DEATH OF PARNELL.

THE FAMOUS IRISH RULER EXPIRES SUDDENLY.

His Death Took Place at His Residence in Brighton—Something About the Career of the Noted Leader—Effect of His Death.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Charles Stuart Parnell died suddenly at his residence in Brighton last night.

Charles Stewart Parnell was born at Avondale, County Wicklow, in 1846. He was descended from an English family which has been settled for many generations in Ireland.

CHARLES STEWART PARNELL.
His mother is a daughter of Admiral Charles Stewart, a well-known American naval officer.

Mr. Parnell was educated altogether in England, and was a student of Magdalen, Cambridge. He was almost typically English in manner and appearance.

In 1874 he became High Sheriff of Wicklow and was beaten in an effort to enter Parliament.

Next year he was returned for County Meath in succession to John Martin, and for one year took no part in the work of the House.

He became gradually more prominent until in 1878 he was elected President of the Home Rule Confederation in the place of Mr. Isaac Butt.

From this time on Mr. Parnell's history is the history of the recent development of the Home Rule propaganda, which culminated in lining up the English Liberal party with the Irish party on the occasion of Mr. Gladstone's bill.

This union was recently broken, and Mr. Parnell was deposed from his leadership. It is believed that Mr. Parnell's death, having removed the unhappy complications which arose after the O'Shea case, will result in the reunion of all the members of the Nationalist party not only in Ireland, but in the United States.

PARNELL'S MOTHER TOLD.

She Declares That Her Son Died of a Broken Heart.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., Oct. 7.—The first information of her son's death was received by Mrs. Parnell in her bedchamber at Ironsides, the family home, at 11 o'clock this morning, when several reporters arrived to interview her.

"His death," said Mrs. Parnell, after she had somewhat recovered from the shock, "has been caused by the persecutions of his enemies. The troubles have not come on him singly, but so thick and fast that his grand heart has been broken and that was the cause of his death. In the death of my son Ireland has lost her best friend. No other would have or could have done so much for the people as he. I do not believe he died a natural death. If he did, it was because his heart was broken and there was no other cause whatever, no matter what physicians say."

PARNELL BORNE TO HIS TOMB.

The Funeral Attended by an Immense Concourse of People.

DUBLIN, Oct. 11.—The remains of Charles Stewart Parnell arrived at Kingstown at 7 o'clock this morning, and was met by a large delegation of the dead leader's followers. Half an hour later the train reached Dublin station where a vast assemblage of people were awaiting its arrival. The remains were taken to the City Hall where they lay in state from 10 o'clock until 2. A procession six deep moved past, and the stream flowed uninterruptedly for three hours. It is estimated that 125,000 people passed the body.

At 2.30 the funeral cortege started for Glasnevin cemetery. The coffin rested on an open hearse, the only floral design accompanying it being the one sent by the widow bearing the words "To My Own True Love, My Husband, My King." The other floral tributes were conveyed to the grave by the pallbearers and the colleagues of the deceased.

The streets along the route of the procession, and the intersecting streets for blocks in both directions, were masses of human beings, while the windows and house-tops were also black with spectators. Most of the houses were draped in mourning, and festoons of crapes were swung across the streets at frequent intervals.

Twenty bands, scattered through the line of marchers, furnished music, the strains of the Dead March in Saul, the Adeste Fidels, hymns and Irish dirges adding to the solemnity of the occasion. It was 6 o'clock when the procession reached the cemetery and the burial took place by lantern light. It is estimated that the crowd that followed the remains numbered 200,000.

W. H. Graft & Co., Druggists, Carson, Iowa, certify that all throat and lung troubles are speedily

Cured By Using

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It leads all others. "In January, 1889, I was taken down with measles and scarlet fever, and exposing myself too soon, caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs. I was forced to take to my bed and was so ill that the doctors despaired of my recovery, supposing me to be in quick consumption. Change of climate was recommended, but I began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and soon found relief. After using several bottles, I was cured, so that I am now as well and rugged as ever."—John Dillander, Cranesman of Steam Shovel, G. S. & S. F. R. Co., Justin, Texas.

TRADE WITH GERMANY.
NEGOTIATIONS FOR RECIPROCITY WITH THE UNITED STATES.

Narrower Concessions Than at First Reported—Germany Will Probably Make Our Wheat Free While We Admit Her Beet Sugar.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Germany has entered into negotiations for reciprocity with the United States, but the concessions to be made are not nearly so comprehensive as a published report has made them out to be. From an authority whose thorough knowledge of the negotiations cannot be questioned it is learned that Germany has not offered to admit all American cereals free in consideration of the admission of German beet sugar into the United States without payment of duty. This concession, it was stated, would cause Germany serious trouble with other European countries, and was too broad a concession to be offered or asked.
Under the McKinley Tariff law the admission free of duty to this country of beet sugar manufactured by foreign countries was authorized, but a proviso gave the President authority to suspend after January 1, 1892, the operations of the law with respect to countries that did not grant the United States some concessions in return for allowing their beet sugar free entry. Germany sends more beet sugar to the United States than any other country does, and the removal of the duty on that article has proved a large item in German trade.
No effort was made by Germany, however, to retain the concession granted by this country until the negotiations resulting in the removal of the restriction on the admission of American pork into Germany had been concluded. These negotiations opened the way for treating on the beet sugar question, and matters have assumed a position where the admission into Germany free of duty of some one cereal, wheat in all probability, or of more than one cereal at a very low rate of duty, will probably be negotiated.

THE ULSTER COUNTY DEFAULTERS.

Ostrander and Trumbour Want to Challenge Grand Jurors.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Oct. 12.—At the opening of the Oyer and Terminer Court here this afternoon, Judge Fursman of Troy presiding, the Hon. F. L. Westbrook, counsel for James E. Ostrander, the defaulting Treasurer of the Ulster County Savings Institution, asked the right to challenge each individual Grand Juror as his name was called, under that section of the code which prescribes that if a state of mind exists on the part of a juror in reference to the case, which satisfies the Court that he cannot act impartially and without prejudice to the substantial rights of the challenging party, the juror is incompetent. The Hon. D. M. Dewitt, counsel for Matthew T. Trumbour, the accomplice of Ostrander, made a like request.
