Social Laws for Girls.

When a woman of such unquestionably high position in New York society as that occupied by Mrs. Burton Harrison consents to define the best and most careful society laws for girls, our young women can well afford to listen and remember. There is every indication for a most agreeable interest in the series of articles on "The Well-Bred Girl in Society." which Mrs. Harrison will begin in the November issue of The Ladies' Home Journal. Mrs. Harrison will in this series, take up every phase of a girl's life in society, and point out to her principally the mistakes it is wisest for her to avoid.

Catarrh in the Head

Is undoubtedly a disease of the blood, and as such only a reliable blood purifier can effect a perfect cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best bloodpurifier, and it has cured many very severe cases of catarrh. It gives an appetite and builds up the whole

Hood's rills act especially upon the liver, rousing it from torpidity to its natural duties, cure constipation and assist digestion.

It is stated that there have been over 700 workmen killed on the World's Fair grounds, 342 having met death in the construction of the Fine Arts Building.

No ice cream worthy of the name can be made without lemon, orange or vanilla. Use Bull's Head Flavoring Extracts, which are as good as the fruit. Price 10 cts.

A curious marriage custom is recorded by Dr. Post as existing in southern India among some of the primitive non-Aryan tribes. This consists of wedding a girl to a plant, a tree, an animal, or even to an inany ill luck which may follow an actual marriage may be averted by a union of this kind.

Nearly half a century of uninterrupted success in the cure of cough, cold and incipient consumption has given to Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, a reputation not possessed by any other similar remedy. It is a sovereign cure for all diseases of the throat and

The receipts of wheat for September were the largest on record.

She is delighted with it.—Mrs. Hannah Moore, Hebron, Neb., writes: "My mother had a swollen knee caused by a fall. —I purchased a bot-tle of Salvation Oil. We used it and I never saw a remedy work so well. It took the swelling down immediately and effected a cure."

There is a scarcity of corn in Mexico and the people threaten to revolt light, and shade; n consequence.

Mr. Beecher's Quill Pen-

The soft quill pen which Henry Ward Beecher used in his last literary work is utilized by Edward Bok in doing all his editorial work on The Ladies' Home Journal, the pen having been presented to the young editor by Mrs. Beecher shortly after the great preacher's death.

Catarrh in the head is a constitutional disease, and requires a constitu-tional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla to effect a cure.

The plague of breaking lamp. chimneys is abroad in the land. There are two sorts of chimneys; brittle and tough. Ninetynine in a hundred are brittle. The worst are imported from Germany. The best are Mac-beth's "Pearl-top" & "Pearl-glass."

Two serts as to workman-ship; fine and coarse. The fine are Macbeth's "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass." The coarse are rough and out of propor-tion; misfits and misshapen; they do not make a good draft; they smoke.

Two sorts as to glass; transparent and gray. "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass" are clear, fine and tough—not tough against accident—tough against heat.

Call for "Pearl-top" or "Pearl-glass" chimneys.

A LITTLE GOES A LONG WAYS

because shoes once blackened with it can be kept clean by washing them with water. People in moderate circumstances find it profitable to buy it at 20c. a bottle, because what they spend for Blacking they save in shee leather.

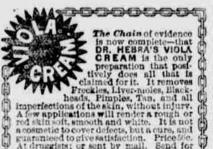

It is the cheapest blacking considering its quality, and yet we want to sell it cheaper if it can be done. We will pay for a recipe that will enable us to make Wolff's Acme Blacking at such a price that a retailer can profitably sell it at 10e. a bottle. This offer is open until Jan. 1st, 1893. WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia.

PUTTY ROOT.

A Vegetable Substance of Use in Mending

The orchids of the tropics are char acterized by their strange form and curious growth, yet we have some equally curious in our own clime, if we but stop to look at them.

