The Misses Runyon and a number of their lady friends received New Year's calls on Monday evening at their home on Market street. Those present report a very pleasant time.

The winds from the North blows sharp and keen, and bad effects of colds are seen. One Minute Cough Cure so safe and sure, will quickly perform a wondrous cure. W. S. Rishton, Druggist. 10-14-17

The patrons of our Public schools should visit the Fifth street school building and thoroughly inspect the new addition. Those who have seen the building since finished pronounce the plan an excellent one and the building as comfortable as possible to make it. There are now over 350 scholars in attendance.

In Case of Diptheria.

First, strips of linen or cotton fabric, about eight inches wide, folded several times, and long enough to reach from ear to ear, should be rung out of ice water (if in winter), and if in summer put directly upon ice, and then applied externally to the throat, and as fast as one cloth gets warm another should be ready to take its place, writes C. G. B. Klopffel, M. D., in the January Ladies' Home Journal. If the child complains of being cold, its feet and hands should be bathed in as hot water as it can stand. When the child is very young, it may be readily ascertained if it be cold by feeling its hands and head. Under no circumstances should hot applications be made to the throat. If the child is old enough, it may be given broken ice to suck constantly, even if the water is spit out. The cold applications inhibit the growth of the microbes. The patient's hands should be washed frequently—and here let me say so should those of the attendants—and the vessel used for the purpose should not be used by any one else. The patient's clothing needs protection in front. This may be done by pinning back of the neck a large piece of linen or cotton fabric, which will cover the whole front of the child and reach as far as the knees. A material should be used which can easily be boiled or burned when soiled. The little patient, if old enough, will want to spit, and for a spittoon a small wooden box, with an inch of sawdust on the bottom, is capital. Fresh sawdust should be supplied at least once a day—three times a day would be better—and that which has been used should be emptied upon a good, hot fire, and thus burned at the time the change is made. If there are any flies about, the box should be kept covered, and, as a matter of course, only uncovered when the patient desires to spit; otherwise, the flies alighting upon this spittoon would carry the germs of the disease with them, and then alighting upon the family's food and drink, necessarily infect them, and thus indirectly infect the whole family. This is by no means chimerical, but a well-established fact.

Success in everything depends largely upon good health. De Witt's Little Early Riser are little health producing pills. See the point? Then take an "Early Riser." W. S. Rishton, Druggist. 10-14-17

HOLD THE FORT.

This little book which came from the press a few weeks ago, is becoming popular and is meeting with a ready sale. The leading church papers of different denominations have highly commended it to their readers, and the author has received many kind letters concerning it. The following letter is from a Reverend gentleman who is considered an extensive reader of religious books and a competent judge of their merit:

New Berlin, Union Co. Pa; Dec. 22, 1892.

Rev. A. Houtz A. M., Orangeville Pa. Dear friend and brother! Some time ago I had the pleasure of reading your interesting and instructive book entitled "Hold the Fort." I have not enjoyed so much reading a book intended expressly for the young, since I read in my younger days the book of Newton on religious subjects for children. The quality and character of "Hold the Fort" are far in advance of the average Sunday School literature. While style is plain, clear and straight forward, it abounds in apt illustrations and appropriate similies. A book after all, derives its worth from the spirit and character of its author. For what we do, depends upon what we are; and what we are, depends upon what we receive; and what we receive, depends upon our fellowship with Christ. As some pious soul has expressed the idea in more touching and beautiful language. "The help which is done upon earth, Christ doeth it all Himself." The heart acquaintance of the author with Christ is the best reputation for "Hold the Fort," and this is the reason why I should like to see the work commented upon from the pulpit, and the work introduced in every Sunday School and family in the Church. Home has been truly styled the vestibule of Heaven. Home is the mother's place, where she holds eternal vigilance over her children. Here character is built, here she keeps the boys and girls close to her love so as to save them from sorrow and shame afterwards. What better books could a mother select than this to read, and to interpret its principles in her family. I would cheerfully recommend it to every good mother, for it wisely covers all the religious subjects her children should be informed on. Yours very gratefully.

S. Sidney Kohler
The size of the book is 16 mo. and contains 165 pages and sells at the low price of 50cts postpaid. The book is neatly bound in cloth and is copyrighted.

It can be obtained direct from the author, or at W. H. Brooke & Co. Bloomsburg, Pa.

A slight fire occurred at the Bloomsburg Car Shops last Thursday morning, about four o'clock. It was extinguished before much damage was done.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY, & Co, Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.
