All the signs of a hard winter have thus far proven futile, but there is another coming, viz: "Ground Hog Day," which is equally as great a humbug.

A person's honor consists in the manner he disposes of the obligations that devolve upon him in all the vicissitudes of life. And in the manner and to the extent he discharges the duties he owes to a community, a society, a neighbor, a family, an individual, or any other, and all objects that may have a claim upon his attention as a part or parcel in common for the welfare and advancement of the common interest of one and all, individually or collectively. The shirking of responsibility, the neglecting of the payment of honest debts, are index boards by which a community have a right to judge the honor and character of any man among their number.

A Year With Popular Authors.

Nearly all the most popular authors seem to have been drawn upon by the editor of The Ladies' Home Journal to insure for his readers a particularly interesting year during 1895. Jerome K. Jerome, for example, will resume his role of an "Idle Fellow" for the benefit of American girls and women in a series of articles; Bret Harte will have a new love story, while Frank R. Stockton has given the Journal not less than three of his quaintest and drollest short tales; Mrs. Burton Harrison will write on correct deportment and usages of good society, while Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney is to write to girls on marriage and dress; Madame Nordica and Jessie Bartlett Davis will tell of the care of the voice; Mr. Howells will continue his successful literary autobiography; Dr. Parkhurst, the famous New York preacher, will write his first series of articles for women on the questions of the day which women are thinking about; Edward Bellamy will add a chapter to his "Looking Backward"; Eugene Field, Bill Nye, John Kendrick Bangs and Robert J. Burdette will supply the humor; Conan Doyle will give his views of "The Literary Side of America"; Frances Hodgson Burnett, the late Jane Austin, Julia Magruder and Elizabeth Bellamy will supply novelties; Kate Greenaway is to draw her quaint little tots of women for the first time for a magazine, while Palmer Cox will supply some new "Brownies"; a unique article on "Mrs. Shakespeare" will present all that is known of Shakespeare's wife; Margaret Deland, Sarah Orne Jewett and Mrs. Burton Harrison will discuss "When Lady: When Woman," when those terms should be used; E. S. Martin is going to tell "Where was the Garden of Eden?"; Reginald de Koven has given his new song, while other famous composers will also be represented by songs, marches and waltzes. And in this representative manner, The Ladies' Home Journal will really cover every interesting phase of contemporary life, especially that of woman. The magazine will indeed be worth having during the new year.

Too Great a Gape.

Mary Nichols, an aged woman, of Philadelphia, recently dislocated her jaw while gapping. Others considered, there seems to be something unusual the matter with this woman's jaw. When taken to the hospital where her case was properly diagnosed, it was suggested as a means to prevent the danger of lockjaw that the old lady be muzzled in such a way that she could take a half a gape instead of a whole one in the future. Ladies with open countenances will please take warning.

The Shortest Day.

The 21st inst. was the shortest day of the year, the actual time between sunrise and sunset being 9 hours and 20 minutes. The days will increase in length but slowly for some time. A month hence, on Jan. 21, the sun will come in view but one minute earlier, and sink beneath our sight 34 minutes later, making the difference only 35 minutes. Then, however, daylight will rapidly lengthen.

Two fashions ne'er together come To charm us with their rattle— How strange a girl would look, by gum! In bloomers and a bustle. "New York Press."

"CELLULOID" COLLARS AND CUFFS are made by covering a linen collar or cuff with "celluloid," thus making them strong, durable and waterproof. When soiled they can be cleaned by simply wiping off with a wet cloth. No other waterproof goods are made with this interlining, consequently no other goods can possibly give satisfaction. Do not forget that every piece of the genuine is stamped as follows:

Insist upon goods so marked and refuse anything else if offered. If your dealer does not keep them you can procure a sample from us direct by enclosing amount and stating size and whether stand-up or turned-down collar is wanted. Collars 25c. each. Cuffs 50c. pair.

THE DINING CAR.

A modern dining car says Kate Field, is of the most approved pattern and costs $15,000 to build. Next comes the kitchen utensils, the table furniture, the silverware and linen—averaging about $3,000 worth to a car. Each car must have a steward, who usually gets $100 a month, and a head cook who values himself at $75 a month. There must also be one or two assistant cooks and three or four waiters.

Three hundred dollars a month is the very smallest outlay for wages, while the cost of raw food material, breakage of dishes and the board of employees is about $3,000 per month additional. An average day's run costs very nearly $600 for food and service, so that it would take 400 persons at $1.50 a meal on the run to pay the daily expenses, without allowing anything for interest on the investment or for wear and tear on the furnishings.

