POULTRY NOTES.

No. 26.

Have plenty of shade for the poultry.

The wants of the poultry yard are similar to those of man.

When the weather is 110 in the sun we seek the shade, what about the poor hen that can not find shade.

Pure cold water,—shade and plenty of green food is very essential these hot days and the successful man will provide them for his stock.

Rice is one of the best feed for growing chicks or turkeys; you must cook it of course, drain the water off and feed it as dry as possible. The water can also be given them to drink with good results.

Encourage your children to become poultry fanciers. Give them a few fine birds of some kind and let them hatch and raise chicks, and give them all they can make from them. You can afford to do it, as it will be an advantage to the children.

Lutheran Re-Union.

The committee of the Susquehanna Synod appointed to provide for a Lutheran reunion to be held in Susquehanna Valley have selected Susquehanna Heights, on the grounds of Hotel Shikellimy, as the place for holding this reunion and appointed Thursday, Sept. 1st, as the day. Speakers from abroad have been selected and application made for greatly reduced rates on all the railroads running into Sunbury and Northumberland. It is not the purpose to confine this reunion to the Susquehanna Synod, but to gather the Lutherans from all the surrounding country and make this a reunion of Lutherans in this part of the State. Full particulars will be published in the near future and ample provision made for all who attend. All Lutheran pastors are earnestly requested to call the attention of their people to this reunion and assist in making it a grand success.

A Young Man's Fancy.

Large allowance is to be made for the sweeping assertion of the poet that "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." It certainly is not true of the malarial young man, whose fancy, if he has any, is of the dull and heavy variety. The malarial young man marches around as the captive of General Debility. The readiest and most obvious means of escape are afforded by S. S. S., which, without any flourish, routs General Debility and his malarial allies. What is true of the young man is true of the young lady, and the whole host of sufferers. S. S. S. is a specific for malaria.

Murder Will Out.

CONFESSION OF A CRIME COMMITTED ABOUT TWENTY YEARS AGO.

PETOSKY, Mich., August 1.—Twenty years ago Albert Moliter, of Detroit, settled in Rogers City, Presque Isle county, and engaged in heavy business undertakings, principally merchandise and lumbering. On the night of August 23, 1875, he was murdered while sitting at his desk, being riddled with buckshot. His clerk, a young man named Sullivan, sprang to his assistance, and he also received a similar charge. They both died within a few days.

The killing created widespread excitement and was the talk of the State and county at the time. Both men were highly related. A large reward was offered for the apprehension of the murderer or murderers, but what effort was made in that direction is not recalled, but while the matter has been almost forgotten by the outside world in the lapse of sixteen years, yet disconnected rumors and criminations could be heard most any time in Presque Isle county, brought about by occasional local quarrels and troubles.

These rumors have come to a realization by the action of one William Kepke, a farmer residing in Melke township, who has made a confession to the prosecuting attorney. He states his troubled conscience was unbearable to him—that he could stand the remorse and secret no longer. His confession is that seventeen years ago citizens of Presque Isle county, including himself, entered into an oath-bound compact to assassinate Albert Moliter and Frederick Denny Larke.

For some reason Larke was not seen on the fatal evening, and he states that the killing of the clerk, Sullivan, was a mistake. The shot he received was intended as a second one for Moliter. The list contains many prominent men of the county. Prosecuting Attorney Inglis, fearing publication might hinder justice, requested that the names be withheld from publication.

ELDER SINGER'S REPLY TO D. M. KINTER.

BRO. KINTER:

In view of the fact that when you were assailed in the same "Church paper," that the article appeared in, that you speak of long years ago against me, and that too, for preaching a doctrine which you afterward denounced, (by the editor himself.) I, unknown to you wrote in your behalf a letter to Bro. Franklin, telling him that you had renounced that doctrine and was preaching the gospel of Christ and doing good, and while you were being assailed by others I stood by you and did all I could to overcome the work of your enemies, and hold you up. I paid you more money when you were preaching at Johnstown than any other man, according to my ability. You have several mistakes in your article, through information received from a man who forged the names of other men to papers, and was pronounced a perjurer villain in the open Court recently. As to my being excluded from a church in Ohio long years ago, I will inform you that I never was a member of a church in Ohio. There was an article appeared in a church paper, as you call it, (the same paper that your name appeared in) to which I sought to go and answer, and though the request was made by my own Elders, and the Elders of three other Churches, as well as James Darsie and John F. Rowe, former editors of the paper, we never received any answer. To assail a man, and give him no chance to defend himself, is not the work of fair minded men, to say nothing about Christians. As to my standing in the church, my letter which is as good a one as any man can produce. It covers twelve years of continued membership in one church. I was received into the Zion church, having in my possession my letter of commendation from the church at Johnstown signed by the Elders and approved by Bro. James Darsie, as noble a man of God as ever lived and Bro. James B. Pyatt, one of our oldest and best preachers from Johnstown was present and approved of the same, and that after the Elders at Zion know of the article in the Church paper as well as my honest effort to answer anything that could be alleged against me, as the foundation of that article.

