Obeying Military Orders-

HE WAS A SOLDIER AND HAD TO DES TROY HIS OWN HOME.

From Tid-Bits.

The story as told in a French news paper of Pierre Barlat, a poor laborer, who lived at Sevres, near Paris, with his wife Jeanne, and their three children, Industrious, frugal, knowing nothing of the way to the wine shop, Pierre saved all his spare money, work ing harder and harder, and at last bought the tiny cottage in which they lived. It was a tiny cottage, indeedbuilt of stones, with tiled roof, stand ing amid shrubs and covered with clematis. It always attracted the eye of the traveler, on the left, as he crossed the Sevres bridge.

Pierre and Jeanne worked and scraped and saved until the little cottage was paid for, and made a feast when it was all done to celebrate their ownership. A landed proprietor, to be sure, does not mind an occasional ex penditure to entertain his friends. All this Pierre and Jeanne had ac complished just before the war of 1870 with Germany broke out. The conscription fell upon Pierre, who moreover, was an old soldier and belonged to the reserves. A gunner he had been, famous for his skill in hitting a mark with a shell.

Sevres had fallen in the hands of the Germans, but the French guns were pounding away at them from the fort on Mont Valerien. Pierre Barlat was a gunner at that fort, and one wintry day was standing by his gun, when General Noel, the commander, came up and leveled his field-glass at the Sevres bridge.

"Gunner," he said, sharply, without looking at Pierre. "General," answered Pierre, respectfully saluting. "Do you see the Sevres bridge over there?"

"I see it very well, sir." "And that little cottage there, at the left, in a thicket of shrub;?"

Pierre turned pale. "I see it, sir," "Its a nest of Prussians, Try it with a shell, my man."

Pierre turned paler still, and, in spite of the cold wind, that made the officers shiver in their great coats, one might have seen big drops of sweat standing out on his forehead; but nobody noticed the gunner's

He sighted his piece carefully, deliberately; then fired.

The officers, with their glasses, marked the effect of the shot after the smoke had cleared.

"Well hit, my man !" exclaimed the General, looking at Pierre with a smile. "The cottage couldn't have been very solid. It is completely smashed."

He was surprised to see great tears running down the gunner's cheeks.

"What's the matter, man?" the General asked rather roughly. "Pardon me, General," said Pierre, recovering himself. "It was my house -everything I had in the world !"

THE trial trip of messengers mounted on bicycles, carrying dispatches from Chicago to New York, will no doubt prove successful, notwithstanding the heavy roads have delayed the men. With a few alterations that may in time become apparent, the present type of road bicycle will undoubtedly be much used in military manœuvres of the future.

A Hard Position.

A PREACHER WHO ASSUMED A DEVOT-IONAL ATTITUDE FROM NECESSITY.

The pulpit in the nave of Westminister Abbey, it is said, has a moveable floor, which can be raised or lowered at pleasure to suit the height of the preacher.

There is a story told that one day a very short man was expected to preach, and the pulpit floor was raised considerably. Being prevented by illness, or some other cause, he was unable to fill his appointment, and at the last moment a substitute had to be provided.

The clergyman who obligingly undertook the office proved to be a man of stature considerably above the average. On reaching the head of the pulpit staircase he saw to his dismay that the official in charge of the sim-ple machinery had apparently not been informed of the change of preach-

The clerical "son of Anak" was, however, equal to the occasion; he scrambled in on his knees, and in that uncomfortable posture preached the sermon. It is believed that no one in the vast congregation noticed the uncomfortable position of the preacher. -Yankee Blade.

Domestic Science Lends a Hand.

There is another new and important factor in cooking. Many articles need a crisp touch, or something to make the other ingredients more harmonious, and it is not every cook who can use butter of the best quality for all cooking. It is right here that the danger lies. The housekeeper thinks she cannot afford the best grade of an article, and yet fancies she must have that article at all hazards.

Lard and pork have been standbys so long, and there are so many places where they seem to be necessary, that their quality is important. Still under the very best possible conditions the grease is unhealthy, and its faults can-not be overlooked; in fact people who are at all sensitive cannot eat food containing these ingredients.

Cottolene is a preparation whic's comes into the market to meet just this need. The product is made of cotton seed oil and beef suet, is the same consistency as lard, and looks like it except in color, which is creamy.

is used in place of land or butter in cooking. For frying it is unsurpassed, as a rich brown color is easily secured. There is not the least suggestion of extra fat, but a crisp fine finish, very pleasing in fish, cakes, fried cereals, oysters, or clams, fatty taste to disturb the digestion, and for this reason it has been very popular wherever used. The popularity of Cottolene is due to the skilful handling and presentation of a new element in kitchen economy, by a firm of large resources, which offers only the purest and best for home coasumption. This firm is determined to maintain a high standard in the interest of the r customers, and the pure food laws of which they are firm adherents .- MRS MARION A McBRIDE in Cottage Hearth.
