GEN. BOULANGER DEAD.

He Shoots Himself on Mmc. De Bonnemain's Grave.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 30.-General Boulanger killed himself at noon to-day in the cemetery at Ixelles, a mile to the south of the city. His body was found on the tomb of Mme. de Bonnemains, who had accompanied him in his exile from France, and who had devoted her fortune of $1,500,000 to his career. The General's clenched right hand held a revolver. He had shot himself in the right temple, and the bullet had passed through his head.

Georges Ernest Jean Marie Boulan-ger, French ex-Minister of War, was born at Rennes, in Bretagne, in 1837. His descent on the maternal side is Weish. His father was a country at-torney. In 1855 Boulanger entered the Military College of St. Cyr, and was made sub-lieutenant in 1857. He was made sub-lieutenant in 1857. He served under Marshal Ranelon in the Kabyle campaign.' He also took part in the Franco-Italian War, and was wounded in the battle of Turbigo. He was with Marshal Bazaine at Metz, but escaped the fate of Baza-ine's army, and made his way back to Paris. He was then promoted to a light to back the back of the face of th lieutenant-coloneley by the Govern-ment of National Defense, and fought ment of National Defense, and fought at Champigny (Nov. 30 to Dec. 2). In 1880 he became brigadier-general. Being appointed to the command of the army of occupation of Tunis, Gen-eral Boulanger had a disagreement with M. Camicon, the Resident-Gen-eral, and way recalled. He then held the War Office appointment of Direc-tor of the Infantry Division, and be-came Minister of War in 1886. The Government having decided, in

The Government having decided, in The Government having decided, in March, 1889, to cashier the General by placing him on the retired list, he inaugurated a vigorous campaign against the Ministry. Vacancies shortly after occurred in the representation for the Bordogne and the Nord. He was returned for and the Nord. He was returned for the Bordogne by 59,500 votes to 35,750 polled by the Opportunist candidate. The General's appearance in the Chamber of Deputies, in July, 1888, to demand a dissolution of the Chamber, gave rise to a stormy scene. M. Floquet made a vigorous attack upon the General, and in the altercation between them Boulanger exclaimed "You lie." M. Floquet demanded "You he." M. Floquet demanded satisfaction, and on July 13 a duel was fought. The General received a deep wound in the neck. The Patri-otic League, of which he was the head, was subsequently suppressed, and the General was tried by the Sen-ate on a charge of having, while War Minister, appropriated £10,000 of pub-lic money for purposes of his own lic money for purposes of his own propaganda. He was found guilty. To avoid arrest, he first fied to Belgium, then to London, where he ar-rived April 24. The Mme. de Bonne-mains, upon whose tomb he breathed his last, died in that eity on July 16 last, after having accompanied Gen-eral Boulanger in all his later wander-

In 1881 Boulanger was appointed Chief of the French Military Mission to the Yorktown Centennial of the United States, and created quite a fav-orable impression in this country.
