

The Royal Blue Line

WHAT AN EMINENT RAILROADER THINKS OF IT.

Those who have used the Royal Blue Line between Philadelphia and New York, well know that line is deservedly accredited as being the finest piece of railroad in the country; that its coaches are the most magnificent, and that its trains run more smoothly and are the fastest in the world.

A SENSIBLE MOVE.

A New York Republican Ex-Assemblyman Becomes a Democrat.

D. Morgan Hildreth, who was elected to the assembly last year by the Republicans of the Twenty-first district, has written a letter to John Proctor Clarke, president of the Republican organization of that district, in which he says:

"I realize that I have received at the hands of the Republican organization of the Twenty-first election district the highest honor it had to confer in my nomination and election as a member of assembly from that district.

"I have certainly naught to complain of in the treatment I have received at the hands of the leaders of the district. For all favors bestowed upon me I am sincerely grateful.

"Therefore I now retire from what seems to me to be a field of hypocrisy to which I was allured by blandishments, misstatements and deception.

"My allegiance to the Republican party in the past has been induced by exaction of conscience, and I now retire from that party because of the fact that I have learned from experience to know and believe in its absolute insincerity in this one cardinal issue as demonstrated in practice."

A False Definition.

The statement that a tariff for revenue "confines the dutiable list to non-competitive products" is a false definition. The Democratic platform advances no such theory.

Their Tune Has Changed.

Republican leaders ought to feel a little cheap themselves to be telling their followers that things have never been so cheap as now, when not many months ago their present chief, whom they so stoutly profess to worship, expressed great contempt for cheap things, saying that when you see a cheap coat "you generally expect to find a cheap man under it."

How Much Do You Get?

Mr. Carnegie draws $1,500,000 a year as his part of the profits of the iron business—that is, he gains every second ninety-five cents; every minute, $5.70; every hour, $343.40; every day, $4,120.85; every week, $28,846.50; every month, $125,000.

A process has recently been discovered for making flour of bananas. Chemical experiments show that this flour contains more nutriment than rice, and that when eaten with beans, corn or sago it forms a very palatable and nourishing diet.

The French Ministry of War has been engaged for more than a year in making experiments in the preservation of meats. The experiments have resulted in the discovery that frozen meat can be kept for eight months without any change in its appearance or powers of nourishment.

One of the most important problems of the hour is the cheapest way to extract aluminium from the inexhaustible deposits of clay abounding in this country. The latest process is that invented by M. Faure, by which he expects to reduce the cost to about 16 or 18 cents a pound.—Inventive Age.

A correspondent of the Monthly Magazine of Pharmacy says: A bottle of bromide left in a closed room all night, with the stopper out, destroys all infection and insect life. I have cleared places which were infested with vermin many times. It is far more effectual than the vapor of burning sulphur.

A man at Glasgow, Scotland, has invented a machine which, it is claimed, will revolutionize the dairy industry and do away with the farm hands who do the milking. The machine is constructed on the vacuum principle, and when adjusted to the cow the milk flows in a continuous stream. The machine does the work without assistance.

SUBJECTS FOR THOUGHT.

A talent may be perfected in solitude, a character only in the world.

Men's morals should be measured by the way they affect other men.

As soon as a man acquires fairly good sense it is said that he is an old fogey.

There is only one time when you know exactly what a man is—when he is dead.

As riches and honor forsake a man, we discover him to be a fool, but nobody could find it out in his prosperity.

To be free-minded and cheerfully disposed at hours of meat, sleep and exercise, is one of the best precepts of long lasting.

How blessed might poor mortals be in the strictest circumstances if only their wisdom and fidelity to Heaven and one another were adequately great.

The golden moments in the stream of life rush past us, and we see nothing but sand; the angels come to visit us, and we only know them when they are gone.

In a truly godlike man his love is pure and unmixed, and full of kindness, inasmuch that he cannot but love in sincerity all men and things, and wish well and do good to them and rejoice in their welfare.

There never yet was any soul which had not sufficient grace—if it had sufficient fidelity to correspond with it—to escape eternal death. Keep ever in mind this great truth, for it is the foundation of the whole doctrine of grace.