Aplectrum hymale, more commonly known as Putty-root, or Adam and Eve, may be found at any time in the year when not buried in snow, except a short time during the summer when it takes its vacation. The solitary, ovate, ever-green leaf is a half foot or more in length and conspicuously veined with white. It always has a shriveled appearance, as if it was about to die. The corms are composed largely of glutinous matter, and were much esteemed by our grandmothers, who used them for re-pairing their broken china.—Gold-thwaite's Geographical Magazine.

They Live in House Boats.

A Memphis writer introduces to the public a strange population who are counted as residents of that city, although most of them were born on the Mississippi or one of the streams emptying into it, and have never lived on dry land. These people occupy a floating settlement of house boats. The boats are sometimes named, and many of them are neatly painted, and show signs of comfortable furnishings, judging from lace curtains at the windows and pictures to be seen hanging on the walls of the interior. The colony is made up of representatives from twenty-odd States drained by the Mississippi and its trib-

Moored side by side, 150 boats were counted by the writer, who learned that some of the families began their navigation of the river as far north as Montana. It is not a fixed population, for, although most of the boats have been anchored at Memphis a long time, the absence of one of the families is noted now and then, and the inquirer is told that the head of the house has changed his habitat to New Orleans or some other river city. The house boat owner, of course, pays no rent; to escape it he took to the water. His food consists chiefly of fish, at catching which he is an adept. He knows bester than anybody else where to find the cat, the buffalo, the perch, and innumerable other fish. Drift wood serves him for fuel, and clothes, tobacco, spirits, and a few necessaries, are secured by an occasional day's labor as a 'longshoreman, roustabout, or farm hand.

How He Saved Money.

A newspaper reporter who has wielded a pencil for various journals for nearly a score of years, told an interesting story about himself to a party of congenial friends, the other evening, that will bear repeating.

He said that during the earlier portion of his journalistic career he found it almost impossible to lay aside any money, notwithstanding the fact that he was then a single man and earned a first-class salary.

Try as he would, the money he received on Saturday for the week's work would slip away from him, and when Monday came around there remained nothing for him to do but to strike the

Finally the cashier became tired of being hit so early in the week, and the reporter was warned that he would have to give it up.

"I managed it in one way and another," said the writer, "but after time my friends also became tired, and I found myself in many embarrassing positions, until I finally hit on a peculiar but altogether satisfactory plan.

"And what was that?" he was asked. "Well, it was simply this: When I got my money Saturday afternoon I went over to the post-office, purchased a registered letter, put a portion of my salary in it and then addressed it to myself at the office.

"Of course the letter was not de-livered until Monday, and in that way I managed to get along all right and finally to save some money.

Quacks and the Gullible.

Quacks and the Gulible.

Quacks have been, and quacks will be and there will always be a public ready to heed them and happy to pay them, says the Saturday Review. The peony root of Galen, the cramp rings of the honorable and scienific Robert Boyle, the sacred balsam, and Sir Kenelm Digby's apoplectic snuff, "composed of noble cephalick subjects which at once, or at most, three times using of it, with God's blessing," cured "the apoplexy and the lethargy, also vapors, drowsiness, imposthumes, dizzipors, drowsiness, imposthumes, dizziness, and pains and heaviness of the head," have all alike had their day with countless pectorals, cordials and elixirs. New panaceas will arise in spite of all analyses and in the teeth of all exposures. Nor is it possible to believe that legislation directed against such industries would be of much avail, so hard must it be to make laws for the effective protection of the pockets of the gullible.

An American Athens.

One of the prettiest little cities in America is Austin, Texas, It is situated in a beautiful basin, the rim of which is an almost perfect circle of verdant hills, that are ever shrouded in a purple haze, causing to be bestowed upon it Athen's ancient title, "The City of the Violet Crown." In the center of the basin rises a mound, and upon this has been placed the famed capitol building, for which Texas gave land enough to form a no inconsiderable State. It is an imposing and beautiful structure, the fifth highest in the world. Through the basin flows the Colorado River, a romantic-looking stream, across which a costly dam has been thrown, forming a beautiful lake some thirty miles in length, shut in by the wooded hills.
