Tariff Reduction All Right.

As to the disastrous effect that tariff reduction was to have upon business, according to Republican assurance, the word now reaching us from east to west and from north to south is just the contrary. We will not say the present demand is a natural or normal one, for we rather think it to be the result and reaction of a pre-meditated tie-up of business generally—a tie-up for political effect—so far as protected trusts combines and monopolies could tie it up.

The Comte de Paris who died last Saturday in England, was a claimant of the throne of France. During the civil war he came to this country and was a member of General McClellan's staff and a brave soldier. He was a personal acquaintance of the late Captain C. B. Brockway, and the scrap book of the latter contains an autograph letter from the Comte de Paris to him.

Hood's Saved My Life

For years I was in a very serious condition with catarrh of the stomach, bowels and bladder. I suffered intensely from dyspepsia, and in fact was a miserable wreck, merely a skeleton. I seemed to go from bad to worse. I really wished I was dead. I had no rest day or night. I did not know what to do. I had taken so much medicine of the wrong kind that it had poisoned me, and my finger nails began to turn black and come off.

Key Notes.

Many a political sermon may be preached to good advantage from these forceful and truthful words of President Cleveland: "The trusts and combinations—the communism of self—whose machinations have prevented us from reaching the success we deserved, should not be forgotten or forgiven. We shall recover from our astonishment at their exhibition of power, and if then the question is forced upon us whether they shall submit to the free legislative will of the people's representatives or shall dictate the laws which the people must obey, we will accept and settle that issue as one involving the integrity and safety of American institutions. The new law furnishes a vantage ground from which must be waged further aggressive operations against protected monopoly and governmental favoritism."

The case of ex-cashier De La Green of the broker Money bank was tried last week at Williamsport in the United States District court, before Judge Buffington. He was charged with making false entries in the books. On July 20, 1891, the books showed overdrafts of $705, when they really were $27,561. On March 4, 1891, he made a false entry showing the loans and discounts to be $157,871, when they really were $117,874. A false entry was made, showing the individual deposits to be $26,661, when they were really $158,000. On December 15, 1891, the overdrafts were reported at $2,100 when they really were $27,811.

He was charged with aiding and abetting John M. Bowman, President, to make false entries in the statement book showing the financial condition of the bank, the books showing $104,000 due depositors, when $125,000 was due, and loans $147,509, when they were only $116,407.

The jury brought in a verdict of guilty on the counts for aiding and abetting John M. Bowman in making false entries. The trial of John M. Bowman began on Monday and resulted in his conviction.

While our millionaire George Gould is seeking a little expensive amusement at yacht-racing in English waters, Max LeBaudy, an eccentric millionaire of Paris, recently gave an old fashioned bull fight for the edification of the elite and Parisian sports. About two hundred members of the aristocracy were thus delighted to see several mad bulls killed and three professional bull-fighters seriously hurt. Thus tastes differ among millionaires when in search of a little amusement.

The sovereign power will find itself powerless on the day of election unless it attends in time to the trifling matter of complying with the law regulating the payment of taxes and the assessment and registration of voters.

A very likely man, indeed, for advancement on Congressional to higher honors is the father of the original Wilson tariff bill who is familiarly known at his home in West Virginia as "Billy Wilson."

Among the employees recently discharged from the Government Printing Office it is said that more than 50 per cent of them held place through endorsement of Senator Gorman. This gentleman seems to have injured others as well as himself in his stubborn fight against the administration of President Cleveland.

We mention it, but not as a matter of any great surprise, that Maine and Vermont have gone Republican, while Alabama, Tennessee and Arkansas have gone Democratic. As both parties are disposed to crow over their victories, we suppose it is now the printer's duty to commence building pyramids of successful states and to hunt up the old battered and featherless roosters and endeavor to get them in shape for a loud crow over the highest pyramid.

While McKinley is up in Maine punching holes in the new tariff law with his oratorical fists, as Jim Corbett might say, treasury statistics for the first seven months of this year show an excess of exports over imports of $55,000,000, or a "balance of trade" of that much in our favor. McKinley himself has always held that a "balance of trade" in our favor was a sure sign of prosperity. Will he now proceed to amend his speeches or will he change the signs?—Ez.

All Republican tariff speeches are alike: read one and all will have been read. They are all devoted to a criticism of the new tariff law, and all contain the same points. They say that the new law

- Plagues nobody; Closed mills and factories from the time of its inception; Destroyed American industries; Reduced wages; Benefits only the trusts. There is the catalogue of evils attributed to this law which is even now reviving industries and cheapening necessities. The ideas are elaborated in speeches but the orators say no more. It is the full scope of their invention and they do not always appear to be proud of it either. And while they iterate and reiterate the same charges industries continue to resume. —Patriot.
