WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12, 1892.

Mr. Harrison finds it more and more difficult as the campaign grows more interesting to boss the republican machine from out of the way. Loon Lake, so he will this week return to the White House, where he can watch and direct every move made. He thought seriously at one time of taking up his residence in New York city during the rest of the campaign in order to make certain that his orders were carried out, but he was finally made to see that it was more politic to remain in Washington and pretend to be engrossed with his executive duties.

"South Dakota," said a gentleman just from democratic headquarters in New York, "as been cleverly taken out of the republican column by an arrangement made a day or two ago by Representatives of the democratic and of the people's party. In that state there are three fully organized parties, and when they vote for separate tickets the republicans have the plurality. A democrat who is a member of the national committee conceived the idea of a fusion between the democratic and the people's party in that state, both to support the people's state ticket and the four presidential electors to be equally divided, and after considerable negotiation the fusion has been agreed upon." If this gentleman's news is trustworthy, and I have every reason to believe that it is, Cleveland and Stevenson will get two electoral votes that have not been counted upon.

The same gentleman assured me that all the republican talk about the failure of Mr. Cleveland to harmonize certain alleged discordant elements in the democratic party of New York was the veriest bosh. Said he: "Before the first of October it will be so plain that the most sanguine republican will have to acknowledge that the democratic party of New York is harmoniously working to carry that state for Cleveland, and what is more to the point, they are going to succeed in doing it."

Ex Treasurer Huston, of Indiana, is in Washington on a political mission and it is significant that he admits that the chance of the republican to carry that state is largely dependent upon the outcome of their efforts to have the court declare the present apportionment law of the state unconstitutional. He also admits that there is republican disaffection in the state. This is in marked contrast to the claim everything tone, of the Indiana republicans who have come to Washington since Harrison was nominated.

General A. S. Duford, of Virginia, a prominent railroad man, says about politics in his state. "I do not think the third party will cut much of a figure in the Virginia campaign this year. It appears to be weakening every day, and I think, the democracy will carry the state very cleverly for Cleveland."

According to the information received here the people's party is also "weakening every day" in all the rest of the southern states, and the danger which was apprehended at one time on account of its existence is now regarded as very small. The issue between the democratic and republican parties is sharply drawn in this campaign that no man who has ever been a democrat feels like aiding indirectly the republican party by casting a vote for a ticket which he knows can by no combination of circumstances win.
