TARIFF REVISION UNDER DIFFI- CULTIES.

The merits and demerits of the protective tariff as we have it will no doubt be the better understood by the American people in consequence of the bitter and determined struggle of capitalists to maintain the monopoly they control by force of favorable legislation. They have shown themselves capable already of bidding high or low, if you please, for the special advantages they hold. To avoid the equitable reformation sought by Democracy in behalf of the masses as against the classes they have shown themselves competent to intimidate, threaten and filibuster to an extent unprecedented in all our past history as a "government by, and for the people." At every step of the tariff bill's advancement towards completion it has been, and will be, arrested by monopolists through hired Senatorial and House representatives.

Though General Logan is dead his wife survives him, she being at present the conductor of a magazine at Washington which lately said: "Let Congress act promptly on the tariff bill, and if possible enable capitalists to start the many industries now lying idle." She might have added without distorting the truth any, "lying idle for political effect and their ultimate advantage."

The tariff question, being older than Mrs. Logan, was frequently pulled apart and stuck together again while General Logan was living, and it sometimes happened that it was the height of Republican wisdom to pretend, at least, to reform it in the interest of the masses as against the classes; and, if we remember right, her husband along with Grant, Sherman, Butler, Banks and others, sometimes uttered words, perhaps calculated to tickle the ears of their humbler constituents (and right sharp ones,) against continuing for the special benefit of our manufacturers a high war-tariff in time of peace.

To the writer it seems this bull-dog battle that Cleveland is instigating against the classes and in favor of the masses is only in fulfillment of his honest promises to the sovereign power that elected him, and were he to let loose to-day, to-morrow there would be no congressional effort toward tariff reformation or income-taxation. The victory would be with the money-power entirely and completely. If Grant was a bull-dog in war, Cleveland is one in peace, and we verily believe there are both Senators and Representatives standing by Cleveland in this stubborn fight who had much rather be excused if they could do so and still maintain the good will of the President. There is but little doubt about this in the mind of the writer.

REPUBLICAN NOMINEES.

The following is the Republican ticket as nominated at the convention which met at Harrisburg on the 23d instant:

For Governor,
DANIEL H. HASTINGS, of Centre.
 For Lieutenant Governor,
WALTER LYON, of Allegheny.
 For Auditor General,
AMOS H. MYLIN, of Lancaster.
 For Secretary of Internal Affairs,
JAMES W. LATTA, of Philadelphia.
 For Congress-at-Large,
GALUSHA A. GROW, of Susquehanna,
GEORGE F. HUFF, of Westmoreland.

Just A Little Dirt Uncovered.

Under title of "Big amounts offered Senators to vote against the tariff bill," the trifling matter of $25,000 is mentioned as a single bid for a single vote. While this money looks large to an honest constituent there is nothing particularly unique about it in Congress. The interests involved with large manufacturers are so heavy sometimes that $25,000 is not regarded as much, if by putting it where it will do the most good, high protection will still continue to protect. If nothing else proved that there is big money in high protection for particular individuals these constant bids for votes prove it. It is not always of course that the bidders names are made known. The disclosure of this $25,000 bid is purely accidental. It seems that some one has thoughtlessly let it out that Senator Hunton was indirectly offered $25,000 for his vote, and the like amount was tendered Senator Kyle through his private secretary. There is nothing strange about it.

Until the lobbyist knows his man he is, of course, obliged to operate indirectly, but he operates all the same. If tariff reform is virtually defeated to-day (and Republicans so declare it through Chauncey Depew, who is reported as saying that business will now boom again) we may pretty safely attribute it to the efficacy of cash for votes—Democratic votes, Republican votes and Populist votes. The "boodle" so called, has been dropped carelessly around the House and Senate and into the hands of male and female lobbyists, or wherever it will do the most good directly or indirectly for reviving business, as they say. How devilish patriotic and sympathetic they are!

It is no doubt true that unless particular classes are highly protected in their highly profitable business, and to detriment of unprotected industries, the business of these particular classes will be less profitable and hence less detrimental to others who are more deserving of national help and special favor, just because they have never yet received it. Such indeed, is the case with the languishing farmer of protected America, since he can go to Canada and buy American-made plows cheaper than he can buy them at home, just for the want of a little free trade, don't you see?

The salvation of our beloved country we think, after all, lies in the valuable knowledge the farmer is getting from experience rather than from books and political tracts and oratory just before election.

As for oratory just before election, it don't seem to be so eloquent as it used to be with the farmer, though it can hardly be that native eloquence is on the decline. We had rather attribute it to the scarcity of stumps now generally drawn, and from which our heroic statesmen of old used to pour forth their burning eloquence, the impress of which would at least cover the day of election. Mr. Buttz, the lobbyist involved in the recent disclosure of several little $25,000 bids for protection, claimed furthermore to know where a million dollars might be reached by Senators and Representatives who are willing to listen to money talk. For one we believe there is too much money involved in tariff reformation for the present Congress to effect a radical reformation against the classes and in favor of the masses. But let us at least give Democracy credit for having made a rather stubborn effort.

Either a Lie or a License to Marry Hereafter.

