MR. E. WAS SURE HE WAS THE ONLY MAN IN THE COUNTRY WHO COULD PROPERLY PUT DOWN A NEW CARPET-AFTER A TER-RIFIC STRUGGLE HE FI-NALLY ABANDON-ED THE FIELD TO MRS. B.

"They finally brought up that bedstead this afternoon," said Mrs. Bowser after dinner the other evening.

"Did, ch?" Just a week since you picked it out, isn't it ' "Only four days."

"Curious how everybody takes ad-vantage of you. They wouldn't have dared fool me that way ! "That-that carpet isn't down yet."

"There's another specimen of your style of running things ! The infernal falsifiers agreed to be here two months ago !"

"Oh, no, dear. They said some time this week."

"And they'll fool around till September! Mrs. Bowser, 1 don't want to find fault with you, but I do wish you knew more about business. You let everybody walk on you as if you were a worm of the earth.

"But can I bring the men up here ?" she protested.

ness way. If I should let you have full swing here, where do you suppose we'd land at the end of six months ! However, I will show those carpet men that they can't fool with Jonas J. Bowser, no matter what excuse they can palm off on his wif?. I'll slip up and put that carpet down in about seven minutes."

"You-you don't mean it?" she gasped.

"Certainly, I do. I don't care about saving a dollar or two, but 1 propose to assert my independence. Where's the hammer ?" "I wish vou wouldn't. A carpet has got to be nicely put down." "Exactly. I have seen one or two carpets in my life! Where's the tacks ?" "But, I know how it will end." she persisted. "You'll get tired out, get mad, and then"

"And then, what?" "But, remember, it is against my wishes. If anything happens don't blame me. "When did I ever blame you?

When did anything ever happen? She gave it up, and he removed his coat, vest, necktie and collar and disappeared up stairs. The carpet lay in a heap on the floor, and he unrolled it, pushed up his sleeves and was about to begin work when Mrs. Bowser opened the door and observed:

"I don't see how you are to get it down without a stretcher."

"Perhaps not. There are a great many things in this world for you and every other wife to learn, Mrs. Bowser.

heard the sound of the tack hammer. was the highest inhabited place in the She stood it for five or six minutes, and world. Arthur E. Pearce, an engineer along one side, but she called out :

actly a fit the other way 1 I told you "Mrs. Bowser," he began, as he crossed his hands behind his back and gazed at her with a benign expression, "do I run this house or do you ?"

"Well, I suppose you do." "Very well. When man was creat-ed the idea was that he should run the house. That's how he came to know so much more than woman. If I am not competent, however-if you have put dwon fifteen or twenty million carpets, and I never saw one in my life, why, you'd better finish this job and ask the court to appoint a guardian over me !"

"Hadn't you better wait till morning to finish it?

"Not by a jug full ! I'll put'er down if it kills me stone dead !

He banged the door after her as she went out, and when he grabbed hold of the carpet and ripped it up it seemed as if the house lifted up a foot or more.

"Darn ye, I'll wallop ye to rags to pay for this !" she heard him growl as she listened at the door.

He whirled the carpet around the right way, upset his saucer of tacks and bunched the lining all up in a heap ; and as he moved about he suddenly uttered another whoop and hobbled about on one leg. She knew this was the last straw and she fled. On her way downstairs she heard the win-"How is it that everything I order gets here on the minute ! Because, Mrs. Bowser, I do business in a busicame downstairs with his eyes as big as onions and his face as red as paint, and as soon as he could he shouted : "Your old carpet is down, Mrs.

Bowser-down out of the window!" "Didn't I tell you before you begun. that "No! You wanted it down !" "Didn't I say you'd get mad and blame"-"Never! Mrs. Bowser, this is the last time I ever lift my hand to do anything around this house! I've rubbed more'n a yard of hide off my knees, skinned both elbows and driven thirteen thousand tacks into my feet, besides getting a crick in my back which will lay me up the rest of my life ?" "But I told you in the very beginning that"-

"That you wanted the carpet down! It is down! I am down! That ends it? I'll nail the old room up with sidewalk spikes, and if you even ask me in the future to sharpen a leadpencil I won't be responsible for my actions ! Mrs. Bowser, good night ?" And as he limped upstairs and threw himself on the bed with a jar which shook the house and stopped the kitchen clock she heard him groan: "And this comes from having a wife who doesn't know anything about managing a house !
