Prespects of Democratic Harmony.

SENATOR MILLS' GREAT SPEEJH. General Coxey's Reception—The Populists
Disown Him, Whatever the Anti-Tariff
Reformers May Do for Him.

John Wedderburn's Crookedness.

From our Regular Correspondent. WASHINGTON, D. C., April 27 - At last there is harmony among the Dem ocratic Senators on the tariff and the party presents a united front to the enemy. Concessions have been made which will not be satisfactory to lots of Democrats, but it was only by concession that harmony could be secured. There is one consolation for the party; the tariff bill as it will be amended will be a decided improvement upon the McKinley law, and it will receive the vote of every Democratic Senator. Having secured harmony, the Democratic Senators are now forcing the fighting and will continue to do so until the bill is passed. Everything is to be made to give way to one objectthe passing of the bill; and there is every reason to believe that it will be passed in ample time to become a law on the first day of July. If the Republicans persist in the fillibustering tactics they have this week adopted, the Democrats propose to resort to heroic remedies to stop it, regardless of rules and precedents.

The great speech made by Senator Milis, of Texas, (many think the great- tective tariff had not been fulfilled est of his life) in closing the general He would put on the free list metals, debate on the tariff bill, will probably be the last long tariff speech made on pigs and all yarns-everything which the Democratic side of the Senate, required to be manufactured. By the way, the Populists in Congress are, as the saying is, "between the devil and the deep sea" as to Coxey's army. When the "army" first started they to a man denounced the movement, Afterwards some of them tried to hedge, Senators Peffer and Allen introducing resolutions in the Senate, and Representatives Davis and Boen bills in the House, in the interest of the "army." This week they held a caucus on the subject. It isn't the "army" they are worrying about, but the votes of their constituents who sympathize with the absurd idea that brings the "army" here. It isn't likely to be much of an "army," after all, as from the best information at present obtainable, even if all of the various bodies of men now headed towards Washington should get here, which is not probable, there would only be 6,500 of them.

The House is steadily pushing its program of rapidly disposing of the regular appropriation bills.

SENATOR MILL'S SPEECH.

HIS VIEWS ON THE TARIEF EILL THE INCOME TAX DEFENDED.

Washington, April 24. At 1 o'clock to day the tariff bill was taid before the Senate and Senator Mills, of Texas, for the benefit of the workingmen, to was recognized. There was a big attendance in the galleries and a number of Representatives from the the labor cost of manufacturing steel

Senator Mills opened by saying that the bill did not entirely meet his approval. But all legislation was necessarily a matter of compromise. He might offer some amendments, but if the bill. It was a party measure and he believed every Democrat should he had been chosen to construct this bill and had had the forty four mem bers on the Democratic side of the chamber in accord with his views he could have constructed it on far different lines. He would not have left able list. It had always been the policy of the Democratic party to put by all the people and would yield the largest revenue at the smallest cost to the people.

REPUBLICAN PROMISES UNFULFILLED. The Republican promise of an enlarged home market by a high prowools, cotton fibres, iron and steel in plowing with the fork of a tree and a Mr. John Wedderburn, manager of yoke of oxen, and who could not sickle

THE EXISTING DEPRESSION.

He denied that the present depressed condition of the country was due to the tariff agitation. It would have felt that the squall was coming on November 2, 1892, because the crop of 1892 was falling below that of 1891 and the crop of 1801 was away below that of the preceding year, so that the country was just where it was in 1889. And yet the Republicans said that without authority with the firm's name; the Democratic party had brought on this condition. It was the exhaustive McKinley tax and the exhaustive opstructions to agriculture that prostrated the farmers, and as they fell they threw out their arms, as Sampson did, and pulled down the whole structure of the temple of prosperity. The farmers stopped buying when their crops began to fail, and when they stopped buying the manufacturers stopped producing, and when they stopped producing they closed their mills and turned out their mechanics, and this had brought on the pros tration.

He reasoned against the assumption that admission of foreign products would cheapen labor. American labor, he said, was the cheapest in the world owing to its productive power by the use of machinery. He cited statistics supplied to him by C. to show that the labor value of production was a less per cent. of the whole in the United States than in any other country. Cotton yarn in the United States showed a less proportion of labor cost than in England.

MR. MILLS EXPLAINS.

A lively discussion occurred between asking why Great Britain had the cotton yarn market of the world if we could make it cheaper, Mr. Mills replied that the climate entered into the manufacture of cotton return home and was found by a yarn, and the climate of Great Britain was better suited to it than that of France, Germany or the United States. He stated that the labor cost of kid gloves in the United States is less than Ely's Cream Balm than in anything in France and Senator Aldrich asked him why we imported gloves from preparation has for years past been france. He replied that it might be making a brilliant success as a remedy for lack of skill to make gloves as well for cold in the head, catarrh and hay as the French. There were some fever. Used in the initial stages of things in which one country could could do more in this country than almost any other country.

Mr. Mills quoted from a remark of Mr. Blaine that the tariff question went from the skin to core and from core to skin and the Republicans equalize the difference in wages here and abroad-but if the difference in House were present. Among those in rails was $3, why were the people the galleries were Mrs. Mills and Mrs. taxed $13.44 a ton, as not more than $3 went to the workingman? He denied that the tariff was responsible for the fall of prices. Prices were constantly failing all over the world by improved production. He Catawissa. analyzed the process of production they were rejected he should vote for of cotton cloth to show the part machinery and division of labor play in sink his own preferences thus far. If adding to the cost of a thing that the reduction of its price. It is not decreases the price, he said. The revenue tariff takes from the cost, and free trade would do 't better.

A DEPENSE OF THE INCOME TAX.

Mr. Mills devoted a large part of coffee and tea on the free list and put his speech to a discussion and defense Sugarloaf. cotton, wool coal and iron on the duti- of the income tax. He lauded the action of the committee in reporting a tax on incomes. Why should wealth a tax on those articles which were used not be taxed? He recalled the fact that Bloom. a few years ago when there was another panic-not a panic by anticipationwhen the whole power of the great State of Pennsylvania was not sufficient to protect property in the city of Pittsburg from the crowds in the Fishingcreek. streets who were firing the buildings and the soldiers of the United States man, Catawissa. had been summoned to protect the city and were set to guard the rail-

It was useless to denounce sophistical remarks about the difficulty of collecting the tax. The law broken engagement she has been over was good to be passed, he declared emphatically, if not by this Congress, then by the next.

The close of Mr. Mills' speech was greeted by a hearty round of applause from the galleries and his Democratic colleagues crowded around him to extend their congratulations.

Howard Gould was willing and an xious to marry the lady to whom he was engaged.

Miss Tyler insisted on knowing the specific objection urged against her by the Gould family, and Mr. Gould was 1m. finally induced, much against his will, as he protested, to tell her that one of the objections was that she was a divorced woman. Helen Gould, he said, was shocked at the notion of a divorced woman, whose first husband was living, being received into the Gould family.

This settled the matter instantly. Miss Tyler was granted a divorce from her first husband, on her own petition, the ground being abandonment, and no shadow of a cloud has ever rested on her name on account of the divorce. The moment this ground of objection was mentioned, she released Mr. Gould from his engagement, and insisted on his accepting the release. - Philadelphia Times.
