BLOODSHED IS PROBABLE

The Governor of Tennessee Calls Out the State Soldiery.

THE MINERS VERSUS THE MILITIA.

Troops Overpowered by Men Who Do Not Wish to Compete with Convict Labor and Driven from the Scene. But They Have All Gone Back Again.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 21.—The crisis in the trouble between the ousted miners in this district and the convicts who were brought here from the state prison at Nashville has at last been reached. When about 400 armed strikers attacked the guards who had charge of fifty felons at Briceville last Wednesday night and liberated the prisoners it was confidently predicted that this would be but the beginning of a general movement throughout the entire mining district of the state. Governor Buchanan was immediately notified and responded by ordering two companies from Chattanooga and one from Knoxville to the scene. Of the fifty convicts taken from the guards at Briceville two escaped and the others were brought to this city. When the militia arrived they took the convicts along back with them and warned the mob that they would protect them at all hazards.

The Law Was at Fault.

Governor Buchanan at once proceeded to the seat of trouble, and in a neat speech explained his position to the rebellious miners. He told them that it was his sworn duty to uphold the law, and if the convict system was wrong he was not to blame, and that the only recourse of the men was through the legislature. The miners announced that their families were starving and that they were compelled to drive out the convicts if it cost the life of every man in the valley. They made all sorts of fun of the handful of feeble soldiers, but declared that they would not harm the "spider legged, cigarette smoking dudes," as they characterized the militia, but as soon as they were withdrawn they would release every convict in the region.

A Massacre Seemed Imminent.

Becoming impatient, however, at the delay in recalling the troops they decided to try to overcome the soldiers by force of numbers. At 10 a. m. 2,000 miners, farmers and other natives who have no occupation at all took possession of the hills around the Briceville camp. Fifteen hundred of these were armed with rifles, the rest had shotguns and pistols. They came from all the mines within a radius of fifty miles. The organization was complete, and their leaders placed them along the hillsides with military precision. At the call to arms the little garrison turned out gallantly and prepared for defense. It was apparent at a glance that a fight would result in a massacre. A meeting of the officers was called.

The Hostile Forces Parley.

Some declared that a stout resistance to the first attack would be sufficient and the mob would withdraw. Others thought that it would be suicidal, yet every one was in favor of doing his duty, notwithstanding the exposed position they were to defend. The miners called a parley and were met on neutral ground by Colonel Sevier. They stated that they had sufficient force to overwhelm the soldiers, but did not care to shed blood if the convicts were quietly turned over to them. This request was emphatically refused. The miners then asked Colonel Sevier if he would remove his troops and take the convicts with him. He asked what would be done to the mining company's property, which was also under his protection. They replied that it would not be injured. He also asked if an attack would be made on the Knoxville iron company's stockade just below Briceville. If such was intended he intended to fall back there and fight it out regardless of consequences. The leader replied that no attack would be made.

Then the Troops Evacuated.

The troops then marched out of camp, carrying with them the convicts, all their commissary supplies and baggage. They marched to Briceville and there took the train to Knoxville. The promise not to attack the Knoxville company's stockade has already been violated and the 150 convicts at that place were put on a train and sent to Knoxville. The mob then started for Oliver Springs, where they also intend liberating the prisoners. The whole of Eastern Tennessee is in sympathy with the miners.

The Militia Badly Treated.

Troops from Briceville arrived here at 4 o'clock. They are all in good spirits and will return in the morning with reinforcements. The boys were badly treated by the people of Knoxville, who seemed to be in perfect sympathy with the lawless element in Coal Creek Valley.

The State's Entire Militia Called Out.

