George Macdonald, the Scotch novelist, is presented to the readers of March Book News (Phila.) as the frontispiece portrait. Dr. Macdonald is as benevolent as kindly-faced as his many readers might expect to find him, for his writings show him to be sincere and straightforward, and moreover he is a good storyteller.

Book News aims to give a complete list of the latest publication as they come from the publishers, and 160 new book titles, properly classified are included in the Descriptive Price List for this month. A few words or a long review give the readers a just notion of the critical value of each work. In addition newsy notes and short sketches of authors and publishers appear under the various departments: Notes, Mr. Doles's Boston Letter, Asked and Answered, or Miscellany. Mr. Talcott Williams contribute "With the New Books." Portraits of Cyrus Field, of Transatlantic cable fame, of the Hon. Frederick Douglass, of the poets Dante and Heine, and of Mrs. French Sheldon, find place among the illustrations from the new books.
