

WASHINGTON.

from our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4th, 1895.

President Cleveland has, in accordance with his usual custom, moved from the White House out to his suburban residence, in order to be able to put in more time upon his message to Congress than he could possibly do when liable to almost constant interruptions from callers whom he would not care to decline seeing. These he is entirely free from at his suburban residence, as no one goes there to call upon him, unless specially invited. While not stated as a certainty, there are good reasons for the belief that his annual message to Congress will not deal with the diplomatic controversy with England over the application of the Monroe Doctrine in Venezuela, further than to say that the whole subject will be fully treated in a special message which will follow the annual message and be accompanied by the diplomatic correspondence. The President and every member of his cabinet are well pleased with the present status of this Venezuela matter, and very confident that they will be still better pleased a little later. A diplomatic victory is preferable to one achieved by the use of powder and ball, in some cases. And this is one of the cases.

If proof was needed that the real purpose of the public meeting held Oct. 31st, for the avowed purpose of expressing the sympathy of the citizens of Washington for the Cuban revolutionists, was to embarrass the administration and make republican partisan capital, it was furnished in great big chunks by the names of those who controlled the meeting, made the speeches and wrote the resolutions adopted. Every man of them was a republican. The presiding officer was the notorious "corporal" Tanner; the writer of the resolutions was Dr. Rankin, president of the Howard University, the negro college, which is partly maintained at public expense, and the only woman speaker was Mrs. John A. Logan.

Judge Lochren, Commissioner of Pensions, has a paragraph in his annual report headed "Patriotism and Pensions", in which he says: "Those men who enlisted early and fought the battles of the war, were not moved by mercenary considerations, and unless actually disabled did not show the haste in applying for pensions manifested by those who enlisted near the close of the war for large bounties, and did little actual service, and who are now the noisiest in clamoring for more pensions." As compared with this latter class the real soldiers of the war have been modest in preferring claims for pensions. The figures in the report are interesting. June 30, 1894, there were on the rolls 969,544 pensioners; during the year following 39,185 new names were added and 4,205 names which had been dropped were restored. There were 27,816 deaths, and 14,575 names were dropped for other causes, making the net increase of the total number of pensioners for the fiscal year ending June 30 last, 860. The appropriation for the year covered by the report was $150,000,000, and Judge Lochren's estimate for the next fiscal year is $140,000,000.

Ex-Congressman Bynum, of Ind., is one of the few men who regards Mr. Harrison's chances for the republican nomination as being ahead of either those of Reed, McKinley or Allison. He says Mr. Harrison is stronger with his party in Indiana than ever before and that the Indiana republicans are going to get him nominated, if such a thing is possible. Speaking of the democratic nomination, Mr. Bynum said: "On the democratic side there is much talk in favor of Col. Morrison, and he has many friends in all parts of the country. My opinion is that eventually democratic sentiment will center on Secretary Carlisle. He is well liked in the North and East, and in the South his nomination would create tremendous enthusiasm."

Representative Forman of Ill., who has been on the stump in Kentucky, Maryland and New Jersey, arrived in Washington this week. He says he hasn't the slightest doubt that all three states will go democratic.

Secretary Olney has received a copy of the proceedings of the French court martial which sentenced the negro Waller, who is a Ex-U. S. Consul, to twenty years imprisonment under the charge of having betrayed French military movements in Madagascar, and the wife of the imprisoned man has given the Secretary all the information in her possession, documentary and otherwise. It cannot be stated what Mr. Olney thinks of the case, but others who have had access to the information regard the outlook for Waller as a bad one, and say that the case has been misrepresented for political effect by certain republican newspapers.

Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, and Secretary Olney are engaged in negotiating a convention to determine the amount of damages sustained by the owners of Canadian sealing vessels which were seized in Bering Sea by this government before the arbitration of the claims of the two countries. It is expected that it will be completed before Congress meets.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE FOR NOVEMBER 1895.

The complete novel in the November issue of Lippincott's, "In Sight of the Goddess," by Harriet Riddle Davis, deals with life at the Capital. The principal characters are a member of the cabinet, his daughter, and his private secretary, who might also be called society manager for the family: the action is chiefly the two last. The tale is written with abundant local knowledge and striking ability.

Marjorie Richardson's "A Romance in Late Fall" is that of an elderly spinster, whose belated affections were amusingly yet pathetically misplaced. "The Strike at Colchester," by T. B. Exeter, was a strike of women against domestic duties, and speedily came to grief. Geraldine Meyrick sets forth the lofty loneliness of the vocation of "A Post."