As to my not preaching at my home in California, I will inform you that I have received more persons into the fellowship of that Church than any man that ever preached there; the report of the Church paper that you speak of will show an account of 112 persons being added to the church in two meetings that I held there. There was a trouble in the church years ago to which I was a party, only as an advisor. The man who is back of you, W. L. H. was against the Elders. He was defeated and he has never gotten over it I will hand him over to the tender mercies of D. O. Lambert of Coal Centre, who will, if necessary ventilate this whole business.

Owing to some of those who went out of the church feeling sore towards me for siding with the Elders, I of my own choice told the senior Elder that I preferred not to preach or participate in their meetings. At one time I was asked to preach for the church half of my time, since the difficulty had occurred. I declined, still I have baptized numbers of persons who came to my home and requested me to do so. I have received more persons into the churches in my own county than any man living in Washington county.

The county papers, facts and figures and living disciples of Christ will attest that as a fact. For a preacher of the gospel of Christ to go to dealing in the gospel of dirt is not the way to save souls. I never knew of a man or woman of a pure heart to delight in such work. I never knew one such who had not enough of dirt back of himself to take him a lifetime to get himself clean. As to those affidavits of the ladies that you speak of being sent into my home church from Benton, I will say that it is suborned testimony, just such as the Saviour was crucified upon—an enemy did it.

A. W. Conner claiming to be the State Evangelist who is known to have told several malicious falsehoods about me to the Elders at Stillwater and others—as I have the documents to show—has done this wicked work and it will not work, so as to further the work and influence of a State Evangelist, if that is his missionary work those who sent him out did not commission him to hunt me down to the death, though W. L. H. may have advised it. He is the man who secured these statements of persons who refused to meet me face to face before the Elders of the church, where they are known, where the facts are known, where this Conspiracy is understood, and Bro. K. knows, (a letter to a Bro. at Stillwater shows that he was a party to this unholy and wicked work) that they have been sent in, when it became known that there are persons every one of them followed me from place to place, invited me to their homes and found fault with me for not stopping with them, as it is known at Benton, Stillwater, Millville, and Rohrsburg by those acquainted with the facts, and the manner by which this was worked up, it will, like the old army muskets, (some of them) kick harder than they shot. Bro. Kinter let us try to do each other good instead of evil. That this whole work is a wicked conspiracy, I have the very best of evidence, having in my possession letters written by Kinter, Conner, & Long, who after circulating bare falsehoods about me in letters written to individuals who are members of the Stillwater church, Charles Long refused to answer to the charge of slander made by me and to call him to account, for which I remained at Stillwater one week. He refused to appear before the Elders of that church, on account of a lack of jurisdiction, and because of a lack of wisdom and impartiality. The Elders at Stillwater are good men, and they are wise enough to do their duty—and impartial too and they have jurisdiction to try him for an offense committed within the membership of the church that they are officers of. Where an offense occurred is the place to try it.

R. H. SINGER.
California, Washington Co. Pa.

A cablegram announces that Amelia Rives has sailed for the United States where she will arrive soon after the appearance of her latest novel in the August number of the Cosmopolitan. After nearly two years of silence the new story of Miss Rives will be received with the greatest interest by those who enjoyed her earlier work. Married, traveled and in every way matured, her latest production is said to be worthy of the talent which gave such great promise. The scene is laid in Paris where the author has been living for two years, and the heroine is a Virginia girl who is studying music abroad with a negro servant for a chaperone. The story has been illustrated by Kate Greatorex, one of the most promising of American painters in Paris, and a charming portrait of Miss Rives is the frontispiece of the magazine.

Two papers in this number which will be read with great interest by journalists, are those by Valerian Gribayedoff—who is called "the father of pictorial journalism"—and "The Woman's Press Club of New York" by Fannie Aynar Mathews. Gribayedoff has discussed artistically and practically the question of the illustration of the daily newspaper in a way to afford information to all who are interested in journalism.

Anent the baccarat scandal, Gen. Adam Badeau of Grant's staff, who was afterwards Secretary of Legation in London and saw much of the English aristocracy, writes an article on "Gambling in High Life." "The Dukeries," by Pelham-Clinton, is another article which will please those who take an interest in the great country houses of England, Thomas A. Janvier, who is always delightful with his pen, gives a quaint sketch of the old dual town Uzes. To those interested in education, President Gilman of the Johns Hopkins furnishes food for thought in an article on this great southern university.

The cartoons which have been made of Bismarck, furnish a subject for Murat Halstead, reproductions of many of the most noted cartoons, illustrating the paper. There is an article on Placer Mining with instantaneous photographs, and one on the Court Jesters of England by Miss Esther Singleton, who is making a reputation as a graceful writer, besides the usual departments by Edward Everett Hale, Brander Mathews, etc.

Mme Hermann Bollini, composer, lately from Paris will give instructions on the piano or organ in melody and harmony under the celebrated method of her professor, Lefebvre Wely. She also gives instructions with the purest accent in French, Spanish and Italian. Terms, 50 cents per lesson. Those desiring to make engagements will please address Mme Bollini, Bloomsburg, Pa. 7-31 2t.
