Continuous Track of Steel to Boston.

THE READING'S POUGHKEEPSIE BRIDGE ROUTE.

No longer do travelers between this section of the country and New England have to undergo the discomforts of street transfer through the city of New York. This has all been obviated, and the Reading Railroad with its continuous line of steel rail now carries its passengers in trains, vestibuled from end to end, from Philadelphia to Boston without a single change of cars. This new route, which is via the great Poughkeepsie Bridge, has many attractions, and is rapidly becoming very popular. The accommodations are first-class in every respect; the trains are vestibuled from end to end and are scheduled on fast express time; the roadway is perfect, making the ride pleasant and comfortable; the country traversed abounds in grand and picturesque scenery and the coaches are very models of the car builders art. There are both day and night trains run in each direction, the day trains being vestibuled and having Pullman Buffet Parlor cars attached, and the night trains have Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars. The east bound trains are the New England Day Express, which leaves Philadelphia 9th and Green Sts. on weekdays only at 10.00 A. M., and the New England Night Express which leaves 9th and Green Sts. at 6.45 P. M. and 24 and Chestnut Sts. at 6.20 P. M. daily, Sundays included. The west-bound trains are the Quaker City Day Express which leaves Boston, (N. Y. & N. E. R. R. Summer St. depot), on weekdays only, at 9.30 A. M., and the Quaker City Night Express, which leaves Boston, (B. & M. R. R. Causeway St. depot) at 5.45 P. M. daily, Sundays included.

The Difference.

From the Detroit Free Press. Mr. Gruffengrumbler—Did you hear about that Western woman who set a bear-trap last week and caught a young man? Mrs. G.—No, but I've heard a woman set a man-trap and caught a bear.

THE MOST RELIABLE

To correct the constipated habit, remove sick-headache, relieve dyspepsia, to purify the blood, cure jaundice, liver complaint, and biliousness. Ayer's Pills are unequalled. They are an excellent after-dinner pill, assisting the process of digestion, and cleansing and strengthening the alimentary canal. When taken on the invasion of a cold or a fever, they effectually prevent further progress of the disease. Being sugar-coated and purely vegetable, they are the best medicine, for old and young. Ayer's Pills are indispensable to soldiers, sailors, campers, miners, and travelers, and are everywhere recommended by the medical fraternity. Dr. J. W. Hayes, Palouse, W. T., writes: "Ayer's Pills are the most evenly balanced in their ingredients, of any I know of." "For more than twenty years I have used Ayer's Pills as a corrective for torpidity of the stomach, liver, and bowels, and to ward off malarial attacks, and they have always done perfect work."—E. P. Goodwin, Publisher Democrat, St. Landry, La.

Family

"I was master of a sailing vessel for many years, and never failed to provide a supply of Ayer's Pills, for the use of both officers and men. They are a safe and reliable and always give satisfaction."—Harry Robinson, 22 E. Pearl St., Fair Haven, Conn. "For a long time I was a sufferer from stomach, liver, and kidney troubles, and having tried a variety of remedies, with only temporary relief, I began, about three months ago, the use of Ayer's Pills, and already my health is so much improved that I gladly testify to the superior merits of this cathartic."—Manuel Jorge Pereira, Oporto, Portugal.

COULD SAY EVERYTHING.

THE BALD-HEADED MAN GOT AS MUCH BABY TALK AS HE COULD STAND. From the Detroit Tribune. The birds sang blithely; a gentle refreshing breeze blayed with the green foliage; a sky of undefiled azure bent over a rejoicing world; but the young woman in the first-class coach was indifferent to all else save the ill-favored baby in her arms. Upon the infant she was showering admiration in lavish quantities. The train had proceeded about fifty miles when she found herself constrained to share ecstasy with the tall, bald-headed man just across the aisle. "What," she rapturously demanded, gazing at the baby, "could be sweeter?" "The bald-headed man smiled in a sickly way. Several sweeter things than a baby seemed to occur to his mind, but he mentioned none. "Nothing." The young woman was replying to herself, radiant with maternal love. "Nossing, no nossing wuz sweeter." She had buried her face in the raiment of the ill-favored infant to whom she was iterating her positive declaration. The bald-headed man felt it his duty to say something. "Does—er—ah—your baby talk?" "Talk?" The young woman appeared to be astonished that there should be any doubt about it. "Why that child," she enthusiastically insisted, "can say everything." With a triumphant smile at the tall, bald-headed man the young proceeded to illustrate. "Say mammy, tootsey." The ill-favored baby stared vacantly. "He's trying to remember," she proudly explained. The ill-favored baby dug its fist into its mouth. "Say mamma tootsey." "Goo," gurgled the infant. The young woman clasped her hands in delight. "Did you ever hear anything so distinct?" she eagerly asked. The bald-headed man refrained from committing himself. "Say papa, tootsey." Flushed with success the young woman was proceeding another step in the demonstration of the contention that the baby could say anything. "Say papa, tootsey." The baby emitted a nondescript grunt. "Did you ever hear anything so plain?" She literally fell upon the ill-favored bit of humanity in her arms and nearly smothered it with kisses. "Oh, yes, he can say—" She turned to the bald-headed man. "Everything. Let me show.— But the man had gone.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
