

THE RAILWAY WARS AGAIN.

The New York World has an article on its editorial page under the suggestive title "Conquest Reading by Exhausting It."

There have been various plans suggested for the overthrow of the Reading, but this of "conquest by exhaustion" is the simplest.

Of these various warlike processes, the Cassatt-Powderly plan of having the Governor "interfere against monopoly," the Clews plan of confiscation, and the World plan to "conquer Reading by exhausting it" carrying the Reading by law suit, until like that forlorn, vermin-devoured bishop on the Rhine in the German fable, it was "eaten up by its own lawyers," the latter seems to have been adopted.

Yet this question seriously considered is of the gravest nature. If the money to defend these suits is to be taken from Reading investors, and if by means of legal machinery it is to be taken to such an extent as to "conquer Reading by exhausting it," where are the supplies found for their prosecution?

Philadelphia studies the history and cause of her own development, and what does she find? No corporation within her jurisdiction has had the royal endowments of the Pennsylvania. We revive none of the criticisms so many of these endowments invoked from the repeal of the Tonnage tax under Governor Curtin to the present day.

the Pennsylvania has taken with the open hand whatever the people have given, she has resisted with clenched hand whatever has been given to any one else, no matter how just and equitable the claim.

Philadelphia has as deep an interest in the failure of this wretched, despicable business of "conquest by exhaustion" as she ever had in the building of the Pennsylvania. The interest is the same.

Philadelphia is richer because of the Reading. Nor is the Pennsylvania poorer. President Roberts, in his address at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania stockholders, dwelt upon a prosperity which enabled him to expend in the State alone a million dollars a week.

This war of "Conquest by Exhaustion" is not merely between two companies, the one striving to follow the World's advice, and have the other "eaten up by its own lawyers," but a war upon values.

Philadelphia studies the history and cause of her own development, and what does she find? No corporation within her jurisdiction has had the royal endowments of the Pennsylvania.

Ask Your Friends. Who have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla what they think of it, and the replies will be positive in its favor.

An exchange says: "Coffins are now made of paper. Dead beats who have all their lives swindled editors out of their papers, can keep right on after death and swindle undertakers out of their paper through eternity."

What Stronger Proof Is needed of the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla than the hundreds of letters continually coming in telling of marvelous cures it has effected after all other remedies had failed?

Cleanse the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and realize what poor health you have had.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years, with distressing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results.

I suffered from a severe cold in my head for months and could get no relief. Was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like magic in its cure.

Has a Brain of Its Own. The Throat Has a Subordinate Thinking Apparatus Doing Lots of Work.

"Did you ever know," said a well known specialist, as he deftly inserted a looking-glass into the roof of a patient's mouth, talking the while to a reporter, "that the throat has a brain of its own? No? I suppose few of the laity know it, but it's a fact.

"For this reason it is very difficult for a physician to operate on the throat. Before anything can be done in this direction it is necessary for the operator to gain the confidence of the little brain that dominates it.

Hops in Alaska. Those who are accustomed to think of Alaska as a land of snow and ice will be surprised at the proposed plan of turning it into a large hop plantation.

The reasons which encourage the syndicate to hope for success are many: The summer, though short, is almost tropically hot, and it is believed the season is long enough for ripening the hops; land is very cheap, to be had almost for the asking; labor costs but a trifle; the soil requires little preparation; the hops could be gathered for half the price paid in Oregon; the freightage would all be in sailing vessels, which is cheapest itself.

"What is the baby's name, Ada?" was asked a bright little girl. "George Henry Thompson." "Why, I thought you were going to name him for your father." "We did, Thompson," was the convincing reply.—Youth's Companion.

There Are None Such. The Republican campaign will not grow very rapidly if the managers depend on contributions from workmen whose wages have been increased by the McKinley bill.

OFF THE PITCH. A Republican Keynote That Is Decidedly "Quaverish." Senator Carlisle's answer to Mr. Aldrich has stirred up the Republican brethren mightily, and they are not so content as they professed themselves to be.

Our own senator tried his mouth at the keynote and took the position that since a large part of the increase of the cost in living was due to enhanced prices for agricultural products, the McKinley bill could not be held chargeable for that advance.

REPUBLICAN IGNORANCE. A Touch of Comic Journalism from Partisan Papers. An afternoon organ of Republicanism quotes the statement of a Democratic newspaper that "the French are leaving Canada and coming to us because they can earn a better living here."

A Startling Record. It is to be remembered that manufacturers in this country have not been prosperous during the past year, and that the decrease in imports has not been offset by home production.

A Pleading Condition. The pleading condition which confronts the Democrats is this: There are Democrats who would vote for Cleveland without tariff reform, and there are Democrats who would vote for tariff reform without Cleveland.

Ingenious, but Not Convincing. The efforts of the Republican soothsayers to eliminate the force bill issue from the campaign are heroic.

High Priced Tariff Protected Fuel. A Republican tariff is the primary cause of this steady advance in the price of anthracite.

It Will Not Be Forgotten. It should not be forgotten that the bill passed by the Democratic house for free wool and cheaper clothing has been buried in a pigeonhole of the Republican senate.

A Peculiar Republican Disease. If Rusk succeeds in his cure for lumpy jawed cattle he will reflect great credit upon the administration.
