There are two forms of criminality. psychological constitutions is morbid, such as murder, robbery, etc. Now the natural forces which formerly impelled men to battle in this sanguinary manner have not entirely ceased to act upon humanity; they still act, and excite men to certain antagonisms, which occupy the entire life of almost all human kind, excepting only those who, possessing a superior moral sense, refuse to become entangled in self-interested struggles, even if this course of action costs them some trouble. But the means of the struggle have changed through the influence of civilization; these were formerly force and violence; they are to day fraud and astuteness.

No one can deny that an immense number of thefts are committed every day, of which the law takes no cognizance; that human cupidity finds means of satisfying itself even if it does not employ the sword and poison, The veterans have gone or are going which sometimes makes one wonder, with horror, if all human progress is lis, and can think over at leisure the not menaced with failure. This is the events of their meeting. transformation of savage criminality among civilized people. It is to-day, unfortunately, a normal condition of existence that this battle of astuteness has replaced the war of the muscles. For, as long as the social conditions last, no human power will be able to prevent men from stealing from each anarchy from killing each other. From is imbued, to some extent, with evolutional criminality.

These, however, who really form that criminality, which I call evolutional, are the men who, endowed with a greater talent or favored by a too prosperous fortune, push that bat-tle of intrigue and deceit to a monstrous excess, which makes it too great a danger to all modern society. These, in reality, only employ to a great extent the means of enriching themselves that all the world uses on a small scale; but their action, on account of the excessive development which they give to the means of the struggle for existence, should be considered as abnormal and, therefore punishable; while the same means, applied on a small scale, are entirely normal, and, although our moral sense feels them unworthy, remain unpunished; for law would be powerless and even unjust to injure them. Those ebb had set in. "After most earnest ebb had set in. "After most earnest who make use of the means that society has given them, without annoying the social life more than others, are evidently only using their rights. But, for the great evolutional criminals, it will not do to trust too much to the effects of the punishment; they are the product of our customs and will always be found so long as our customs remain unchanged.—Guillaume Ferrero, in Revue des Revues.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rum-bling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamma tion can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hear-

Iron Bridge Completed.

The last span of the iron railroad bridge between Packer's Island and Northumberland was put in place on Sunday. This completes the work for this season, although there is a small span to build on the Northumberland side over the canal. The bridge cost the company about $90,000 and was not built by contract, but was erected by the company itself. The iron work cost $54,000, the stone work $17,000 and the cost of putting it together was $15,000, while the cost of painting it will be $3,000. There are six spans and each span required seven thously, not a ream having to be made for will be built and then the double track will be laid.—Sunbury Daily.

Ringing speeches were made, and there was plenty of enthusiasm among the hearers and no abatement in the glow of comrade-

> But there was something more suggestive at the meeting than all this. For the first time in the history of the Grand Army its roll showed a clear and indisputable falling off. The year before, at the Washington encampment, there had been an omen of what has now come. The annual gain in membership, once reckoned in tens of thousands, had fallen to only 1,200 names. With a special anxiety and interest, therefore, the statistics of the al dates on which excursions of the She is ready, when she has it, to lend present encampment were awaited.

Girls and Spending-Money.

The girl who is earning her money by working says with a sigh, when she buys a hat that is too extravagant or a box of sweets that she doesn't need, 'Well, I worked hard enough for this money, I may spend it as I please," writes Ruth Ashmore in a pleasant article on "Girls and the Use of Discourse of Discou Money" in the September Ladies' Home Journal. That sounds reasonable, but she ought to want to spend it in the right way. She ought to think of the days when possibly sickness will come-then does she want to feel sure that she hasn't a dollar in the world and that she is being taken care of by people on whom she has no claim? Or there will come a day when everybody else is going for an outing; will she have to decline because she hasn't saved any money? I know she has earned it; I know the fine hat, or the fine gown may be very tempting—but the mere fact that she has given her strength and her nervous force to get this money, should make her cautious in taking care of it.

"Shall I be mean?" asks a sensitive girl. No, my dear, but I tell you it is just as well to remember the old proverb about being just, before you are generous. There is no generosity in contributing to a floral piece for some dead comrade and owing a bill As the period of the existence of to your washerwoman; there is no the World's Columbian Exposition generosity in treating all the girls you know to ice cream and having to stronger for the economical and satis- catch cold because you haven't a thick flannel petticoat on, the reason being that you have no money to buy one. THE BRAZILIAN REVOLT. Fragmentary News of the Bombardment at Rio.

NEW YORK, Sept 15 .- A Buenos Ayres telegram gives fragmentary news of the Brazilian revolt. President Pelxoto still controls the telegraph lines.

The insurgent squadron is reported to have bombarded an arsenal town near Rio Janeiro, but which one it is impossible as yet to ascertain. The insurgents captured the government gunboat Alagons, which lay in the harbor, and surrendered with-out firing a shot. The forts at the entrance to the harbor fired on the insurgent fleet, but without effect. The insurgents directed their fire upon the arsenals and forts. The government ironclad Bania, which started for Paraguay river to oppose any revolt in the fleet at Matto Grossian. so, has been ordered to return to the de-fence of Rio Janeiro. The officers of the government gunboat Tirudentes, which has been in the harbor of Montevideo for several days, expect to be attacked shortly by the insurgent transport Itacca and they have prepared their ship for action. Of the 486 officers in the Brazilian navy 296 have joined the insurgents.
