It not only relieves; it does more it cures. We refer to One Minute Cough Cure. Suitable for all ages, all conditions, at all times.—W. S. Rishton, Druggist.

The Sky Grows Gray,
The Thermometer
Drops Lower,

Winter comes on apace, and with it comes the usual cracked lips, rough hands, coughs, colds, and sore throats. Neglect of such conditions means in the course of a few days a change from a petty annoyance to a positive disfigurement or a dangerous illness.

For the first two,
Rishton's Glycerine Jelly
put up in convenient tubes at 15 cents, is an instant relief.

For the second two Rishton's Magnetic Cough Syrup 25 cents, and "Frog in the Throat" 10 cents, is unsurpassed. An even half dollar takes them all and may save a peck of trouble.

W. S. RISHTON, Ph. G.
Opposite Post Office.

INTERESTING INFORMATION.

Princess Beatrice is said to be an amateur actress of exceptional ability. Queen Victoria has a unique collection of political papers, which is preserved in the private library at Buckingham Palace.

The Duchess of Cleveland is so enthusiastic a botanist that she has gone to South Africa to add new specimens to her already fine collection of trees and plants.

The most noted shot among English women is, Lady Eva Quin, wife of Capt. Wynllham, heir presumptive to the Earl of Dunraven. She has killed six full-grown tigers from the frail shelter of a howdah.

The Empress of Russia is very fond of the Danish black or rye bread, such as is baked for the soldiers. During her Majesty's visits to Denmark she eats this kind of bread every day, and when in Russia a loaf is sent to Russia every fifth day.

The Princess of Wales has been studying art rather seriously at Copenhagen, having taken lessons from both an English and a Dutch painter. Her two daughters take great pride in decorating their own rooms, and own a collection of bibelots from all parts of the world.

With Christmas ahead, what would not school children give for a holly tree such as the one described by a correspondent as existing a few paces from his house in Llandiloes? It measures 20 feet in circumference and 43 feet in height, covering a circle the diameter of which is 54 feet!

It seems that woman has a very old precedent in the matter of acting as a judge. In the time of Henry VIII. a certain Anne Berkeley, of Yale, Gloucestershire, appealed to the King to punish a party of rioters who had broken into her park, killed the deer, and burned the hayricks. His Majesty granted to her and others a special commission to try the offenders. Armed with this, she impelled a jury, heard the charges, and on a verdict of guilty, pronounced sentence.

A clever woman recently said that a worst came to worst and she had to find some way of earning her living, she believed that she would become a public sympathizer. Any one could send for me," she explained, "and pour out all their worries and troubles while I listened and sympathized for, say, twenty-five or fifty cents an hour. Everything should be strictly confidential, and I would never allow myself to have a greater worry, or a worse pain, or a deeper trouble than my client. What do you think of that scheme?"

If we had to search for examples of women's supremacy over man the very last place in the world in which we should expect to succeed would be among the savage tribes of Africa, where brute force is the only influence respected. Yet a German traveller tells us of a district where our dusky sisters tyrannize over the defenseless, down-trodden men who for generations have passed their time in idleness, while their wives have been eluding a life of work and activity. In consequence of this the gentler sex has become superior both physically and mentally.

It is said that the first yachting commission ever granted to a woman by the United States Government will probably be given to the Countess Westcott de Tolna, who, as an American citizen, is able to qualify as sailing master of the yacht Tolna, in lieu of her husband, who has not yet taken out his naturalization papers. The Countess is a Californian by birth, and knows enough of navigation to use its terms intelligently. Her commission will put the Tolna on about the same footing in foreign ports as an American man-of-war, and will allow her to dispense with certain troublesome requirements of such ports.

The English papers are quite enthusiastic over the wedding of Miss Flora Davis. The London Queen says: "Don't you think that all bridesmaids to be should bless the pluck of Miss Flora Davis, who has burst in their name the chain of uniform color under which they have writhed so long? The attendant maids of this lovely Transatlantic bride wore striped dresses of the same material and style, but alternating with varied colors according to the personality and complexion of each laundress. A happy inspiration this for recompensing the impossible feat of pleasing everybody, and certain to be copied at many prospective weddings."

English women are still harrowing up their souls over the question of smoking. Ever since the non-smoking ladies of a certain club objected to the smoking ladies having a room to themselves, because, forsooth, all the brightest women haunted the smoking-room, the subject has been written and talked about with unabated excitement. And now they are all torn up over another phase of the question. They want to know, and they want to know quickly, whether women should be present at a smoking concert. They are uncertain as to whether a proper-minded woman ought to, under any circumstances, associate with "My lady Nicotine."

What curious old records one comes across sometimes in unexpected ways! Here is one which rather calls to mind certain fairy tales beginning "Once upon a time," and going on to recount extraordinary proceedings quite as if they were the most natural and common things in the world. It has reference to Edward III. and Philippa of Hainault, and is kept with other documents at Harwich, their Majesties having had at the time a palace at Felixstowe. It runs thus: "For repairing the Queen's crown which ye King threw into ye fire, item 3s. 6d." The points which strike one in this memorandum are the violence of the King's temper and the cheapness of the mending process.

STUB ENDS OF THOUGHT.

Life is rose color and gray.
Honesty is not transferable.
Hope is the big link in the chain of fate.
A baby is the most selfish being on earth.
Too many of us love to wait on ourselves.
Opportunity frightens away as many as it invites.
Our yesterdays shape our to-morrows as we shape both.
What gets into a woman's ears soon gets into her mouth.
Least self-respect is so worthless nobody wants to find it.
