Homestead Strike Declared Off.

After a struggle of nearly five months, which for bitterness has probably never been equaled in this country the great strike at Carnegie's Homestead Steel Works has been declared off.

This action was taken at a meeting of the lodges of the Amalgamated Association at Homestead last Sunday, the vote standing 101 in favor of declaring the strike off and 91 against it. The officials addressed the members, and in plain words told them the strike was lost and advised them to take steps to better their condition.

The members met with considerable opposition, but when the vote was taken it showed a majority of ten in favor of declaring the strike off. Those who were in favor of calling the strike off were jubilant, while those who were against it were badly put out. Most of the latter were men who were obstinate, and many of them were men who had either applied for positions in the mill and had been turned down or felt sure that their names were on the company's black list and could not get positions.

HISTORY OF THE STRIKE.
On June 30, 1892, the lock-out went into effect owing to the inability of the officials of the Amalgamated Association to arrive at an amicable basis for the new scale of wages due to go into effect on July 1. At this time there were employed in the homestead mills nearly 4,000 men. Of this vast army of workmen the Carnegie official averred that the wages of only 182 men would be adversely affected by the new scale of wages proposed by the firm. The workmen declared that it was not so much the reduction of the wages of a few men as it was the principles of the Amalgamated Association that were at stake. At that time the Carnegie Company was employing union men at all of its big iron and steel plants with the exception of the Edgar Thomson plant at Braddock.

FRICK'S ULTIMATUM.
Chairman Frick, after numerous consultations with the representatives of the Amalgamated Association, found that a wage battle was inevitable, and with this conviction in his mind he gave his ultimatum, which immediately brought on the strike. The building of the fences, the laying of steam pipes, the stringing of electric barb wires around the plant and the general preparations for trouble so enraged the men that when on July 6 the two barges loaded with Pinkerton detectives attempted to make a landing the serious trouble ensued in which the loss of a score or more of lives, the maiming of as many more men, the burning of the barges and the calling out of the entire Guard of Pennsylvania are now matters of history.

For the first time since the civil war the complete Guard of Pennsylvania, numbering over 8,000 men, nearly all of whom responded, was called out. The order was called out. The order was issued by the Governor on Sunday evening, July 10, and by 9 o'clock the next morning the troops were on their way to Homestead. Until about the middle of October the Second and Third Brigades guarded the works, while the First Brigade was held at Mount Gretna for a few days. Since then the cost to the State for this protection has been officially estimated at about $625,000. The town was taken complete control of by the militia; but with the exception of a few cases of disorderly conduct no further trouble developed.

The cost put upon Allegheny county by the strike is fixed at $200,000, the bulk of which will be needed to pay for the Sheriff's deputies and the prosecution of the strikers now under way.

LOSS TO THE CARNEGIE COMPANY
The loss to the Carnegie Steel Company is variously estimated at from $1,000,000 to 2,500,000. This sum covers the direct loss sustained by incapacitating the Homestead plant and the canceling of the government contracts for armor plate, which it is believed, has been done, although the Carnegie officials decline to give the facts.

The losses by the strikers through sympathy of the men employed at the Lower and upper Union Mills, the Beaver Falls and the Duquesne Mills will easily swell the total loss to the company to $3,000,000.

The loss to the old employes has averaged $125,000 a month, making the total for five months $625,000. This loss is exclusive of the wages affected by the trouble at the other Carnegie plants.

The strike at the Beaver Falls Mills was not declared off until Saturday and the losses to the men employed at those works were severe.

So far but a few of the Homestead men have been reinstated, but it is but a question of a short time until all black sheep are taken back. Assistant Superintendent Woods, of the Carnegie Steel Company, says about 900 of the old men will be re-employed.

The winds from the North blows sharp and keen, and bad effects of colds are seen. One Minute Cough Cure so safe and sure, will quickly perform a wondrous cure. W. S. Rishton, Druggist. 10-14-17

AN ATTRACTIVE SUBJECT.

A few days ago several gentlemen were standing in front of the Post Office engaged in general discourse, when the subject of turkeys and chickens for Thanksgiving dinner happened to arise. Just then another man residing not many miles from Bloomsburg, came along, and as he heard the words "stewed chicken" he stopped and listened. Seeing that his action had attracted attention he smiled pleasantly, and said: "Excuse me, gentlemen, but on hearing what you were talking about, I couldn't help but stop. You may think this queer but—I am a clergyman." And with a laugh in which all joined, he passed on.
