

FASHION NOTES.

The new skirts are made with four, five and six gorges. The basque waist with surplice fronts is coming into vogue again.

All-wool Bedford-cord fabrics will be revived for autumn costumes. Prunella has recently decided to throw open medical studies and degrees to women.

The dashing plaid silks will be much used this fall for waists to be worn with plain cloth skirts.

An attractive combination for children's dresses is golden-brown serge and the same material in pale cream tints.

Among the natty box-plated boating costumes worn this season are those of English silk serge, which is extra wide.

The very newest thing to needle among the ribbons in the latest summer hat is a cluster of cherries or currants in their natural color.

A new mohair with an almost corded weave will be one of the favorite fabrics for autumn gowns. All-wool Bedford cords will also be the vogue.

The much-admired box plait now forms part of the back of many of the fashionable skirts. Its graceful effect is due to an interlining of fibre chamolis.

The latest in sleeves is a modernized bishop, which is full from the shoulder to the waist. It has a lining of fibre chamolis to retain its graceful contour.

Cloth of gold is the latest for dressy bodices. A beautiful black satin gown has a low bodice of gold cloth, the sleeves being full upon frill of black chiffon.

Plants grown in small pots bloom more freely than those grown in larger ones, but must be kept thoroughly watered as they are liable to injury from drying of the earth.

Garden party hats are larger than ever. The daintiest are of white silk mull, trimmed with bunches of white daisies. Those of pink mull with clusters of pink rosebuds are also pretty.

She who wishes to present an attractive appearance during the hot weather should bear in mind that half a dozen 12 1/2 cent gingham or dimities make a woman daintier and cooler to look upon than an expensive silk gown.

Among the new pieces of odd china is the pancake dish. It is a deep dull green in color, like a great saucer in shape and has a cover that fits closely and is pierced with several small holes to allow the steam to pass out.

Those who respect their complexion will not wear any of the so-called rainbow hats that are still prevalent. The delicate tints which the human skin offers are entirely hidden when brought into harsh contrast with these var-colored pieces of headgear.

The summer girl is wearing a belt of Dresden ribbon which is interlined with fibre chamolis. The belt never wrinkles and the ribbon may be changed according to one's fancy. The molish swing of the skirt is also effected by the interlining of fibre chamolis.

Dogs Can Read Character. Wonderful tales have been told of the marvelous instinctive intelligence of dogs, but the idea of consulting a canine oracle when a man is contemplating matrimony is a new one.

A New York manufacturer of jewelry says: "The cameo and initial rings have altogether gone out of fashion. The latter always went, to my eye, vulgarly, but the former—years ago the public demanded them, and I was obliged to manufacture them among many manufacturers."

Styles in Rings. A New York manufacturer of jewelry says: "The cameo and initial rings have altogether gone out of fashion. The latter always went, to my eye, vulgarly, but the former—years ago the public demanded them, and I was obliged to manufacture them among many manufacturers."

The Way Clothes Are Worn. One who watches the belle of the season and her many dupes at the resorts of fashionable folk, must be impressed with the force of the fact that style is quite as much in the way clothes are worn as in the clothes themselves.

Old-Time Headdresses. In the beginning of the fifteenth century the headdresses, called henins, often towered six feet above the head of the wearers. The clergy preached against them in vain; the henins got higher and higher. Finally a strolling friar persuaded the rabble of Paris that a plague would come on the city unless the henins came down, and the mob ran about the streets destroying all the henins they could lay their hands on.

Enid Faithful Smoked. The late Miss Faithful was a large smoker, and ventured beyond the ordinary "ladies' cigarettes," smoking cigars of more than medium strength.

It is not believed that Miss Faithful resorted to tobacco merely as a pleasure, as she was forced to smoke in the first instance for the alleviation of the asthma, from which she suffered severely.
