The Foreign Strikers.

The Governor was recently obliged to send the State militia to suppress the riots at Walston, Pa., and to release the Americans who were drafted and enforced into the service of the foreign strikers. Thousands of foreign miners took possession of Walston, and, with a view to holding their position securely, they fully armed themselves and enforced the English-speaking citizens to assist them in picket duty. They terrorized the entire vicinity of Walston. The war-like Hungarians and Italians being a la Hungary and Italy in the land of the free. A reliable dispatch to the Governor said: "the situation is extremely critical, the rioters are destroying property and terrorizing the people. The American citizens are thoroughly disgusted at the high handed attitude of the foreigners. The farmers who were hauling tan bark on the public road were forced to quit, and every citizen passing the place must halt at their command. It was thought the regiments called out would be sufficient to restore order. Right there at Walston somebody ought to get hurt according to our Americanized notions."

A GREAT ATTRACTION.

One of the greatest attractions that Gidding & Co., the clothiers, have yet had in their show windows is an automatic monkey who smokes genuine cigarettes; so perfect are the actions and expressions of the eyes, lips and mouth that people stand and wonder at it, and it takes them a while to believe that it is not genuine. In the lower window they have real grass growing, on which are some tiny Rabbits grazing. A sign "Keep off the grass" does not bother bunny in the least, as he goes right on unmindful of it. This window is made to represent Grass Cloth neck-wear. With two such windows, it is no wonder that crowds constantly surround them.

A LONG STRING of diseases follows a "run-down" system when liver is in and the disorder.

Look out for "breakers ahead" by putting the liver and blood in a healthy condition. You've only to turn to the right remedy to make yourself secure from disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery prevents as well as cures. Take it, as you ought, when you feel the first symptoms (languor, loss of appetite, dullness, depression) and you'll save yourself from something serious. In recovering from "La Grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fevers, or to build up needed flesh and strength it is indicated. It's a blood-purifier that has stood the test of time. For a quarter of a century the "Discovery" has numbered its cures by the thousands. The manufacturers prove their faith in it by guaranteeing it for all disorders arising from bad blood; in Scrofula, Eczema, Tetter, Salt-rheum, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, and every kindred ailment. If you receive no benefit you'll get your money back. What offer could be fairer?

Another Presidential Assassination.

France is to-day in mourning over the cruel assassination of her President, M. Carnot, who was stabbed to death by an Italian anarchist named Cesare Sauto.

Beloved by the people of the Republic at large, and having no reason to apprehend death at the hands of any one, the President had gone to Lyons to attend an exhibition of arts, sciences and industries. Here he attended also a banquet given in his honor by the Chamber of Commerce, after which he walked to his carriage which was in waiting near by. He was evidently watched and followed by the Italian villain, for he had hardly reached his seat in the carriage until the assassin speedily approached, and, drawing a dagger from its wrappings of newspaper, he plunged it into the side of the startled President. The wound being in the region of the heart, the victim sank back in his seat unconscious. He was hastily driven to the prefecture for treatment, and Sauto was placed under arrest. The news spread like wild fire and infuriated crowds filled the streets, and the lives of all Italians were no doubt in jeopardy. The police had all they could do to protect anything and everything known to be Italian. An examination of the President's wound revealed its seriousness. The young assassin was born in the province of Milan, and seemed to anticipate being mobbed while on the way to prison. He reached there in safety, however. Claiming to not understand the language, he talked but little when questioned.

It is too early to even conjecture the political and religious effect of this death, but the Pope of Rome seems quite solicitous, it seems. When Mme. Carnot and her children were brought into the presence of the dead President the affectionate wife trembled with emotion, but shed no tears, though all others about her were weeping. The officials retiring, the family were left alone with the cruelly murdered husband and father. The conventional sympathy from all the civilized governments of the world will be but little consolation to the bereaved ones of this illustrious family.

Until the cowardly assassination of President Lincoln, by Booth, followed afterward by that of Garfield, by Guiteau, our own Republic was singularly free from any such dastardly brutal, and inglorious acts. As these assassinations are generally to avenge some political or religious grievance, real or imaginary, the penalty of ordinary death seems to be but little restraint upon the more vicious class who frequently aspire to be martyrs in their cause. Unless a clear case of insanity could be shown we should advocate torture as well as death in all such cases. In other words, we would have all such martyrs be martyrs indeed, by having them be martyrs in advance that more than ordinary death awaited their dastardly acts.

VETERANS IN TENTS.

The diminishing remnant of the vast and gallant host that went forth from the mountains and valleys and cities of Pennsylvania to the defense of the Union during the dark days of the Rebellion will reassemble on the historic battlefield of Gettysburg on Saturday, June 30th. The occasion is that of the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, and for a week the veterans will live over again their war-time experience in true army style. The green heights of Cemetery Hill, thickly dotted with the white tents of the old soldiers, is an imposing spectacle in itself, while a continuous round of drills, parades, ceremonies and camp-life frolics render Gettysburg a most attractive place to visit during the encampment. From June 27th until July 6th, inclusive, the Reading Railroad will sell special round trip tickets from all points in its territory at a very material reduction from the regular rates. These tickets will be good to return any day until and including July 9th. On Sunday, July 1st, there will be special excursion trains over the Reading road from Philadelphia and also from Reading. The low fares afford a rare opportunity to visit the greatest battlefield of the rebellion, and those desiring information regarding tickets and trains can obtain the same from the nearest Reading Railroad ticket agent.

It's easy enough—the Ball corset. That's because it has coils of fine wire springs in the sides. They clasp the figure closely, but yield to every motion. They "give", but they come back. So does your money—if you've worn a Ball corset two or three weeks, and find that you don't like it. For sale by Pursell & Harman.
