

The Great Fair.

ITS SUCCESS NOW ESTABLISHED—THE GREATEST IN THE HISTORY OF EXPOSITIONS.

The success of the World's fair is more than assured; it is established. The success promises now to be as magnificent as is the scope of the exposition itself. There is nothing in history with which the Chicago fair may be compared except the Paris exposition. The World's fair excels the universal exposition in the beauty and extent of its buildings and in the variety and attractiveness of its exhibits. It remains only to be seen whether the attendance at Chicago will exceed that at Paris.

It is probably going too far to predict or even to indulge the hope at this time that the attendance at the World's fair will be greater than at the French exposition. The total admissions at Paris were, in round numbers, 28,000,000, and of these 25,000,000 were paid. The average paid attendance was about 150,000 per day. The daily average of paid admissions at Chicago for the month of June was nearly 100,000. The indications are that it will reach 125,000 in July. If the increase reasonably expected for August, September and October is realized the number of visitors will be almost if not quite sufficient to bring the average daily attendance for the entire six months up to 150,000.

If the total attendance at Chicago should equal that at Paris the triumph of the World's fair would be unparalleled. It must be remembered that the charge for admission at Paris was only twenty cents, while at Chicago it is fifty cents. Again it must be remembered that there are more than 200,000,000 people living within a distance of 500 miles from the French capital, while the resident population within 500 miles of Chicago does not exceed 20,000,000. Considering the difference in the price of admission and the tremendous difference in the figures of population showing the resources from which the visitors were and are drawn, it would be marvelous indeed if the attendance at Chicago should equal that at Paris. Whether Chicago can equal Paris in the number of paid admissions is not, however, a question which materially affects the success of the World's fair. It is already apparent, in any event, that the Columbian fair will be the most successful as it is already the greatest exposition in the history of world.

Don'ts for Lovers.

Don't forget that marriage is the foundation of a new family, not the union of two old ones.

Don't marry one whose tastes and ideals in life are so different from your own that there could never be singleness of aim and purpose in the home.

Don't marry anybody till satisfied that life together will be bearable and enjoyable, as long as both shall live.

Don't expect marriage to make a great change in the habits and aims of young man—or a young woman either.

Don't take any stock whatever in the promises of post-marriage reformation; the young man who will not give up his dram or any other offensive habit, for the girl whom he is ready to die for, will not be likely to give it up after he has broken her heart and ruined her life by his evil conduct.

Don't try to win love by flattery. Don't allow yourself to be won in that way.

Don't try to buy love by rich and numerous gifts; love got in that way is not worth the having, for it is not love at all.

Don't take anybody that comes along and offers himself, through fear that there may not be another chance. Infinitely better a single life than a married existence full of wretchedness and misery.

Don't marry for physical beauty alone; for unless mated with beauty of mind and spirit, it is truly an apple of ashes.

Don't forget, when married, that mutual forbearance is the keynote of life-long happiness.—Good House-keeping.

Bread-Making in India.

Indian yeast is made from the sap of the date palm. In April, before the flowers appear, a Hindoo climbs the naked trunk—for the leaves, as in all palms, are all borne at the top. The man's feet are bound together by a rope and about his hips are fastened two pots for the reception of the sap.

As he climbs he calls out: "Darpur, darpur, ata hain," which being interpreted, is: "The palm-tapper is coming." This is for the benefit of the Mohammedan women who might be sitting unveiled in the courtyards of the houses exposed to the view of the climber after he has arisen above the tops of the walls.

A tapper who once fails to give this warning cry is thenceforth forbidden to ply his trade. A European who sees this performance for the first time, not knowing what the man is after, is very apt to take him for an ape, to which animal the brown and nearly naked Hindoo bears a striking resemblance.

When the tapper has reached the crown of the tree he cuts two gashes in opposite sides of the trunk with an axe, which he has carried up in his mouth. Then he fastens the pots under the gashes and descends. The full pots are taken away and empty ones put in their places twice daily.

The sap has a sweet taste, and contains some alcohol even when fresh. After standing in the sun in great earthen pots for a few days it begins to ferment, after which it deposits a thick white substance. This, taken at the proper time, is used as yeast. The natives also make vinegar and a kind of distilled liquor from the palm sap.

The Indian flour-mill is very primitive, consisting of two great millstones, of which the lower is fast, and the upper is usually turned by two women who feed the wheat by handfuls into a hole which passes through the stone. The meal so obtained is simply mixed with the palm-yeast and baked in very hot ovens, which have been heated for several days.

The small European householder finds it more convenient to patronize Mohammedan bakers, of whom, however, the bread must be ordered in advance. Sometimes two or three English families combine and hire a baker, paying him a monthly salary and providing him with raw material. The Hindoos eat unleavened bread by mixing flour and water and baking in thin loaves or cakes over a wood fire.

Teeth of the Beaver.

