Two Centuries Linked-

THE FIRST AND THE NINETEENTH JOINED EV THE SUPERB "LAST DAVS OF POMPEH"

Scranton and Pompeii will be brought together at an early date, thus linking the first and the nineteenth centuries. In other words, Scranton has secured Paine's "Last Days of Pompeii" for the season, beginning on Tuesday, July 28. Then, on each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday thereafter for four weeks, the unrivalled spectacle of the destruction of the doomed city by an eruption of Vesuvius will be presented. Half rates have been granted by all the railroads leading to Scranton, the admission will be at the popular price of 50 cents, and every arrangement will be thoroughly complete. Some idea of this wonderful attraction can be had from the following paragraph in a representative western paper, the St. Louis Chronicle : "The Last Days of Pompeii" pre-sents a series of wonderful pictures, reproducing faithfully the life, manners, costumes, sports, etc., of classic times. The athletic games and contests, in which a number of celebrated wrestlers and pugitists display their manly forms, and contend for the favors of the audience, are particularly exciting, while the final thrilling scene, in which the eruption of Mount Vesuvius is so magnificently pictured, and the total destruction of their fair city takes place, arouses the large audience night after night to the greatest enthusiasm. Several hundred persons take part in the performance, which is given in the large space below the vast tiers of seats, from every one of which a good view can be had. The weather thus far has been very propitious, and the performances have gone off splendidly,

From Bad to Worse.

The ordinary treatment of contagious blood poisoning is to drive one poison from the system by introducing another. The result, in most cases, has been that which usually follows a leap from the frying-pan into the fire. To put it mildly, mercurial and other mineral poisonings have disadvantages which are hardly less serious than contageous blood poison. In either case the system is wrecked; and yet there is no reason why humanity should continue to suffer. It is the office of S. S. S. to cure contagious blood posioning. For that disease the medicine is surely a specific. And it is also its office to cure mercurial and other mineral poisioning. In short, S. S. S. is the great blood purifier. It destroys the germs of the contagious disease, and expels from the system all forms of mineral poisoning. It restores health and strength to the suffer.

"AMBITIOUS PIGMIES

Rearing on their hind legs emitting oceans of elaborate duliness," is what a French critic calls those "smart Alses" that habitually exploit their ignorance. Many such have denied that scrofulous and specific blood poisons are curable, when the Cactus Blood Cure has a history of 300 years in Brazil, and two years in this country, as an infalli-ble remedy.
