November will settle or strengthen his presidential chances. Because of that Ohio is to be made a national battle-ground. It will be a hot and protracted contest between the monopolists and the people, between the power of money and the force of principle. We be-lieve principle and the people will win. -Patriot.

cumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifes ations usually ascribed to "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

the remarkable cures it has accomplished often when other medicines have falled, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. "My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Marsh is Still Missing-

HUNDREDS OF MEN SCOURING THE WOODS AND SWAMPS TO FIND HIM.

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—District Attorney Graham returned from Spring Lake this morning, but would add very little to what is already known of the alleged presence of Marsh at that place, and the assault npon "Max Freeman," the mysterious Philadelphia detective.

He, however, gave an encouraging report of "Freemans" condition, and said that it was now believed that he would recover from the effects of the terrible blow given him by his assailant. While it was at first feared that if the blow did not cause death the victim would lose the use of his lower limbs, his physician now thinks he will eventually recover.

"Max Freeman" as the detective has chosen to be known, is one of the brightest and ablest of the Philadelphia newspaper men. His right name is Thomas Garside, and previous to his coming to this city and entering upon newspaper work he was, as Professor Garside, generally known as a labor specialty of folk lore have lately been agitator, and had a reputation which of the Times, where he soon won recognition as a bright and capable re-

That the man he was after at Spring Lake was Marsh there seems to be no doubt. Garside, during the Keystone bank run, was at work on the story, and met Marsh frequently. Since that time, through all the interesting developements, he has been at work on the case. With his knowledge of the inside workings of the Keystone bank he had but little trouble in tracing Marsh to Spring Lake, led to this conclusion by his knowledge of the intimacy between Yard and the fugitive bank president. Garside by his friends is known to be a man brave and fearless to a fault, and his rash attempt to arrest the man he believes to have been Marsh, practically unaided, causes no

Mr. Graham had as long an interview with Garside as his condition would allow, and the injured man told all he knew. The district attorney learned enough at once to send to this city for detectives, and three of Chief Wood's men are now at Spring Lake searching for the men who were at the lonely cottage at Como and from one of whom Garside received his inuries. One of these men the authoriies are convinced is Marsh. Garside caught a glimpse of him as he was disappearing in the darkness, and is confident it was Marsh.

It is now thought that Marsh has aken to the swamps or woods, and hundreds of men are scouring the country in search of him.

Ballot Reform Legislation Signed-

The Governor has signed the Constitutional Convention and the Baker ballot reform bills, thus giving final effect to all the ballot reform legislation of the recent session. Of the three bills passed the only one which takes immediate effect, that requiring a new and original assessment of the voters, was signed on the day of ad-journment and the enrollment of the voters is now in progress under its provisions.

The Baker bill does not go into effect until the fall election of 1892, the elections for this fall and next February being held under the present law. The Constitutional Convention will depend entirely on the voters at the coming election, they being requirfever. It is a genuine malady, though more disagreeable than serious. Yet it should be taken note of. While the ploits at that time the New York paths to decide whether a convention shall be held or not. At the same time 177 delegates are to be elected, 27 at large and 150 by Senatorial dis-

This fact alone will make the coming election one of the most important ever held in this Commonwealth. In the choice of so important a body of men the greatest care should be exercised. In view of the many interests in favor of a Constitutional Convention it will be the part of wisdom for the people of all parties to assume that a convention will be held and make their choice of delegates accordingly. Peanut politics should be ignored in their selection, and both parties should put forward only candidates of first class qualifications and the highest character. Small politicians should not be entrusted with the business of making or murdering constitutions .-

That tired feeling now so often heard of, is entirely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives mental and bodily strength.

Never mind! Never mind what the people say, it is a fact nevertheless that the Popular News Agent, has added to an already well selected stock of Games, Books Novels, &c., wall paper, beautiful designs and at very reasonable prices. Call and examine just a few doors below Market street
