Hon. John B. Packer, of Sunbury, died suddenly at his home in that place on Tuesday night. He was a prominent attorney, and President of the Sunbury National Bank. His wife was a daughter of the late William Cameron and a sister of Mrs. Dr. F. C. Harrison, formerly of Bloomsburg. Mr. Packer served in the State Legislature, and was in Congress for several terms.

Horse Killed.

Frank Chromis, of Bloomsburg, drove to this place on the Fourth to visit his brother-in law A. B. Pifer, the Penn'a R. R. agent here. The horse was put in the barn, and a short time afterwards the cow attempted to pass to get to her stall, when the animal, which was a victous one, began kicking at her, and in trying to get away she got her head under him and gored him so badly in the abdomen that the entrals protruded. A veterinary surgeon was summoned from Bloomsburg, but by the time he arrived the only thing to do was to put the animal out of misery which was promptly done by knocking him in the head with an axe .- Catawissa Item.

Abraham Lincoln's Associate in Office Expires Suddenly.

Bangon, Me., July 6.—Ex-Vice President Haunibal Hamilin died at 6:15 p. m. in the rooms of the Tarrantine club in this During the afternoon Mr. Hamlin visited the club rooms and engaged in a game of pedro with several other gentle-Suddenly his head fell forward on his chest. Those present immediately ran to his assistance and he was removed to a lounge and his family and physicians sent for. After an hour's work by the doctors he was somewhat revived and managed to articulate in a feeble manner. After this slight rally he relapsed into unconsciousness again, in which state he remained until his death occurred. Mrs. Hamlin, General Charles Hamlin, his son and wife, and other members of his family were at his side when he passed away. Mr. Ham- the resorts of your city are seldom heard lin has been perceptibly failing for a year past, but appeared about as usual in the afternoon when he walked down town to his club.

Hannibal Hamlin was born in Paris, Oxford county, Me., on Aug. 27, 1809. He sight of the passers by; of course these of which I now speak are the public games death of his father was compelled to abandon his plans and take charge of the farm. At the age of twenty-one he commenced the study of law, and in 1833 was admitted to the bar. In 1836 and in 1840 he was a member of the legislature, and in 1840 was nominated by the Democrats for congress. Again, in 1842, he was placed in nomination. This time he was elected, and was re-elected two years later.

In 1848 he was chosen for a four year term in the senate, but resigned in 1857, having been elected by the Republicans as governor of Maine. Less than a month afterward he resigned this office, having again been elected to the senate, this time for six years. In 1861 he left the senate as a member, having been elected vice president on the ticket with Abraham Lincoln. From March 4, 1861, until March 3, 1865, he presided over the senate, and in the lat-ter year was appointed collector of the port of Boston. For twelve years since 1861 he acted as a regent of the Smithson-ian institution. He was again elected of Boston. For twelve years since and re-elected to the United States senate, serving from March 4, 1869, till March 8, 1881. In June of that year he was appointed minister to Spain, but gave up the office the year following.

Hannibal Hamlin, though originally a Democrat, became a republican because of his anti-slavery ideas. Among the signifi-cant incidents of his long career may be cant incidents of his long career may be mentioned the fact that in the temporary absence of David Wilmot from the house of representatives during the session of the Twenty-ninth congress, at the critical moment when the measure since known as "the Wilmot proviso" had to be presented or irrevocably lost, Mr. Hamlin, while his anti-slavery friends were in the greatest confusion, seeing that a second's delay would prove fatal, offered the bill and secured its passage by a vote of 115 to 106. In common with Abraham Lincoln, Hannibal Hamlin sought to prevent the extension of slavery, not to secure its abolition.

GENERAL GRAHAM DISMISSED.

Governor Bulkeley Has Relieved Him "for the Benefit of the Service." HARTFORD, July 3.—Something of a sensation has been created in military circles by an order issued by Governor Bulkeley directing the dismissal of Briga-dier General Graham, of the militia, from the military service of the state for the benefit of the service. The words "for the benefit of the service" are seldom used, and only in cases where the person whose services are being dispensed with has been guilty of some grave offense, such as dishonesty or drunkenness, hence the sensation. General Graham was relieved from the command of the militia about a year ago by Governor Bulkeley, who at that time gave him an honorable discharge. The senate reinstated him and removed Colonel Thomas L. Watson, who was appointed his successor. The latter is again appointed to the position of brigadier general by Governor Bulkeley. This makes a direct issue between the governor and the senate as to their respective authorities.

Mr. Blaine's Condition.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 7.—Secretary Blaine was out driving twice during the day. Emmons Blaine, who arrived Saturday, says his father has improved wonderfully since he saw him last, ten days ago. It may be stated upon the best authority that the secretary has not either Bright's disease, diabetis or any other kidney com plaint.