All friendship is founded on some kind of sympathy, and, however different in tastes or in temper, in outward circumstances or inward character, two friends may be, there must be a really hearty agreement in some direction to bind them together. This agreement, too, must exist in certain things which fill up a good part of the thought and feeling of each, or the sympathy will be too slight to form a bond of union.

"I see they have started another lodge of the Improved Order of Red Men in your village." Yes, my husband has joined it. But that's not the kind of order needed in our midst. "No?"

"No; what is wanted is an improved order of white men."

COCKRAN ON CLEVELAND.

The Tammany Orator Says New York State is Solid. The subjoined letter from the Hon. W. Bourke Cockran voices the sentiment of New York Democrats so admirably that it is given for publication by Mr. Howry as an encouragement to the cause everywhere. It was written in response to an inquiry as to how the nomination of Mr. Cleveland was received in New York, accompanied with the statement that while the writer, as an adherent of Cleveland's nomination, had heard Mr. Cockran's plea at Chicago without being convinced, nevertheless we were all interested in the stand the Tammany and other organizations in that state would take now that the nomination had been made, and that no one was so well qualified to tell the friends of Cleveland in the south as the Tammany orator.

My DEAR SIR—I have received your letter of the 10th inst., and I beg to assure you that the delay in acknowledging it was caused by my absence from home. I have no hesitation in expressing my firm conviction that the nomination of Mr. Cleveland has been received throughout the state with a spirit of entire loyalty.

To Charles B. Howry, Esq., Oxford, Miss. —Jackson (Miss.) Ledger.

They Hate to Face It. Many Republicans do not fancy having to face the force bill as one of the issues of the campaign. They know that it loses them votes, but a majority of that party is irrevocably pledged to the enactment of such a law as soon as it has the power, so the sensible majority must choose between voting the Democratic ticket and swallowing the force bill.—Yonkers (N. Y.) Gazette.

They Frighten Only Themselves. When Democratic papers say that the high tariff has undoubtedly "protected" Carnegie and his partners but question its blessings for other people, Republican organs accuse them of defending lawlessness and violence, justifying murder and encouraging attacks upon persons and property.

Don't Heed the Fat Protectionist. When you hear a fat protectionist howling that "free trade will ruin the country," remember that he is making money by the special privileges of protection, and that under free trade no man will have special privileges of that sort. Then you can easily decide which side makes the unselfish arguments.—La Crosse (Wis.) Chronicle.

A Specious Whine. Raun attempts to vindicate his conduct of the pension bureau on the ground that the office expenses have been less under his than under previous administrations. Bank cashiers who have made away with the assets of the bank may find an admirable suggestion for defense in this ingenious statement.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Cause of High Taxation. The principal complaint of farmers high taxation. High taxation is caused indirectly by the protective tariff. T. Republican platform favors the h tariff, the Democratic platform nounces it and pledges the party regulate it, and the third party platfor is silent on the subject.—Danville (V Register).

Republican Desperation. The desperation of the Republicans is indicated by their attempts to minimize the importance of the force bill issue. They have reason to fear its introduction into the canvass and will leave no stone unturned to relieve their party of a burden it is in no condition to sustain.—Pensacola (Fla.) News.

"'Twas the Merest Bluff." Nothing more has been heard of Quay's offer to bet $10,000 on Harrison since a New Yorker offered to take the bet.—St. Louis Republic.

A Song for the Times. [Air—"Uncle Sam's Farm."] Of all the nominations in the east or in the west These glorious nominations of our candidates are best.

Then come along, come along; make no delay; Come from every quarter, come from every way; For our cause is strong enough, and we will shout for joy!

With truth and justice as his sword to battle for the right. Then raise ye, old Democracy! and lend a helping hand. To crush this robber tariff, this curse upon our land.

A word to all the farmers that so long have felt the weight Of this robbery taxation—take warning ere too late; And henceforth from monopolies the people shall be free, With Cleveland as their leader, to strike for liberty.

From the northern states to Florida, and from the east to the west. We will unfurl our banners for the men we love the best. So with Grover Cleveland at the head, as leader of reform, And General Adlai Stevenson we'll make this campaign warm.—St. Louis Republic.
