Items Which Are of Particular Interest to Pennsylvanians.

IN THIS AND NEARBY COUNTIES.

Brief Mention of Matters Which Everybody Should Know About—A Weekly's Accidents and Crimes Accurately and Concisely Chronicled.

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—Judge Butler has filed an opinion that the balance held by the centennial board of finance should be distributed among the stockholders. The fund amounts to $13,101.61, and as there are 13,915 stockholders widely scattered the dividend will amount to but two or three cents a share to each. It had been proposed to donate the fund either to the Pennsylvania museum or the Historical society.

Burned in an Oil Explosion.
PITTSBURGH, June 30.—An explosion at the Forest Oil company's well at Corapolis completely wrecked the derrick and boilerhouse and terribly burned two oil drillers named Winger.

He Robbed His Fiance.
NEW CASTLE, July 1.—Miss Emma Brunter stepped from a Pittsburg and Lake Erie train at New Castle Junction very disconsolate. She had promised to marry Lewis Richardson, and had started with him to go to Pittsburg, where they were to be married. Richardson stole her pocketbook, rings and watch, and left the train near Youngstown. Her pocketbook contained all her money, about $100.

Three Hundred Workmen Thrown Out.
HUNTINGTON, July 1.—The big Huntington Manufacturing company, controlled by the Iron Car Equipment company, of New York, has indefinitely suspended operations. Three hundred men are thrown out of employment. It is rumored that the plant will be removed to Tennessee.

Fifty-eight Went Back.
PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—Dobson's plush mills were started up and fifty-eight weavers resumed work. The number returning to work is small compared with the 468 who went out. The strikers held a meeting and resolved to remain out until their original object is secured.

Seminary Building in Flames.
LANCASTER, July 1.—The Cedar Hill seminary buildings, Mount Joy, were burned Tuesday.

They Signed at Last.
PITTSBURGH, July 1.—After a conference, which ended after midnight, the iron manufacturers' committee of the western district signed the western iron scales of the Amalgamated association for the year, which begins today.

One Thousand Men Strike.
POTTSVILLE, July 1.—The 1,000 employes at the Pottsville Steel and Iron company's works struck at midnight because William Atkins, president of the company, refused to sign the western scale of wages.

The Wrecked Spring Garden Bank.
PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—General Fisher, the receiver of the Spring Garden National bank, says that the estimate made by him some time ago that the assets of the institution would pay upward of 50 per cent, appears to be well founded.

Out at Norristown.
NORRISTOWN, July 2.—The puddlers and heaters employed in the rolling mills of James Hooen have struck on account of his refusal to sign the Amalgamated association scale.

Buicced Out of $3,000.
GREENVILLE, July 2.—Mr. William Mizener, a wealthy farmer of West Salem township, has been buicced out of $3,000 by two confidence men, who succeeded in getting him to play three card monte.

Found Dead in the Park.
PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—Samson Simon, of the firm of Simon Bros. & Co., extensive cloak manufacturers of 624 Market street, was found dead in Fairmount park. His death is supposed to have been caused by heart disease.

Pennsylvania's World Fair Plans.
HARRISBURG, July 2.—Edwin H. Williams has been appointed to serve on the World's fair commission by Governor Pattison in place of George Burnham, of Philadelphia, who declined the appointment. An organization has been effected by the commission by the election of Governor Pattison as president; Lieutenant Governor V. Waters, vice president; R. E. Wright, Allentown, secretary, and John Mundell, Philadelphia, treasurer. The style of the building to be erected was discussed, but no action was taken.

He Shot the Foreman.
SHAMOKIN, July 3.—A newsboy fatally injured Foreman Charles Fowler, of The Daily Dispatch, by accidentally discharging a revolver.

Still Fighting the Clothiers.
PITTSBURGH, July 3.—James Hughes, of the Garment Cutters' union, Rochester, N. Y., was in Pittsburg several days this week. The object of his visit seems to have been to get the Pittsburg clothing houses to withdraw their patronage from the Rochester clothing firms. All of the Pittsburg clothiers admit having seen Hughes.

An Insane Mother's Crime.
PITTSBURGH, July 4.—Mrs. Harry Mimmer, of the South Side, while laboring under an attack of religious insanity, attempted to kill her eight-month-old babe by hitting it on the head with a hatchet. Mrs. Mimmer says her child was a second Christ and it was her duty to kill it. The baby cannot live.

Bardsley Is Writing Something.
PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—Since ex-Treasurer Bardsley's sentence he spends many hours in writing, but the prison officials have no idea of the nature of the subject which is being treated. By his pen, he appears to employ much time and give great care to revising, and it is surmised that he has in preparation a supplemental statement for the public.

Monuments Dedicated.
GETTYSBURG, July 6.—The monument recently erected by the Seventy-second regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, in the "Bloody Angle" has been dedicated. Captain John Reed presided at the ceremonies. The monument of Martin's Sixth Independent New York battery, horse artillery, was also dedicated. Captain J. W. Martin, of Railway, N. J., delivered the opening address.

