MB, PARR'S PARE TEXT BOOK BILL Many Letters of Inquiry as to Its Exact

HARRISDURG, June 27.—The fact that Representative John R. Farr, of the Lackavanna district, made himself popular throughout the state during his two terms as a member of the lower house of the state legislature, is evidenced by the large number of letters of inquiry received here, asking for the exact provisions of his free text book bill which passed both houses of legislature during the last session. The measure which provides for free books and other school supplies is classed as one of most important and beneficial that has become a law in this state in many years.

As a considerable portion of Mr. Farr's life has been devoted to educational work, it seems that he has hit upon the right idea for a general benefit to the people of his native state. Mr. Farr is editor and proprietor of the Scranton Courier-Progress, is a staunch republican in politics, and in 1892 was re-elected to a seat in the house by a majority of 627 without his name appearing upon any ticket. He was elected by the use of "pasters." His free text book bill was the first bill of the kind passed in the Pennsylvania legislature.

HIS SCHEME WAS A NOVEL ONE.

A Pennsylvania Man the Manager of t Queer Marriage Bureau.

HAZLETON, June 27 .- It has been learned here that J. Jefferson Galland, of Freeland, has been obtaining money under false pretences of a peculiar kind.

Galland has for some time been adver tising under the name of "Mary Markay" for a husband, patronizing the matrimon ial journals especially. Dozens of appli-cants responded, and to each a typewritten letter was sent, requesting the deposit of a sum of money, ranging from $5 to $100, to be forfeited in case of insincerity.

James Lubkin, of Gaston, W. Va., who had invested $100 in the swindle, appeared here and instituted a search for Miss Markay, but without success. At the post of-fice he learned that Miss Markay's letters were put in J. Jefferson Galland's box, and the game was soon exposed. Lubkin en-tered suit against Galland for the amount of his loss, and interesting developments are expected. Mr. Gailand has borne an excellent reputation hithertofore.