The kitchen of a dining car contains every convenience except room. This is a range capable of doing all the boiling, broiling, baking and stewing for hundreds of people, yet occupying comparatively no space at all. There is a board for the carver, a bin and table for the baker and a sink for the dish-washer, with shelves and cupboards innumerable for dishes and imperishable supplies—all in an area of five by twelve feet, at most. Every inch of space is carefully utilized. Under the car is the cellar or refrigerator, where ice, beef, mutton, poultry, milk, butter and other perishable supplies are kept.

The steward, who is in charge of all this, must be a good guesser. To be sure the dining car is run on the principle that no money will be made anyway; that one road must run it because a competing road does; that the traveller must, therefore, have the best in the market for a fair price, and that it is better to throw away unused and spoiled material at the end of a trip than to run out of some necessary on the way; yet I imagine that the steward who has the lowest average of wasted food stands highest in his employer's regard.

The first thing he has to do is to make out the bills of fare for the trip. These must be approved by the head of the commissary department. The chef buys the necessary supplies, but the steward has to turn in an inventory of them at the starting point, and also a statement of what has been used en route, and what is left at the end of the run. There is no method of estimating the exact number of meals that will need to be served during a run, particularly if it be a short one. Suppose it is to be made from Washington to New York. Individual methods of economy are very different. While some prefer to pay $1.25 for the extra comfort of a seat in a parlor car, there are others who think the common coach good enough and prefer to spend their dollar in the dining car. Again, there are some who frequent both parlor and diner, and others who care for neither. For a long journey, every berth in the sleeper may be occupied, and yet the dining-car may be practically tenanted, or the sleeper may be nearly empty and the diner full of people from the day coach; or it may be crowded with the occupants of both. As the steward goes through the train on a tour of inspection or in giving his first call for a meal he must note the number of lunch boxes and guess from the faces and dress of the passengers how many orders he will have. But even his best judgment may be far out of the way, for the lunch box may be for a next day's light repast, or some of the best dressed passengers may not have decided whether to patronize the dining car or not.

EIGHTH PAGE ESSAYS.

NO. 4.

In the last campaign the record of Columbia county remains to be made up.

The chairman, Wm. Chrisman, organized and arranged for a series of meetings in the county as follows: Light Street, Millville, Rohrsburg, Centralia, Locust Dale, Elk Grove, Diltz's School House, Numidia, Jerseytown, Grovania, Mill Grove, Mainville, Montana, Millinville, Bear Gap, Waller, Shuman's Hotel, Orangeville, Derr's, Catawissa, Hetterville, Swamp School House, Stonytown, Canby, Esby, Bendertown, Benton, Jameson City, Miller's Hotel, Stillwater, Forks, Evers Grove, Buckhorn, Pine Summit, Mid Valley, Berwick and Bloomsburg.

The following named gentlemen comprised the corps of speakers who addressed the meetings, to-wit: Wm. Chrisman, Thomas B. Hanly, Fred. Ikeler, John G. Harman, R. G. F. Kashinka, A. L. Fritz, E. M. Tewksbury, Grant Herring, Wm. H. Rhawn, C. A. Small, E. J. Flynn, C. R. Buckalew, B. Rush Zarr, Robert Buckingham, John G. McHenry, W. H. Snyder, W. T. Creasy, W. A. Evert, John G. Freeze, and at the Bloomsburg meeting James B. Beck, of Philadelphia.

The meetings were, in the main, well attended, and the audiences were attentive and enthusiastic. Banners decorated and drum corps enlivened the gatherings; and it must be said for the young men that they gave fair promise of good and useful work in the future. The disaster that overtook us is not to be laid to the charge of the persons named, who through darkness and storm met every appointment, and by their presence made the meetings successful. They worked cheerfully and enthusiastically and are entitled to the support and consideration of our people. Two years preparation will still more fit them to battle in the campaign of 1896, and to deserve the victory which will then perch upon our banners.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

Friends of John Bowman of the Muncy Bank Petition the Court Successfully.

Judge Joseph Buffington, of the United States District Court, has made an order suspending sentence in the case of John M. Bowman, the ex-president of the First National Bank of Muncy, Pa.

He was convicted of making false returns to the Treasury Department. Several petitions were presented to the court asking that sentence be suspended. One was signed by all of the jurors who rendered the verdict against Bowman, another by all the witnesses who appeared against him and a third by thirty seven of the fifty stockholders of the bank, and still another petition signed by 362 of the 473 registered voters in the town of Muncy. In the case of Dela Green, cashier of the same bank, who was convicted at the same time, a new trial has been granted, on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence to convict, which practically ends the case.

Eliza Donald of Greenwood township died recently at the Bloom Poor House, aged 70 years. She was the third one of the same family who have died there.
