An exchange is authority for the statement that if all the tracks controlled by the Pennsylvania system were placed in a straight line they would extend from New York to San Francisco and return, and then there would be enough track remaining to run a single line into Central America. The total number of miles operated and controlled by this company is 8,793, of which 4,467 1/2 constitute the lines east of Pittsburg and Erie. Including the second, third and fourth tracks and the Company's sidings, the Pennsylvania Company owns and controls 15,130 1/2 miles of track, which would be long enough, if it were feasible, to more than extend from New York to China.

Not a Bit of Difference in the Man.

The Democrats of the country have no reason for changing their opinion of President Cleveland. Mr. Cleveland is to-day the same fearless exponent and defender of the people's rights that he was when he was elected to the Presidency in 1884. He has not changed in his policy, and his opponents, in their attacks upon him, simply show to the people that the President is right and his traducers wrong.—Williamsport Sun.

—of the constitution may follow in the track of a disordered system, due to impure blood or inactive liver. Don't run the risk! The proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery take all the chances. They make a straightforward offer to return your money if their remedy fails to benefit or cure in all disorders and affections due to impure blood or inactive liver. The germs of disease circulate through the blood; the liver is the filter which permits the germs to enter or not. The liver active, and the blood pure, and you escape disease.

When you're run down, debilitated, weak, and your weight below a healthy standard, you regain health, strength, and wholesome flesh, by using the "Discovery." It builds up the body faster than nauseating Cod liver oils or emulsions.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Mr. Bailey's Bill to Relieve Senators and Representatives.

THE CARNEGIE COMPANY MUST REFUND $140,484.94.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 5, 1894.

President Cleveland, who has a fine sense of humor, will doubtless smile when he returns from his hunting trip and gets a glimpse of a bill that has been evolved from the brain of Mr. Bailey, the brilliant young Texan, whose devotion to the Constitution has earned his fame in the House. A preamble to the bill recites the charges that have been made of the encroachment of the executive upon the prerogatives of the legislative branch of the government, and the bill provides for a cessation of such encroachment by relieving Senators and Representatives from all participation in the making of appointments. It provides further that whenever the President desires information not contained in the papers of applicants for office he must get it from some one who is not a member of either branch of Congress. While Mr. Bailey's bill has some desirable points, the country, to say nothing of Congress, is hardly educated up to such a high standard yet. Congress would be sure to be purer and more patriotic if its members had no dealings with patronage, but until there is a decided change in human nature Congress is not likely to deprive its members of the privilege of trying, if they do not always succeed, to get offices for those who help them to get into Congress.

Although it took more than two weeks to get a voting quorum on the floor of the House to pass Mr. Bland's bill for the coinage of the seigniorage the quorum did not stay two days. True, there is no especial need of a quorum to consider the pension appropriation bill, which is now before the House, but that is no good reason why so many members should be absent. They are sent here and paid to attend the sessions of the House and they should either do it or resign and allow some one else to do it. No business transacted by Congress is of more importance than the making of appropriations, and that for pensions is the largest of them all.

The expressions of pleasure from men of all shades of politics at the news of the convalescence of Chairman Wilson speak volumes for the esteem in which that gentleman is held by all who know him. He never forgets that he is a democrat of democrats, nor does he ever forget the courtesy due from one gentleman to another, not even in the midst of the hottest political wrangle on the floor of the House; hence his deserved popularity.

Secretary Herbert's statement of his having compelled the Carnegie Company, which has the contract to make the steel armor for our new war ships to pay $140,484.94 to the government on account of defects in armor furnished last year, was not news to those democrats who enjoy the confidence of the Secretary, but it was a new departure on the part of the Navy Department that must have very much surprised Mr. Carnegie and his associates, who have been so long accustomed to being able to "fix up" any charge that happened to be made against them in connection with their dealings with the government. In fact, they tried to "fix up" this matter by appealing from Secretary Herbert to the President, but the President stood by the Secretary and the cash had to be plunked down. No amount of influence can get any crooked business approved by this administration, except it be done through the connivance of some of the holdover minor officials who are still occupying places that ought to be filled by democrats and who are in the pay, indirectly, if not directly, of some of the old contractors.