Cape May Will Be the Capital. WASHINGTON, July 3.-President Harrison left Washington Friday morning for Cape May and for the next five or six weeks will transact public business at that place. Private Secretary Halford will join him there next week and arrange for telegraphic connection with the executive departments at Washington.

MEXICANS ALL GAMBLE.

It Is the Ruling Crase, and Even Children Indulge in It.

"Gambling is the ruling passion in Mexico," said Charles F. Hughes, of the City of Mexico, who was a Palmer House guest, while on his way to New York.

"Every one, from children 10 and 12 years of age to old men and women, indulge in it. Every member of every class of society tries to win the favor of the fickle goddess Fortune, for gambling is not looked upon by Mexicans as a most glaring vice, as it is by Northerners. The former are more lenient in the matter of public morals. Each saloon has various games of chance, but the whir of the wheel and the click of the ball one notes after passing various zealous guards in there. Monte is the national Mexican game, as faro and poker are the American, and rouge et noir and baccarat the French. Monte tables are run within which I now speak are the public games wherein all who wish may participate. Private games of monte are quite common in some of the homes of the wealthiest citizens of the balmy country. Poker is also a very popular game, and the stakes are frequently very high.
"At one home to which I am often invited there are four admirers of the game, and each one is a shrewd and calculating player. This quartet is com-posed of father, mother, son, and, daughter. Of course the stakes for which they play are only enough 'to make it interesting,' but the fact remains that the parents encourage more or less the youthful members of the family in the fascinating pastime. But instead of looking at the matter in the light of a more rigid disciplinarian, the father, a well to do merchant, often speaks of the clever way in which his daughter-or son, as the case may be-'called his bluff,' and his wife proudly exhibits a dazzling pair of diamond earrings she won from him with a ten high flush.

"In alleys, upon street corners, in old buildings, and in every accessible place, street boys and girls can be found playing with some device for gambling. To take gambling from Mexicans would mean to deprive them of their most fascinating pastime.—[Chicago News.

The Dark Days Before France. Senator Barthelmyst Hilare, minister

of French foreign affairs, in a recent speech said that France was spending 1,500,000 francs for every 1,000,000 francs of income, and this process, he said, has been going on for years. "The upshot of the whole matter," he said, "must be that we shall have to repudiate our debt as we did in the first revolution and start afresh." Referring to the American republic, he said: "I greatly admire the nagnificent manner in which the United States has gone on paying off its tremen-dous debt contracted during the gigantic civil war. We ought to imitate in a modest way the American example. But several circumstances oppose this. In the first place, the wastefulness of our great departments of government is some-thing frightful. While it can not be said that there is any outright stealing of the public funds, the extravagance is tremendous and no government dares incur the langer of the politicians in cleaning out this augean stable." Referring to the State Prison Directors—Francis Wayland, of New Haven; R. T. Hewitt, of Wethersfield; Charles A. Elliott, of Clin-financial policy. We can not reduce our ton, and George Best, of Hartford.
State Board of Charities—Charles S. Canraine difficulty still undecided. What to take those provinces. We would have willingly paid many more millions of francs could we have preserved our territory intact. But France will never abandon Alsace-Lorraine without a strugle, which, when it comes, will be a eadly one. France must win or be faced from the map of Europe, like 'cland. She will fight to the last man, or she will see that her very existence as nation depends on victory, and if she omes off a victor in what an exhausted tate she will probably be left. Then the rdinary financial situation, rendered till more oppressive by the increased expenditures of the supreme struggle, will weigh down upon the bleeding nation and bankruptcy will then be inevitable.

Test This, Everybody.

The Listener observed a very curious and interesting thing the other night. He had occasion to wait for an evening train in the Columbus avenue station. As he entered and sat down there were already eight men and two women sitting on the benches, and, having nothing better to do, the Listener noticed that every one of the men had his leg crossed over his right knee, while it was sufficiently apparent that in the case of the two ladies this state of things was exactly reversed. As the Listener was meditating upon the reason for this curious circumstance, a lady and gentleman entered and sat down; and immediately the gentleman put his left leg over his right knee, while the lady joined her sisters in the room in exactly the same attitude. By and by more men came, and more; and every one of them put his left leg over his right knee, until there were actually 17 men sitting in that position in the little waiting room. Only one more lady came, but she, too, followed exactly the example of the other women. Seventeen men and four women in one room, all with one knee over the other, but the women's and men's crossed in reversed directions. Is there any physiologist who can explain why this should be so?-[Boston Tran-
