AN ABSURD POSITION.

THE HIGH TARIFF STAND UNTEN-ABLE IN ANY CASE.

The Protection Orators Assert Facts Which Are Exactly the Reverse of What the McKinley Bill Is Alleged to Accomplish-Between Two Fires.

The speech of Senator Aldrich, "The Tariff Act of 1890 Defended," merits the comment conveyed by the saying of Shakespeare, "The lady doth protest too much." Senator Aldrich endeavored in it to show that the tariff act of 1890 was not only a successful embodiment of Republican principles, but also a wonderful illustration of practical statesmanship. As he said in his speech, its purpose was "to provide for the better security and the greater development of American industries," and he insisted that it had "quickened the pulsation of trade, giving a new impetus to agriculture as well as to manufacture and commerce.' A part of his address was taken up by an effort to demonstrate that the prices of commodities are lower in this year. 1892, than they were in 1880 or 1890; and to furthermore show that the popular opinion concerning the formation of combines and trusts was delusive, and that the manufacturers themselves were believers in low prices, he had sent a large number of letters to the representatives of different classes of industry, asking whether the business in question was controlled by a trust, and what the effect of such a combination had upon competition and the prices of product.

Now it seems to be sufficiently evident that if the effect of the McKinley law has been to reduce the prices of commodities to the American consumers, it has failed of the project that its promoters intended.

To give a few illustrations: Of castor oil it is said, "The margins of profit in the manufacture of the article are at present not only about nil, but in many cases the article is sold at an absolute loss." "Buttons," one of the manufacturers does not hesitate to say, "were never lower in our market than at the present time."

Of edge tools it is said "they are lower than ever in price." The manufacturers of glass admit that they have combined, but this action was forced upon them to save themselves from bankruptcy. The manufacturers of galvanized iron assert, "We are worse off now under the Mc-Kinley bill than before its passage." The representative of the Strap and Hinge association asserts that they "arselling goods at the cost of manufac ture." "Lime," we are told by a representative of the Rockland makers, "has sold 10 per cent. lower ever since the duty was increased." Of linseed oil the statement is made that "the prices are so low that for some years past little if any money has been made by its manufacturers.

Of locomotive ties, another of Senator Aldrich's correspondents asserts, "Prices have been ruinous for a good many months." Sanitary pottery ware "is lower than it was in 1891." Of starch we are told "the present prices are too low to afford any profit to the manufacturer." The prices of steel and iron tubes are "lower today than ever before in the history of our country," while window glass "has been sold at less prices than before the McKinley bill was passed."

If this is the way the pulsations of He will accompany those who are just trade are to be quickened, a new impetus given to manufacture and commerce, and the claims and expectations of the framers of the measure are more than realized, it might well be asked what different results would a protec-tionist expect to ensue from the adoption of a system of free trade? These various great and prominent industries are having under the McKinley regime, we are officially informed, a struggling tion with his boarding stable at the Exchange Hotel Stables, where fine The conclusion is forced that either turnouts can be obtained, single or the McKinley law has proved, in the double. Drivers furnished as a part of Senator Aldrich's speech, are-well-misleading. One's confidence in the ingenuousness of these gentlemen W. A. HARTZELL, Proprietor. is a little shaken by the statements made by a number of them concerning their participation in trusts or combinations. The representatives of nearly a hundred alleged trusts were written to. There were some omissions-such, for example, as sugar-but only one of the repliers had the frankness to state that a combination had been formed by his trade for the purpose of putting up And the fields are rich with the golden prices and making money. With the others there was either a denial of any combination whatsoever or it was said that theirs was an association formed for the purpose of obtaining statistics, acquiring information, regulating the standard of goods, discharg-Where homes may never be sought in ing superfluous agents and clerks, and all this with the main object of lowering prices. In fact, the lowering of prices seems to have been the chief object of solicitude on the part of Senator Aldrich's correspondents. This is so completely in accord with the dictates of human nature and the experiences that one has in everyday business life that we congratulate the senator from Rhode Island on the highly satisfactory R. Pott, District Passenger Agent, and representative character of the gentlemen from whom he has obtained such valuable information .- Boston Herald.