It is not expected that the Senate will take up the bill for the coinage of the seigniorage until after the tariff bill has been passed.

Senator Voorhees says he did not overwork himself as much during the long silver fight at the extra session as he has done since the democratic caucus returned the Wilson tariff bill to the Finance committee for revision, and the other democratic members of the committee have worked just as hard. The sentiment of the democratic Senators is unanimous for harmony but the trouble is that some of them have so far refused to harmonize unless given their way about several schedules of the bill. If there is a way to revise the bill so that it will get every democratic vote in the Senate the committee is determined not to abandon its search until it has been found. Members of the committee now decline to name a time for the reporting of the bill, contenting themselves with saying that not one hour shall be unnecessarily lost. No one can possibly be more anxious for speedy action on the bill than are the members of the committee, and it is only fair to say that the bill would have been reported two weeks ago had it not been for oppositions outside the committee.

"I have been using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for 30 years, with the most satisfactory results, and can cheerfully recommend it as being especially adapted to all pulmonary complaints. W. C. Johnston vs. Georgia Johnston, subpoena in divorce.

Petition for specific performance in estate of G. W. DeWald, citation awarded.

Motion for continuance of the case of W. R. Ringrose vs. the Town of Bloomsburg, for which case the court was especially called.

It was argued at length when at eleven o'clock the Court continued the case by the following opinion:

Plaintiff claims damages for personal injuries. On, March 5, 1894, before calling a jury in the case counsel for defendant move for a continuance because the plaintiff appears in Court showing more feebleness and crippled condition than he did when examined by its physicians under order of this Court, and which additional injury alleged to have occurred within four days of this date, and that it is impossible to obtain the testimony and examination of one of defendant's expert physicians whose testimony has been taken by deposition in regard to the original injury of the plaintiff, and for the additional reason that the recent alleged injury occurred within such a short period of this date and no previous information being received by it, that therefore it has no knowledge of the facts and circumstances surrounding the cause of such recent injury whereby they may be prepared to give evidence or make defense to or explain the occurrence or injury. The recent additional injury and more aggravated condition of plaintiff being admitted to have occurred on the evening of March 1, 1894, and the Court being satisfied of the impossibility of the defendant to obtain the attendance of their expert Physician and witness as alleged the case must be continued without terms.

By THE COURT

Jurors discharged.

GENERAL NEWS.

Ex-confederate General Jubal A. Early died at Lynchburg, Virginia on Friday last. General Early was born in Franklin county, Virginia, November 3, 1816. He was a West Point graduate and served in the Florida war. He resigned from the army in 1838 and practiced law in Virginia, was major of a regiment of Virginia volunteers during the Mexican war. He entered the Confederate service at the beginning of the civil war as a colonel and participated in the battles of Bull Run and Williamsburg, was promoted brigadier general, and in May 1863 commanded a division at Fredericksburg, and later at Gettysburg.

In 1874 he began operations in the Shenandoah Valley and threatened Washington, but was forced to retreat. Under his orders his troops burned Chambersburg, Penna. In September, he was defeated by Sheridan on the Opequan and three days later at Fishers' Hill. On October 19, General Early surprised the National forces at Cedar Creek, during the absence of Sheridan, and had the troops panic stricken when Sheridan made his famous twenty-mile ride from Winchester and saved the day. In March 1865 Early was totally routed by Custer at Waynesboro and a few days later was relieved by Lee from the command of the valley. After the close of the war General Early resumed the practice of law in Richmond, Va. He subsequently took up his residence at New Orleans, alternating with Lynchburg, where with General Beauregard he became manager of the Louisiana State lottery.

For the fourth and last time Mr. Gladstone delivered to his sovereign last Saturday the privy seal, which is the highest emblem of national authority, and declining all honors of position and title, stepped back into the ranks as England's greatest commoner.

The United Press correspondent learned from an official source that the queen had accepted Mr. Gladstone's resignation, and had offered the premiership to Lord Rosebery, who had consented to take the office.

The office of the "Daily" at York, Pa. was entirely destroyed by fire on Sunday morning. Loss $25,000.
