

THANKSGIVING DINNER.

A LITTLE LESSON IN THE AMERICAN WAY.

The Dinner Should be Plain and Bountiful. How to Carve a Turkey—Instruction That is Useful to Every Young Man—The Turkey a Great Dish.

The Thanksgiving dinner should always be plain and plentiful. The turkey is so grand a dish that it should not be obscured by its surroundings.

Custom, however, has added other excellent articles. A bountiful Thanksgiving dinner may be made to include roast turkey or chicken pie, or both, cranberry sauce; potatoes, white and sweet; squash and onions and celery; apple, pumpkin, mince and cranberry pies; crackers, plum puddings, fruit, nuts and coffee.

The greatest difficulty in the way of the Thanksgiving dinner is the carving of the turkey. Three requisites only are really necessary—sufficient knowledge, a very sharp carving knife and a cool head.

To carve a turkey properly, the bird should be served on a platter considerably larger than itself. If the platter is small, have a side plate. In the first place, never hurry. A cool head and deliberate manner is absolutely essential.

The fowl should lay with its head toward the carver. First sever the legs, if tied, and draw them wide apart with the hands. Then circle the legs and wings (if the latter are left on the bird) with the knife, and, while holding the turkey firmly with the fork, unjoint them and lay them aside.

After the legs and wings are taken off, the fork is plunged into the breast as near the breast bone as possible, and need not be removed until the turkey is practically cut up. The white meat in the breast should then be cut off in thin, flaky slices. Then the dark meat, including that on the legs, should also be carved off in as perfect slices as possible.

It is better to finish the carving before serving any of the guests, piling the slices neatly on the platter or the side plate. A cross slit should be cut in the proper place from which to serve the dressing.

Another point is, that the carver should not be expected to serve the vegetables. If they are not furnished on side dishes, let him hand the plates when served with turkey to an assistant who will attend to the vegetables.

THANKSGIVING.

Thin are the cattle on a thousand hills. The valleys throb with corn their voices raise. The night and morn are vocal, and the hills Tell of Thy river that forever flows.

Thou dost provide, for Thou our griefs hast known. Hungry and thirsty Thou earth's ways hast trod. For us Thou wast sore stricken, to atone Upon the cross, kissing the Father's rod.

The "Gloomy Thanksgiving." It was in the year 1721, just a century after the first New England Thanksgiving, that the people of "old Boston town" celebrated what has gone into history as the "Gloomy Thanksgiving," the saddest day they have ever had.

At this time the Governor of the province of Massachusetts Bay was the Hon. Samuel Shute, a man hated and despised by the people over whom he ruled, for even as early as 1721 the New Englanders were stirred by the wrongs they suffered under the King, George I., and the royal governors, who were only too glad to carry out his oppressive measures.

Samuel Shute as a high Tory, while the Legislature of the colony, chosen by the people, was in direct opposition to him, and this difference in principles led to constant conflicts. The Governor on coming into power devoted himself to enforcing the arbitrary and inconsiderate acts of the English Parliament, in breaking up the profitable commerce in lumber on the ground that all the fine trees must be saved for the King's navy.

So, to-day, in some of the oldest woods in Massachusetts, trees can be found marked with the broad arrow that denoted royal ownership.

So matters went from bad to worse, the council at last refusing to vote more than a mere pittance for the Governor's salary, and checking him in every possible way.

But better things were in store for them, for the new king soon came to the throne of England, and a new Governor to Massachusetts Bay, who proved far more acceptable than Samuel Shute had been, and this Governor now set to work to help the people, while Samuel Shute returned gloomily to England, missed and mourned by no one.

Quite Evident. "Why is the turkey the most patriotic of birds?" "Give it up." "He dies that his country may live."

THE TURKEY'S PROTEST.

The turkey raised his weeping eyes. In sad protesting to the skies. "Why is it men are summoned not This proclamation is our woe. 'I'm sure if things were reversed, This day by men would be accorded. Now, if we ruled o'er man, the sinner, Would we serve him at Thanksgiving dinner?"

BENEFITS OF DEHORNING.

The period of experimentation at State College upon the herd of Guernsey cows recently dehorned has been finished and some interesting results have been noticed. On fifteen cows an examination of the amount of butter fat contained in the milk yield of the two days, including the day of dehorning and the following day, shows a loss of 227.100 pounds of butter fat, or equivalent to 93-100 per cent. of the yield for the two days.

A similar examination for the subsequent two days shows that the average yield for the specified time is the same as the average yield for the five days preceding the date of dehorning. These results show conclusively that the effect of dehorning upon the flow of milk is practically unnoticeable, and the great benefits to be derived from such an operation make it highly commendable to all farmers.

A Pure Baking Powder.

A baking powder that can be depended upon to be free from lime and alum is a desideratum in these days of adulterated food. So far as can be judged from the official reports, the "Royal" seems to be the only one yet found by chemical analyses to be entirely without one or the other of these substances, and absolutely pure. This, it is shown, results from the exclusive use by its manufacturers of cream of tartar specially refined and prepared by patent processes which totally remove the tartrate of lime and other impurities. The cost of this chemically pure cream of tartar is much greater than any other, and it is used in no baking powder except the "Royal," the manufacturers of which control the patents under which it is refined.

Dr. Edward G. Love, formerly analytical chemist for the U. S. Government, who made the analyses for the New York State Board of Health in their investigation of baking powders, and whose intimate knowledge of the ingredients of all those sold in this market enables him to speak authoritatively, says of the purity, wholesomeness and superior quality of the "Royal":

"I find the Royal Baking Powder composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substance." Prof. Love's tests, and the recent official tests by both the United States and Canadian Governments, show the Royal Baking Powder to be superior to all others in strength and leavening power. It is not only the most economical in use, but makes the purest, finest flavored and most wholesome food.

Cleanable Collars and Cuffs.

"Celluloid" collars and cuffs are one of the greatest blessings that was ever brought to mankind by the genius of invention, especially the man whose occupation demands that he wear his Sunday clothes every day, as Bill Nye puts it. A daily change of linen runs into a considerable laundry bill in the course of a year. "Celluloid" makes it possible to add this item to the year's savings. Many men when buying waterproof collars and cuffs make the mistake of believing that it's all the same so long as they are called "celluloid." This is a grievous error. For the genuine, "Celluloid" collars and cuffs are peculiarly made, being in reality a linen collar or cuff covered on both sides with pure waterproof "Celluloid." This prevents cracking, and increases the durability of the article. When soiled, it can be wiped off with a damp cloth and made to look equally as well as the most skillfully laundered linen. All dissatisfaction with "Celluloid" Collars and cuffs can be avoided by looking for the trade mark, "Celluloid" stamped on the inside of every piece.