Almost Beaten to Death.
ENRIE, July 6.—Mr. Henry D. Young, a well known business man of this county while on his way home was attacked and beaten almost to death and robbed. He was found late in the night and rallied sufficiently to relate his story, but his recovery is not expected.

THE BIRTH OF TOMBSTONE.

How the Arizona Town Came to Get Its Extraordinary Name.
When the late Matthew Arnold was in this country he took exceptions, among other things, to the names of our cities. So did Historian Froude. They said we went to the classics and outraged history for cognomens to designate dugouts and "boom" towns. Their cultured souls were affected.

But they never heard of Tombstone, Arizona. That is an American name. The effete east would never have thought of such an appropriation. How did it come by the funeral title? This is a question that is asked almost every time the town is mentioned and but few are able to answer.

Conjectures, and they are many, are put to rest under a tombstone, it might be said, by the aid of Mr. C. C. Warner, of the Contention mine, Tombstone, who agreed to relate to a reporter yesterday how it received its Western name. Mr. Warner has been in Tombstone almost since its inception and passed through Denver yesterday on his return from Canon City.

"It's quite as simple and natural as the name is strange and queer how it received its christening," he said. "I received two brothers—one, and probably both, living yet—by the name of Al and Ed. Schefflen. (You will observe that there is a connection between the names and the town—shuffling off the mortal coil and then the Tombstone.) Well, it's not often that I perpetrate a joke, but this Colorado air makes a fellow do many strange things. But I am wandering. The Schefflens were, of course, prospectors, and kept hanging about there for some time without doing much. The Apache Indians were around pretty thick. Finally one day Ed. Schefflen prepared to start out on a prospecting tour up the gulch. His brother tried to persuade him to abandon his project, pointing out that the Indians would devour him or that he would get lost in the ravine; but all to no purpose. Just as he was about to start he told his brother to look after a piece of rock that he had found near the camp.

"Yes, I will use it for your tombstone," said Al, sadly, and away went the more go ahead brother.

"Time passed, but there were no tidings of the foolhardy brother. Weeks went and he did not put in an appearance. The brother, true to his promise, proceeded to carve in rude letters in the quartz rock an inscription which ran:

SACRED TO THE MEMORY OF ED. SCHEFFLEN. He went prospecting to a new country.

"The brother was sorry for the loss, but then he had warned him and it could not be helped. The Indians had scalped him.

"About a week after he had finished his job and put it in front of the tent, in jumped the brother, wild looking, but beaming with joy.

"Shake, old man, I have found it," he said to the stay at home; "it's lying all around." He then began to empty his pockets of the glittering quartz that he had taken to prove his statement. And it was so.

"Away up in the gulch he had found one of the richest mining grounds in the territory. But he was always a peculiar cuss, this Ed. He and his brother and a man named Gurd started out for the place with supplies and tools. He named this mine the Toughtnut because he had found it pretty hard after he had discovered it. There were times when he would have sold it for a drink of water. The next one they discovered they called the Goodenough mine. When they came to the next one they had a little falling out, and he named it the Contention. The latter is the one I am interested in. These were all disposed of by him for a handsome sum. And he is now a three times millionaire.

"The tombstone is one of his choicest relics, and he would not part with it for its weight in gold. Many attempts have been made to change the town by 'boomers,' who argue that the strange and gruesome title keeps out Eastern capital, and by the new comers. Legislators have been elected pledged to introduce a bill for that purpose, but Ed. with his money is always on hand to oppose it."—(Denver Re. ublian.

An Old New Orleans Custom.
If you have plenty time to loaf and observe everything that passes before your gaze you will notice on nearly every post in the French quarters there are little handbills tacked up and bearing the heading "Decede." Beneath this there is additional printing, all, however, in French. These are death notices, which seemed to be used instead of the newspapers to announce the inevitable hand of the funerals, etc., and the name of the deceased. As a general thing these notices are tacked up all over the French section in an hour after the person has died. I noticed several upon which the printers' ink had scarcely dried, and which announced the demise of some unfortunate which had taken place only a few minutes before.

Gray Hair Coming in Style.
There is a rumor that in the coming season gray hair will be de rigueur for those desirous of trending closely in the footsteps of fashion. Black, red, and gold are to be entirely superseded by the grizzly shade, and hair restorers which, being absolutely colorless, undertake to "restore" the natural shade of fading tresses will for the time be things of the past. I find, however, that this report is not looked on with favor by hairdressers, who, in spite of the fact that powdered hair usually lends beauty to the plainest face, declare that gray locks are particularly unbecoming.—(Paris Letter to Philadelphia Telegraph.

After we have called a man a fool it always pleases us to have him get mad and prove it.—(Binghamton Republican.

Dear Sirs—Last Summer I cured a Curb upon my horse with your celebrated Kendall's Spavin Cure and it was the best job I ever saw done. I have a dozen empty bottles, having used it with perfect success, curing every thing I tried it on. My neighbor had a horse with a very bad spavin that made him lame. He asked me how to cure it. I recommended Kendall's Spavin Cure. The man is now entirely free from lameness and shows no bump on the joint.
