Collisions at Sea.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The British cruiser Capt. Brown, off Start Point in a fog, on Saturday evening, had a hole was knocked in the Kirkby's port side amidships, through which the water rushed in immense volumes. The fires under her boilers were soon extinguished and some of her compartments filled with water. The undamaged compartments kept her afloat. The Kirkby was afterwards towed to Plymouth by the Fort. The Kirkby, from Coosaw, S. C., July 12, arrived at Plymouth Aug. 4; and at the time of the collision was proceeding with part of her cargo for Rotterdam. The Fort had just left Tor Bay, where she had been with the blue maneuvering fleet.

Atlanta Not Afraid.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 14.—There is going to be no trouble this fall about moving the cotton crop. The startling reports sent out by Bradstreet's to the effect that there would likely be a crisis in cotton affairs at the South because of the inability or unwillingness of the bankers to advance sufficient money to move the crop have no application to the situation here. Whatever may be the arrangements from the government, Atlanta and this region of the State need fear nothing. The cotton crop is going to be moved.

To Pay With Bank Orders.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Aug. 14.—To relieve the currency stringency which is stopping all mills in town, Cashier Wilkinson, of the Adams National bank, has devised a system of orders of the denomination of $2, $5 and $10, to be used by the companies in making up pay rolls. The orders are like clearing house certificates, and are to be good with merchants for goods, creditor cash and to be received on deposit for merchants by local banks. These orders will probably be used next week by nearly all mills in town.

Dangers of Bathing.

ASHBURY PARK, Aug. 11.—Thomas Wilkinson, of the firm of Bailey, Banks & Biddle, of Philadelphia, was seriously wounded while bathing here yesterday. He was rendered unconscious by being hurled against an iron pole supporting a life-line. When rescued he had a serious cut two inches long on the forehead and another on the side of the face and a gash under the chin. The tendons of both hands were injured. A physician worked for four hours resuscitating Mr. Wilkinson and dressing his wounds.

Socialistic Congress.

ZURICH, Aug. 11.—The International Socialistic Congress rejected a resolution offered by Norwegian delegates that a universal strike be started immediately after a war is declared. The resolution was supported by representatives of only four nations, while the representatives of 14 nations voted against it. A Belgian amendment in favor of aiming to suppress militarism by withholding supplies, was adopted.

Indian Teachers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—By direction of Secretary Smith the Government Industrial Training school at Santa Fe, N. M., will at once be changed into a normal training school for the preparation of Indians to take the place of white teachers in their own schools. It is also stated that the civil service rules will be so amended as to permit the employment as teachers of the graduates of this school, without a civil service examination.

A Score of Mills Re-open.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 15.—The score of cotton mills owned and operated by B. B. & R. K. Knight, of this city, and located in Rhode Island and Massachusetts, started up yesterday after having been stopped a week. The firm is one of the largest, if not the largest, in the country engaged in the manufacture of cotton goods. They employ between 7,000 and 9,000 operatives.

Jack Dempsey Not Insane.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 14.—Jack Dempsey, the "Nonpareil," is here ill in a hospital, but he is not insane as reported in a despatch from Minneapolis. The pugilist has been quite sick since Monday. He was out at White Bear Lake several times last week sailing, rowing and swimming, and it is believed caught cold.

Cholera in Naples.

ROME, Aug. 14.—In the 24 hours ending at noon yesterday five new cases of cholera and two deaths were recorded in Naples, according to the official report.

PETS OF FAMOUS PEOPLE.

Queen Victoria's Dogs—Rider Haggard's Rat—Bernhardt's Snakes.

Many representatives of rank and genius have sought to beguile their occasional leisure by cherishing fond and sometimes eccentric attachments for certain pets selected from the animal creation. The brilliant Montaigne was extremely fond of playing with his cat, a splendid specimen of the feline tribe, devotedly attached to its kind master. The gifted but melancholy Cowper found welcome recreation in watching the gambols of his three tame hares. Numerous celebrities of the present day exhibit similar attachments, as the following authentic details prove:

Her Majesty Queen Victoria has about forty pet dogs, her greatest favorites being collies. Princess Henry of Battenberg has a great fondness for fox-terriers. The Duchess of Connaught equals Richieu in her strong attachment for cats. Her favorite is a fine Persian puss. Mr. Gladstone's pet is a small black Pomeranian dog named "Pez," of which he is very fond. Pez is very devoted to his master, and invariably accompanies him in his walks around Hawarden, where the great statesman generally indulges him in his passionate canine love of running for sticks. Nearly all the cabinet ministers, when visiting the castle, have had to contribute in this way to Pez's amusement. Madame Patti's favorite pet is a little Mexican dog named "Richi." He is provided with a complete wardrobe, including night-gowns made of costly silk and seven collars, one for each day in the week.

Mr. Rider Haggard has a constant companion in his study in the form of a large pet rat named "Jack," who answers to his name and exhibits remarkable affection for his gifted master. Sarah Bernhardt with her characteristic disregard for the conventional has some rather uncommon pets. Amongst these are a pair of huge and handsome St. Bernard dogs, an opossum, and two snakes. Her special favorite is the opossum, a comical little creature, which she has christened "Tilda." She found it in Australia at the foot of a tree, where as a baby it had dropped from its mother's pouch. She has reared it successfully, and has trained it to bring to her various articles at the word of command. The snakes, which are harmless, come in for a share of her caresses every day, and drink their morning meal of milk from her hand.

Rosa Bonheur, the well-known artist, has several pretty pet dogs, but her chief favorite is a monkey, which is allowed to run about at will. It is very much attached to its mistress, and loves to accompany her on her country rambles, when it will gambol about with the dogs, climb trees, etc.; but when danger threatens it promptly seeks refuge upon her shoulder. The Shah of Persia has for a pet a handsome, tiny Shetland pony. It is shod with golden shoes.

His Face a Good Razor Strap.

A young fop, who had just begun to shave for a beard, stepped in a hair-dresser's shop, and after a great swagger, desired to be shaved. The hair-dresser went through the usual movements and the sprig jumped up with a flourish and exclaimed: "My fine fellow, what is the charge?" "Oh, no charge," replied the barber. "No charge? How is that?" "Why, I am always thankful when I can get soft calfskin to sharpen my razor on."

A violinist to be successful must keep up with the times. He should always have something new on the string.

Too Much for Him.

"I understand that you have thoroughly mastered the English language."

"I thought I had till yesterday."

"And now you think you haven't? What led you to change your opinion?"

"I read a description of a game of baseball."—N. Y. Press.

A Happy Moment.

Benevolent Editor—At last I am able to show my love for the down-trodden workman in a substantial way. Hereafter I shall give my faithful employes a needed rest every holiday, by suspending publication.

Friend—Why didn't you do that before?

Benevolent Editor—My readers used to buy the paper on the street but recently I have started a new system, and now they all pay by the year.—N. Y. Weekly.

You can be Happy.

You know you ought to be bright, cheerful, and happy.

You determine each day that you will be happy yourself, and make others so.

The day is not very old before your brightness is gone, your nerves go "all to pieces," and you are helpless on the couch.

You have falling or displacement of the womb, — causing "bearing down feeling" and backache, — perhaps ovarian troubles, with inflammation of the uterus and leucorrhœa.

Then remember Lydia E. Pinkham's great discovery. Her Vegetable Compound has cured thousands just like you, and will you.

It is given you by a woman who gave her life to the study of your troubles.