"A Brush with Kiowas" describes one of William Thomson's western adventures, which occurred on the Arkansas River in 1856. David Bruce Fitzgerald gives his experience "With the Oyster Police" on the Chesapeake. Owen Hall describes a "A Dead City of Ceylon."

Dr. A. L. Benedict writes lucidly and most sensibly on "Medical Education and the Education of Medical Men." Charles H. Cochrane, author of "The Wonders of Modern Mechanism," shows how "A Hundred and Twenty Miles an Hour" may be covered by electricity.

"The Pet Meanness"—a deceased form of economy, varying with the patient—is exposed by Frances Courtenay Baylor. Under the heading, "Our Fullest Throat of Song," William Cranston Lawton writes of J. R. Lowell with warm appreciation.

Wilton Dimock Mott, editor and proprietor of the Milford Dispatch, and Associate Judge of Pike County, died Oct. 1st, aged 42 years. Mr. Mott was a prominent Democratic politician and was a member of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives from 1885 to 1888.

NO PEDDLING WITHOUT LICENSE.

A Judge's Decision That Is Important To The Entire State.

Judge Metzger November 1st, handed down an opinion that is of interest to the whole State. Some time ago James Dunham, a clothes wringer agent, was convicted of peddling in Lycoming county. It was claimed for the defendant that the goods sold by Dunham had been shipped from another State, and were therefore protected by the interstate Commerce law. Judge Metzger decided that they were not so protected, and ordered Dunham to appear for sentence.

A SACRIFICE FOR MISSIONS.

Remarkable Scene in the State Brethren Convention at Johnstown

WATCHES AND OTHER VALUABLES.

THROWN INTO THE COLLECTION BASKET AS A RESULT OF THE ELOQUENCE OF THE REV. E. E. HASKINS.

At the state brethren convention held at Johnstown, some time since a remarkable scene was witnessed. It was during the discussion of the mission work. In the addresses it was shown that mission work in this state had been sadly neglected and that many brethren in the state had no place of worship, owing to the manner in which the churches are distributed throughout the state. Various remedies were suggested, the general feeling being that cash was needed.

The Rev. E. E. Haskins, of that city, was the first to discuss the matter and he forced a self denial by offering as his donation his gold watch which had been given to him when he was eleven years old. In a moment the convention was aroused. Watches and all sorts of valuables were thrown into the contribution basket with the money, and the scene was so affecting that hundreds shed tears.

During the noon hour the ladies held a meeting and decided to form a Sunday school union and to ask the convention for its sanction in their work, which will be principally intended to aid the church in its efforts to establish mission stations all over the state. The convention heartily endorsed the action of the ladies and a request was made that all the societies of such a nature merge into a state union for their own good.

The matter of the selection of a place for the next convention was given to the executive committee with power to act. The convention then adjourned.—Harrisburg Patriot

The Common People.

As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple, honest statement, "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine, and this is what many thousands voluntarily say.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 75c.

"She Do Not Even Hesitate."

"The negro of this region can often throw in a word to describe a situation when a scholar who is conversant with many languages would fail. The other day at a station on the Seaboard Air Line, this side of Hamlet, a lady approached, and, being a stranger and seeing an old negro man, asked 'Uncle does the vestibule train stop here?' 'No, marm' answered the old coon, 'she do not even hesitate.'"

The old darkey's reply will be better appreciated when it is remembered that the Seaboard Air Line Vestibule Train is the fastest train in the South—leaving Washington, as it does, at 8:40 P. M. and reaching Atlanta at 4:09 P. M. the next day.—Raleigh Press-Visitor.

Bike Factory Bought for a Song.

A few weeks ago Attorney Phillip V. Weaver, of Hazleton, bought the Weatherly Bicycle Works at Sheriff sale for $100, subject to a mortgage of $11,000 in favor of the trustees. Since then it has been discovered that the mortgage against the concern was diverted by a mechanics' lien, and after Mr. Weaver has paid the $100 and the lien, the property will be his. The receivers now ask the Court to have the sale set aside.—Phila. Record.

Mr. Weaver is well known in this Town, and has many friends here, who hope that his expectations may be realized.

The great increase in the number of bicycles carried by passengers on the Pennsylvania railroad has led to the issuance of an order that after Nov. 1st the railroad will no longer carry bicycles free as passengers' baggage. They will be rated the same as excess baggage, except that the minimum charge will be but fifteen cents. The baggage men say that of late eight or nine bicycles is nothing unusual on one trip, and that goes to show the increase in baggage heretofore seldom carried.

