TALK OF COMPROMISE

Harmless Gossip About Possible Silver Legislation.

FIGURING WITHOUT CLEVELAND

Concessions That Might be Made on Both Sides-What Night Sessions of the Senate and Consequent Physical Exhaustion

May Bring Forth.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 20 .- There is a marked increase in the number and variety of the rumors indicating a compromise on the silver question. According to one of these stories the Secretary of the Treasury is to appear before the Committee on Finance this week for consultation on the subject, but various members of that committee deny the truth of the statement, while others assert that they have never heard it mentioned either on the floor of the Senate or in committee. Senator Me-Pherson permits the use of his name in denying that such a proposition has been advanced. Still, the fact remains, that a great deal is being said looking in that direction. The compromise, if there is to be one, upon which it is thought the offer would be made would consist of concessions not only by the eastern, but by the silver men. The latest proposition discussed is one that directs the coinage of the seignorage now in the treasury and the purchase and coinage of a further amount of silver to about the aggregate provided for in the Faulkner amendment, the silver to be coined to its full coinage value, thereby preventing the storage of any more seignorage. This would appeal to two classes, those who want the the purchases continued and these who believe that what the country needs is an enlarged currency, and advocate the coinage of the seignorage rather than the purchase of more metal.

This would be a concession of the eastern men, but if such a concession is made by them they will insist that it be coupled with a concession on the part of the western men that will incorporate in the law the authority given to the secretary of the treasury to issue bonds and buy gold whenever in his judgment it becomes necessary to do so in order to maintain the parity between the two metals. Unless the silver men agree to this it is said there can be no compromise. It was upon such a proposition as this, or one akin to it, that it was said the secretary of the treasuay was to be invited to come before the committee. Secretary Carlisle was in the marble room during the afternoon, but whether his visit had anything to do with the financial question is not known.

Those who favor the compromise outlined state that it is known that Precident Cleveland would veto it, but that would be provided for, and after Mr. Cleveland had stated his exceptions to the bill it would, by the same combination that put It through before, be pushed to a passage over the veto. It is very certain that nothing has been said in committee indicating any thought of compromise on the part of the friends of the administration, and any steps that may be taken in that direction will be taken by members of the committee as senators only.

The fact is that there appears to be an unusual amount of lethargy about the Finance committee. There seems to be no way for it to force a vote on the pending bill and until that is out of the way its sessions are held as a perfunctory perform-ance of a specific duty. The discussion yesterday was of the most desultory sort and very little interest was manifested, it being taken for granted that there was little need for talk until the Repeal bill had been voted upon, or, at least, until the dawn of the breaking of the debate could be seen in the distance. The bill of Mr. Morgan for the establishment of a joint commission of the two houses is looked upon by the Finance committee as a measare intended to usurp their own functions, and very naturally, the members of that committee will hardly report favorably a committee will hardly report favorably a bill to legislate themselves out of pr-stige and power. The Faulkner amendment was talked about, but with no purpose in view, because it is looked upon as a com-promise pure and simple and until the point is reached where compromises are in order it will receive but the most casual The whole cituation may be summed up by saying the commentee is playing a watch-ing game, and the action of Mr. Voorhees ing gams, and the action of Mr. Voorhees on the floor later in the day was but a move intended to force their opponents to take the next step and indicate their pro-gramme. The appearance of things now indicate that night sessions will be the mum thing before the committee is willing to take up the Saulkney or any other amendment and discuss it in a serious way as a possible solution of the pending diffi-culty. Still, there are Senators who pro-feas to believe that a compromise propasi-tion will be crystallized before next week is over. IN OTHE Birts. LOCED SHITE IN-

MRA. HALLIDAY FRIGHTENED. Thomas McQuillan Visits the Slayer of His Wife and Daughter. MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sep. 19 .- The vil-lage is crowded with people from the vicinity of the Hallday murder and elsewhere who are here to witness the trial of Mrs. Halliday. The feeling is very bitter against the woman and the people say if she is crazy now she was not so when she committed the murders. The woman has shown every evidence of fear and is probably conscious of her approaching trial. To all appearance she is still the mattering lunatic. Mrs. Halliday was visited in her cell yesterday by Thomas McQuillan, whose wife and daughter were two of the victims of the murderess. The old man gazed fiercely at the woman and could hardly re-strain himself from harming her as he exclaimed: "That is the woman who came and took away my wife and daughter." The words were spoken with terrible earnestness and as the prisoner heard them she crouched down on her cot as though in fear and then began muttering. Robert Halliday, son of the murdered man, identified the watch which Shariff Beecher found on the woman as his father's.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sep. 14.-"I see three angels above me," exclaimed Mrs. Halliday when she was visited in her cell in the jail and then she said: "The two women are nearest." Later she spoke again of the two saying, "the women who visited the house and whom the old man wanted was the wife of the Irishman."

She was visited by Mr. Kinney, clerk at the Hotel Rockwell, to whom she talked in a rambling way of religious matters, endeavoring to tell him something about the Episcopal church, and claiming that she followed the teachings of that faith. These assertions she repeated several times and it may yet develop that the prisoner is a religious fanatic. A report has been re-ceived here that a band of gypsies are trav-eling toward Monticello, but nothing has yet have a seen of them. yet been seen of them.

Several times within the past week Mrs. Halliday has been detected gazing from her cell window in a perfectly same way. It was discovered that she had stuffed her pillow in front of the bars of her window insuring her from sudden detection. The prisoner ate heartily yesterday. When she had finished her supper abe said: "Oh, Nancy; I want to tell you when I came from Ireland to this country. Barney stole me away and took me a long ways where there were lots of terrible people." She will probably soon tell who Barney is. She appears to be cheerful.

MINT ROBBER COCHRAN.

He Says He Knows No Lawyer to Defend Him.

PEILADELPHIA, Sep. 19.-Henry, S. Cochran was arraigned before United States Commissioner Bell, in the office of United States District Attorney Ingham yesterday. The government was repre-sented by United States District Attorney Ingham and Assistant District Attorneys Newitt and Raiston. Cochran, in reply to a question of Commissioner Bell, said he was without counsel. Supt. Bosbyshell testified that the shortstge amounted to about $28,000.

Commissioner Bell then said, in order to give the prisoner time to procure counsel, he would continue the case until noon today and held Cochran in $30,000 bail. In default of bail Cochran was committed in care of Deputy United States Marshal Meyers.

Cochran was complacent, and when asked by the commissioner if he wanted counsel, he sought the commissioner's advice. The latter said he was not in a posttion to advise him on the subject. After being committed, the ex-chief weigher questioned Supt. Bosbyshell on the matter and declared that he did not know a lawyer, never having retained one. It is probable that Cochran's friends will secure him able counsel.

After the examination before United States Commissioner Bell had been con-cluded, and the defendant committed in default of bail, United States District Attorney Ingham went into the office of the clerk of the United States Circuit Court
