

What are we going to?

We take the case of the Italian up the creek. His daughter came home late, she lied viciously about a harmless old man passing her along the road and s'apping her. Thereupon the Italian father pursues the man with murder in his heart; seizes him from him and beats him almost into insensibility and breaking one of his legs. The poor old man crawls to a neighbor's house and is taken in. There he stays for weeks. That house was turned into a hospital and the family the attendants. That man today is on the township, crippled for life, and that Italian is scott free to roam the world at large. It might have been any body else passing along the road that would have been so nearly murdered and crippled for life.

Now, then, we have hundreds and thousands of just such criminals not only from Italy, but from the other countries of old Europe, and our millionaires have been importing them by the hundreds of thousands to supplant American labor, to create more millionaires and multi-millionaires, create poor houses, penitentiaries, prisons, hospitals, to be erected and supported by enormous taxation, and every man is thus robbed of employment, compelled to pay tax. The columns of our papers teeming with the accounts of rape and murder, robbery and incendiarism. Society in danger, so that one cannot venture in the dark without apprehending an assassin before or behind him, or that his home will be pillaged, or his outer buildings burned before morning.

Well, this is glorious America, indeed, safe America, prosperous America—a vast Republic of enlightened, progressive, prosperous citizens; and all brought about by a horde of millionaires who have grown rich by the robbery and enslavement of the people and the introduction of the sum of Europe. Now, then, who are the curse to the country if it is not these money tyrants? Will some one rise to explain? And we are going from bad to worse? An army of the starving laboring classes on their way to Washington to get some hope and help and keep themselves and families from absolute starvation, while the multi-millionaires are becoming as thick as hair on the outside of a dog. And this is a glorious country, with its fertile valleys, towering mountains, grand rivers, salubrious climate, mineral resources, freedom, freedom, freedom to starve to death in first class style and on general principles.

I say let us go on to glory; let hospitals, prisons, penitentiaries and poorhouses rear their lofty columns and colonnades in sublimity. Spread them out everywhere throughout our broad land as monuments of our architecture, the wonderful progress of the nation, and of a great and free people. We can eclipse the architecture of Rome and not half try; and then crowd these proud edifices with paupers and criminals brought here by the nation's hospitality and the millionaire's instrumentality.

Hurrah for America, hurrah for freedom, hurrah for the millionaire's; but let the hard working classes go where they please to get something to eat.

Read all the advertisements of spring medicines, and then take Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Advertising That Paid

It has been asked, "Does advertising pay?" A German journal, the Mainzer Nachrichten, replies to this question by giving the following fact, the authenticity of which it guarantees: A person advertised that he would pay five marks to the sender of the largest potato. In less than fifteen days the clever advertiser found himself in possession of as many sacks full of the very finest potatoes, which, after paying the five marks for the largest example, might be reckoned a very profitable speculation.

A Boy's Experience.

"A few months ago my face and neck were covered with boils and carbuncles and I had a tired feeling. I tried several different kinds of medicines but they had no effect until I got Hood's Sarsaparilla. When I had taken the second bottle the boils began to heal and the tired feeling was gone." LORENZO GRINNELL, Columbia Cross Roads, Pa.

Thought.

What a beautiful thing is thought, said she, a boon it is to myself and Jim. It is and think he is thinking of me. And he sits and thinks I am thinking of him.

What will do it.

MEDICAL writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will reach the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh is proof positive that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is FLY'S CREAM BALM. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. Our druggists keep it.