It looks as though peace and equity can never prevail until we have an interstate marriage license law. The law as we have it in Pennsylvania rather discriminates against our preachers, and it favors Jersey preachers who can marry anybody without license. But New Jersey now anticipates a marriage-license, we are glad to learn, though its restrictions apply only to Pennsylvanians and other non-residents of New Jersey. If Pennsylvanians would not lie so when about to marry the prohibition might prohibit their going to New Jersey and passing themselves off as Jersey folks just in order to marry without license. Though the Federal Constitution declares that "the citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States," how are you going to reconcile it when one state says "you may marry here all you want to without leave or license, while an adjoining State says "you can do nothing of the kind." But Pennsylvania certainly owes a slice of wedding-cake to Jersey, if nothing more, for requiring that foreigners who come there to evade the marriage law of their respective States must either lie or get a license before they can legally marry even in Jersey hereafter. We mention the matter as a bit of encouragement to Pennsylvania preachers, though we are still fearful that all runaway matches will naturally gravitate to Jersey and lie as often as need be, as to their nativity, for the purpose of marrying without license. It will be either lie or license hereafter in Jersey, and we are inclined to think it will be lie mostly.

PROGRESS OF TARIFF BILL.

While the end of it is now said to be in sight by hopeful Democrats, the metal schedule upon which the highest kicking will be done has just been reached in the tedious revision.

"We expect to begin gathering taxes under the Wilson bill on the first day of July," says the sanguine Senator Jones.

If the income-tax proposed is not eliminated from the bill there need not be so much objection to giving our manufacturers their usual monopoly, provided it is possible to collect an income-tax from them. But there is the rub. If they refuse to pay an income tax and still insist upon being protected in their various monopolies, for one we say sock it to them from both ways—from tariff revision and from income taxation. It will not hurt them, and it will do the masses a great deal of good. They can't learn any younger that the masses need protection as well as individuals. The Government needs it to day a great deal worse than the particular industries she has fostered until they are too arrogant and haughty to permit equitable legislation for the masses as against the classes, and of which they are, indeed the upper tendom both in political and social influence as well as in all our commercial relations at home and abroad. We would like to, but we cannot agree with sanguine Democrats that the tariff will undergo any substantial reformation, or that an income-tax upon fabulous wealth will be successfully assessed and collected, commencing, as they intimate, upon the first day of next July.

Mr. Quay, having already unloaded himself of 350 columns of argument in favor of high protection of the metals, has only stopped to load up again from the inexhaustible supply of high-tariff statistics to be found in the tons of old Congressional Records.

Then our sugar industries, the sweetest plum in America, are unfavorably located for a rigid revision this session. And as for our lumber industries, so far as Pennsylvania is concerned the heavenly elements seem to have settled this industry until more trees grow on the west branch of the Susquehanna.

Public Printer Benedict Settling Down To Business.

The Public Printer was a little late about being appointed and confirmed, but having once got there he very soon began to level things up politically. Accordingly he has issued about 700 leaves to quit which will be distributed among the other fellows within to make room for some of his own kind without. In the printing business there are but few places held by those in office that cannot be duplicated by those who want office, and who, being in political harmony, should have first chance in our opinion. If elective offices belong to the victors, so ought appointive offices for sake of political harmony and the perpetuation of the successful issue.

Injured While Coasting

Impure Blood Asserts Itself

But Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures the Disease and Restores Health.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:"

"During the winter of 1887, I was injured on one limb while coasting. It did not trouble me much at first, but soon became more painful, my strength began to decline and I could not rest at night. I was attended by several different doctors but all failed to check the trouble and I grew rapidly worse. Early in 1890 I had to use crutches and my health was very poor, having lost my appetite and being reduced in flesh. In the fall of 1891 I had to take to my bed and it was thought

I would not live until spring. During all this time I had tried many different medicines but did get relief. In the meantime to give me relief, the several bunches around my knee were lanced and later every effort made to heal the running sores but all in vain. Then it was, while confined to my bed last spring, that my father, having read much about the merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla, decided to have me give it a trial. I have taken it regularly, using nearly ten bottles. All the sores but two are healed and these are nearly well. I have thrown away my crutches as I can walk, go to school and do some work. I have a good appetite and real good health and have increased in weight very much. Hood's Sarsaparilla has been a blessing to me." WILKINSON JOHNSON, Normanville, Pennsylvania.

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla CURES

PROTECTION HAS FAILED.

Every nation must pass through commercial barbarism to commercial civilization, from protection to free trade. The desire to get rich at the expense of others is well-nigh universal. It is easy to persuade most people that to "protect" their own artisans from the competition of "foreign pauper labor" is an act of patriotism. This admitted, it is easily narrowed down to our own State, our own county, our own city, our own village, or even our own street. In the last century the farmers of Middlesex, the county in which London is situated, petitioned Parliament against improving the abominable roads of England. They frankly claimed that so long as the roads were bad they had a monopoly of the London markets for the sale of their vegetables, fruit and grain; that if the roads were improved the farmers of other countries would be able to bring their produce to the London markets, which would be very disastrous to the "industry" of Middlesex. This looks very foolish on the face of it, and yet in principle it is the doctrine of American protectionists to-day.—Trumbull's Free Trade.

Among other troubles in Jersey, outside of her proverbial and everlasting mosquito-plague, is now the unhappy rivalry of two State Senates. The Supreme Court may possibly determine which is the State Senate proper, but the mosquitoes will likely occupy the land forever.