SHARP AS CHISELS THEY ARE CONSTANTLY NOURISHED.

From St. Nicholas.

As in every "gnawer" the beaver's skull is armed with two long, chisel-like teeth in each jaw. These teeth are exceedingly powerful, and are to a beaver what an axe is to a woodsman. One such tooth taken from the lower jaw of a medium-sized skull (they can be removed with difficulty, unlike the most of ours) is bent into nearly a semi-circle, and measures five inches along its outer curve. Only one inch of this length projects from the skull. The corresponding one from the upper jaw is bent into more than a complete half circle, and measures from its outer face five inches, of which less than an inch protrudes from its bone casing. In width each tooth is five-eighths of an inch.

Examination of one of them revealed the secret of how a beaver can perform such feats as chopping down a birch tree sixteen inches in diameter, not to speak of softer woods, like the basswood, of much greater size. The tooth is composed of two materials. Along the outer face or front of the tooth is a thin plate of exceeding hard enamel; on the latter, forming the body of the tooth, is a substance called dentine. The dentine, being softer, wears away with use; the thin enamel remains comparatively unworn, so that the tooth assumes the shape of a keen chisel that never grows dull.

The tooth is hollow at the base for half its length, and is filled with a nourishing substance which keeps it constantly growing. Thus, not only is the natural wearing away provided against, but a certain amount of wear becomes an actual necessity. With such instruments the beaver is admirably fitted for obtaining its natural food, the bark of shrubs and trees.

Advice to Young Women.

There is nothing so certain to make you disliked as to tell your troubles to a friend. Prosperity means friendship, but once you take it into your head to retail your woes you will soon discover that your company is not wanted, and people who once bowed to you in pleasant recognition now walk on the other side of the way with a cold and stony glare that looks over your head or through your body, but never meets your eyes as of yore.

The people are not hard-hearted that turn the cold shoulder to you. They are only averse to knowing of any more misery than they already have to hear. We every one of us have our little troubles. In some cases they grow to be very large ones, and it isn't pleasant to have the dark side continually thrust before us just when we begin to feel a bit comfortable in our minds over some unpleasant occurrence that has upset us for a time.

Take a bit of valuable advice, and when you feel like telling some one of your spat with your intended or how low your finances are, just remember our warning and don't do it. Your mother, your husband are the truest sympathizers, and outside of them you are certain to be called a bore if you persist in harrowing confidences.

The midsummer Cosmopolitan, the first at the new price of 12½ cents per copy, though unchanged in size, excels any other issue of that magazine in the number of its distinguished contributors, in the interest of its contents and in its overflowing illustrations by famous artists. Francois Coppee, William Dean Howells, Camille Flammarion, Andrew Lang, Frank Dempster Sherman, H. H. Boyesen, Charles DeKay, Thomas A. Janvier, Colonel Tillman, Agnes Repplier, and Gilbert Parker are a few of the names which are on its title page. Three frontispieces, all by famous artists, furnish an unusual feature, and among the artists who contribute to the 119 illustrations adorning its pages, are Laurens, Reinhardt, Fenn, Toussaint, Stevens, Saunier, Fiter, Meaulle and Franzen. The midsummer number is intended to set the pace for the magazine at its new price of 12½ cents a copy, or $1.50 a year. The magazine remains unchanged in size and each issue will be an advance upon its predecessors. Literally, every known country is being ransacked for material in the hope to bring the Cosmopolitan forward as the leading magazine in the world.

Judge Dallas Empowers the Receivers to Issue Interest-Bearing Certificates.

Judge Dallas, in the United States circuit court, issued a decree confirming the report of Master George L. Crawford, and empowering the receivers of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad and coal and iron companies to issue certificates on behalf of the railroad to the amount of $3,545,523, and on behalf of the coal and iron company to the extent of $197,526. The certificates will bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, and are made transferable by indorsement, but nothing is said as to their being a lien upon the property or its earnings. In the absence of any proviso to the contrary, however, they become practically a first lien, having the same status as the floating indebtedness which they will replace.

Judge Dallas also filed an opinion dismissing the petition of the bondholder, John Lornie, of Scotland, for leave to intervene as a party plaintiff in the Thomas C. Platt receivership suit against the Reading. A rumor that the Vanderbilts are quietly buying a controlling interest in the Reading road is not given credence.

A Sheriff Killed by Lepers.

Advises from Honolulu say that while attempting to remove twenty-eight lepers from Kalalaua valley, Kanui, Sheriff Stoltz, acting under orders from the board of health, was shot and killed by the lepers. His body was brought to Honolulu. The board of health determined to remove the lepers to the settlements of Molokai for fear they would spread the disease beyond the limits of the valley. Stoltz was accompanied by only two policemen. The two native policemen were not attacked. The lepers have sworn vengeance against any white men who come to remove them. The board has determined now to remove all the lepers at all hazards and will land officers on the beach by steamer, and by guarding the one trail leading into the valley will force the lepers to surrender or will shoot them down from the cliffs which hem the valley in.

