Why Thorghatten Has a Hole Through It. Thorghatten, the famous Norwegian mountain, bas a hole extending entirely through it from one side to the other. According to a Norwegian legend this same Mount Thorghatten was once a hat and belonged to one Thorg; hence the name Thorghatten. It seems that in the mythical ages a giant and giantess fell violently in love with each other. They were forced to part for a time, but vowed that they would marry in the near future. Soon after, however, the fickle woman pledged her troth to another. This angered her giant lover to a degree unknown to modern men of smaller stature. He was seventy miles from her when the elfs brought the news; but, selecting a good arrow, he shot it in her direction.

Now it happened that her brother, Thorg, was standing in direct line of the arrow's flight. It went through his hat and skull, killing him instantly, and fell harmless at the feet of the faithless giantess. She had the power of turning all objects into stone, and forthwith willed that her brother's hat become a stone monument to the tragedy. The cruel lover was turned to stone where he sat astride his horse at Hestmando, and the giantess herself petrified at Lecko. The two latter objects have disappeared, but Thorg's hat (Thorghatten) is still the object of many curious pil-grimages.-St. Louis Republic.

A Day in Bed.

We are naturally given to condemn and despise the idea of remaining in bed when our health is good and all our vital forces in fair working order. Apart from the matter of our nightly rest, we rarely think of "a day in bed" either as preservative of health or conducive to longevity. Yet I am convinced there is much to be said in favor of "a day in bed" now and then, as an aid to health in the middle aged and as a measure tending to prolong life in the old. In bed the whole muscular system is at ease and the wear and tear of the body is reduced to a minimum. The processes of getting rid of waste matters are in abeyance; there is less waste to get rid of, and lungs, skin and kidneys have a measure of comparative repose. The nervous system, above all, is soothed and comforted by the "day in bed." Anxieties and worries disappear after the rest, and the individual returns to the workaday world refreshed and renovated, physically and mentally, in a degree such as the actions of no medicines could have accompliahed.

In a word, the person who enjoys "a day in bed" is in the position of an en-gine whose fires are banked down and whose energies are recruiting for the re-newal of the work of tomorrow.—Health Bulletin.

Cost of Mississippi Steamboats

Pictures of the packets scarcely show how unlike our boats these are, the dif-ference being in the methods of workmanship. Each story is built merely of sheathing, and in the best boats the doors and fanlights are hung on without frames around them-all loose and thin, as if they never encountered cold weather or bad storms. All the boats that I saw are as nearly alike in all respects as if one man had built them. I was told that the great packets cost only $70,000 to $100,000, so that the mere engine in a first class Atlantic coast, river or sound boat is seen to be of more value than one of these huge packets, and a prime reason for the difference in construction suggests itself.

But I do not mean to criticise, for these great, comfortable vessels serve HEPP'S Photographs of the World"; their purpose where ours could not be atest book on earth; costing $100,000; re-nsed at all, and are altorether so useful used at all, and are altogether so useful and appropriate as well as picturesque and attractive to an eastern man that there is not room in my mind for aught than praise of them.-Julian Ralph in Harper's.

Electrically Guarded.

Many visitors to the Metropolitan Museum of Art wonder at the apparent absence of guard against theft and think how easy it would be to rifle almost any of the cases of their valuable contents. Each of these cases is guarded, however, by a small wire which connects with the office and also with a large gong in the basement. Each of the cases in the room, which contains the Moses-Lazarus collection of porcelain, miniatures and other valuable objects is connected with these electrical wires, so that if any person should attempt to force open a lid the signal would be given at once. The same arrangement is made for the safety of most of the other cases .- New York Herald.

Dividing the Swag.

The prisoner was in the police court for stealing a pocketbook and a shyster interviewed him.

"You want a lawyer to defend you, I suppose?" he said insinuatingly. "I'd as soon have one as not," replied the prisoner, "if it doesn't cost too much

"Well, I'll only charge you ten dollars."

"Thunderation!" exclaimed the prisoner; "there was only eleven dollars in the pocketbook, and you don't want more than half of it, do you?"-Detroit Free Press.

What Constitutes a Writer?

The question now agitating the Writ-ers' club is this, What constitutes a writer? A certain lady recently demanded admission to this club of literary women on the strength of having sent in various things to Punch. The venerable jokist had rejected her efforts, it is said, but the club officers were assured on the writer's own authority that her articles were infinitely superior to the things he did print every week .-- London Letter.

Cotton Growing in Southern Russia. Cotton culture in South Russia, which was initiated some time ago by the minister of imperial domains, is now giving promising results. The earlier attempts failed through the ignorance of the cultivators, but since the Kherson school of agriculture took the matter up the propagation of American cotton seed has proved entirely successful. - London News.