Governor Buchanan, who has been guided by the utmost caution since the troubles began, at once decided to call out the entire militia of the state, and for that purpose he immediately telegraphed each company and instructed General J. L. Weakly to arrange railroad transportation for them. Each company was ordered to secure three days' rations. Tents and blankets were issued from the Capitol and sent down by the special train. The train pulled out at 6 o'clock with three Nashville companies, a Springfield company and one from Franklin on board, and they will pick up along the line companies from Murfreesboro, Shelbyville, Tullahoma and Sewanee. Clarksville and Lebanon companies passed through later and four companies from Memphis and one from Jackson are also en route on another special train. There are fourteen companies in all, comprising 450 men, and 100 will be taken on at Chattanooga.

Spying on the Governor.

A number of the leaders in the mob were in the city getting all the information they could of the intentions of the governor. Some of these men returned to Coal Creek on the 8:30 train and others remained in the city. Excitement here seems to be increasing every minute and thousands are on the streets. A big effort is being made for a rousing labor meeting tonight.

The Reorganization of Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 21.—The movement to retain the Syracuse club in the Eastern association took definite shape last night. A meeting of business men was held at which it was decided to organize a stock company to carry on the baseball club. A committee was appointed to solicit subscriptions to stock. President White is in town and will remain until the matter is settled. The Syracuse will play its scheduled games in the meantime.

A Perpetual Debt.

The Republican leaders have evidently adopted as their own the theory that "a National debt is a National blessing."

Secretary Foster, who is just now engaged in extending rather than in paying the maturing 4½ per cents, says in a recent interview: "I am considering the advisability of converting the 4's in time in the same way."

Indeed! And so the continuance of the $50,000,000 of maturing bonds is to be followed by a perpetuation of the more than $500,000,000 of the bonds which fall due in 1907? Debt-paying as to stop that the demands of Billion-Dollar Congress may be met!

Nor is this all. The last Congress heaped to the $150,000,000 point that new form of debt, indefinite in amount and duration, required annually to pay pensions. It also voted sugar bounties and steamship subsidies, which will call for nearly $20,000,000 annually for years to come.

If a National debt is a National blessing, the party in power has ordained that this country shall be abundantly blessed.—World.

Amelia Rives' Silence.

The literary event of the summer in the United States will be the publication in the Cosmopolitan Magazine of a short novel by Amelia Rives, which she calls "According to St. John." It is said to be the strongest work from the pen that produced "A Brother to Dragons" and "The Quick or the Dead." Its publication in the Cosmopolitan is a guarantee that it will contain nothing of the kind that excited criticism in Miss Rives' earlier productions.

During her two years' residence abroad, Mrs. Chanler has written nothing else for the public, and this product of her matured mind may be expected to register with something like exactness, this author's position in the world of letters.

Murdered.

The body of Julius Baer was found by freighters five miles west of here Tuesday morn, in a terribly mangled condition. His head and face were smashed, so as to be hardly recognized, and numerous wounds were found on his body. Mr. Baer was agent for the great blood medicine, Sulphur Bitters. Robbery was undoubtedly the motive, as he was well known to have a large sum of money on his person. As we go to press there is no clue to the perpetrators.—Colorado Press. 7-24-21.

Lady Macdonald as an Author.

Just before her bereavement, Lady Macdonald, widow of the late Sir John Macdonald, completed her first ambitious literary effort in a series of articles for The Ladies Home Journal, the first one of which will appear in the August number of that periodical. Last summer Lady Macdonald, with a party of friends, traveled in her private car through the most picturesque parts of Canada, and in a delightfully fresh manner she describes her experiences on this trip, in these articles to which she has given the title of "An Unconventional Holiday." A series of beautiful illustrations, furnished by Lady Macdonald, will accompany the articles.

The first book to be published by Harper & Brothers under the new copyright law is the life of The Right Honorable William E. Gladstone, by G. W. E. Russel. This is the fourth volume in the new series of political biographies entitled "The Queen's Prime Ministers," edited by Stuart J. Reid, of which the other three are devoted to Lord Beaconsfield, Sir Robert Peel, and Viscount Melbourne. Being written from personal acquaintance with the career of Mr. Gladstone, the present volume may confidently be regarded as the most accurate and impartial biography of the great statesman that has yet been published.