An Editor's Mistake.

From the Boston Traveller. The editor of a weekly journal lately lost two of his subscribers through accidentally departing from the beaten track in his answers to correspondents. Two of his subscribers wrote to ask him his remedy for their respective troubles. No. 1, a happy father of twins, wrote to inquire the best way to get them safely over their teething, and No. 2 wanted to know how to protect his orchard from the myriads of grasshoppers. The editor framed his orthodox lines, but unfortunately transposed their two names, with the result that No. 1, who was blessed with twins, read, in reply to his query, "Cover them carefully with straw and set fire to them, and the little pests, after jumping about in the flames a few minutes, will speedily be settled." While No. 2, plagued with grasshoppers, was told to "Give a little castor oil, and rub their gums gently with a bone ring."

Its concentrated curative power, make Ayer's Sarsaparilla the best blood purifier.

Is He the Borden Murderer?

ROME, N. Y., July 7.—Dr. C. H. Lloyd, a dentist here, night before last picked up a letter on the street that was addressed to Lawrence Carpenter, Albany, N. Y. It had been forwarded from Albany to Rome. It was postmarked Fall River, Mass., June 22, and the letter enclosed bore the same date. The letter was evidently written by a very illiterate person and was in substance as follows:

MY DEAR HUSBAND: Lizzie has been acquitted and I don't think they can do anything with you now. I want you to come and spend the Fourth. The papers give a description of the man seen over the fence on the morning of the murder. Can you prove where you were on the morning of the murder.

[Signed] ANNIE.

Up to the present the correspondent has not been able to secure the letter or an accurate copy, but the above contains the principal portions of the epistle.

In the Northern Central railroad yard, at Sunbury last Thursday morning, a shifting engine ran over a misplaced switch into a train of tank cars on the next track. The cars were filled with oil and naphtha, and several of them exploded, scattering the burning oil in all directions. The other cars of the train were quickly detached and drawn away from the fire.

Seven tank cars were consumed and also seven refrigerator cars which stood on an adjoining track. The shifting engine was also ruined, and the aggregate loss to the railroad company is estimated at $25,000 to $30,000.

BAD CONVICTS REVOLT

Many of Them Make a Bold Break For Liberty.

KEEPERS MURDEROUSLY ATTACKED

The Iona, Mich., Reformatory the Scene of a Bloody Battle—Three Convicts Killed and Several of the Prison Officials Dangerously Wounded.

DETROIT, July 11.—A special despatch from Ionia, Mich., says:

Fully 75 convicts at the House of Correction made a break for liberty yesterday afternoon. They were at work in the various shops. The first 10 or 15 left their work and started for the west wall.

The ringleader was convict William Smith, known as 803, a five-year man sent up from Detroit. Smith has lost time before, having made an attempt to escape a year ago last September, and he is a tough character.

Smith's men have been at work on shop No. 21 about 10 rods from the west wall repairing conductor pipes. Two long ladders were used and were standing against the building.

Smith started out and was followed by the others who were in the schema. He quickly clasped the ladder standing against the west wall.

Warden Parcell had discovered that something was brewing over Sunday, and had doubled the guards yesterday morning. Teacher Courley was watching around in the vicinity of this building and when he saw Smith and the gang come out he fired a shot from his revolver into the ground and ordered them back. Smith urged them on, paying no attention to the order. The men on the wall and about the yard quickly assembled at this point and were ordered by Warden Parcell to stop the break. A general fusillade commenced and a hand-to-hand fight followed. The leaders were knocked down but the convicts replaced them, and Oscar Miller, an eight-year man, gained the top of the wall.

The guard shot at him and the ball went clear through his body and he dropped to the ground dead. In the meantime a terrible battle was going on below. Convict Smith struck at Deputy Warden Rowley with a hammer, but the latter dodged and escaped death. Rowley struck convict Charles F. Jones on the head and he dropped. He will doubtless die, as his head is terribly cut. William Eager, sent from Grand Rapids, was badly wounded and his recovery is doubtful. He is serving a 15 year sentence for manslaughter. Smith, another convict, brought into play a long bill made out of sheepskin, loaded with sand. This with three hammers, a large wrench and a round stone were afterwards taken from the leaders in the break. How they got them is a mystery.

Teacher Gourley was struck on the head with the stone which was hurled at him. It grazed his skull but did not seriously injure him.

It was only by prompt action that the wholesale liberation of the convicts was averted. Hallmaster Parcell grabbed up the hot irons used by some local tinners and commenced prodding the convicts, who ran back.

Four convicts were injured. Jones has concussion of the brain, and Smith, the leader, was found to have a bad cut on the back of the head.

On seeing the first ten follow Smith out of the shop the rest followed until they were driven back.