A suit was brought Nov. 1st by Judge Rice against the Clear Spring Coal Company for $95,000 damages. The defendants are charged with mining coal from the lands owned by the Judge.

A Minister's Experience With Heart Disease.

Rev. L. W. Showers, Elderton, Pa.: "For many years my greatest enemy has been organic heart disease. From uneasiness about the heart, with palpitation, it had developed into thumping, fluttering, and choking sensations. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gave instant relief. A few bottles have rid me of almost every symptom of heart disease. It is a wonder worker." Sold by Wm. S. Rishton. 6 15-1y.

A Broad Minded Divine.

EVERYONE IN SYRACUSE KNOWS REV. S. R. CALTHROP.

A Scholarly, Christian Man and a Beloved Pastor, Who Believes in Training the Body as Well as the Mind.

REV. DR. CALTHROP, SYRACUSE, N. Y.

The twenty-ninth day of April is a notable day in the history of the May Memorial Church in Syracuse, as it is the anniversary of the installation of the Rev. S. R. Calthrop, D. D., the eminent divine who so long has ministered to them spiritually as pastor of the Church.

Dr. Calthrop was born in England and received his preparatory scholastic training at St. Paul's School, London. Entering Trinity College, Cambridge, he soon became a bright figure in that brilliant coterie of scholars, literary men and wise that followed in the traditions of Macaulay and his associates at the university. In the middle of the century he visited Syracuse and received his first impressions of the young city that nearly a score of years later he was to choose as his home and in which his labors have been so long and effective. The masterly pulpit addresses of Dr. Calthrop have had their fundamental drawn from the deepest research. His people have been instructed by him, not only in things spiritual, but in the elements of the broadest culture, in literature in art and in science. His young men have been taught a muscular system of morality. In these and in many other ways has he endeavored himself to his congregation, which is one of the most highly cultured and wealthy in the city.

Dr. Calthrop has a striking personality. To the eye he is a most picturesque figure. His head and face, framed in luxuriant masses of silky, snow white hair and beard, are of the type of Bryant and Longfellow. Although over seventy years old, his rather spare figure is firm and erect, and every movement is active and graceful. His whole life long he has been an ardent admirer and promoter of athletic sports, and even at his advanced age, plays tennis with all the vigor and skill of a young man. To Syracuseans, perhaps, this remarkably versatile man is most widely known, apart from his profession, as a scientist.

On a bright April morning a reporter followed the winding driveway that curving around the hill leads to Calthrop Lodge, an old-fashioned, red brick mansion, surrounded by a grove of oaks and chestnuts. Wearing a black skull cap and a black coat of semi-circular cut, the master of Calthrop Lodge graciously received the reporter who called to inquire about his health, for, though manfully repressing all possible evidences of his suffering, Dr. Calthrop for many years has been the victim of a distressing affliction, until by fortunate chance he was led to take the remedy which has effectually cured him.

During more than half of his pastorate in Syracuse, Dr. Calthrop has been troubled with rheumatism, and at intervals he suffered excruciating agony from it. At times the pain was so great as to prevent him from walking. Many remedies were tried without success, and he and his friends had given up hope of a permanent cure or of more than temporary relief when he took the preparation that drove the disease completely from his system.

In a letter written to the editor of The Evening News, of Syracuse, last year, Dr. Calthrop told of his affliction and its cure. This is Dr. Calthrop's letter: To the Editor of The Evening News:—Dear Sir: More than thirty-five years ago I wrenched my left knee, throwing it almost from its socket. Great swelling followed, and the synovial juice kept leaking from the joint.

This made me lame for years, and from time to time the weak knee would give out entirely, and the swelling would commence. This was always occasioned by some strain like a sudden stop. The knee gradually recovered, but always was weaker than the other.

About fifteen years ago the swelling recommenced, this time without any wrench at all, and before long I realized that this was rheumatism setting in the weakest part of the body. The trouble came so often that I was obliged to carry an opiate in my pocket everywhere I went. I had generally a pocket in my waistcoat pocket, but in going to a conference at Buffalo I forgot it, and as the car was damp and cold, before I got to Buffalo my knee was swollen to twice its natural size. I had seen the good effects that Pink Pills were having in such cases and I tried them myself with the result that I have never had a twinge or a swelling since. This was effected by taking seven or eight boxes.

I need not say that I am thankful for my recovered independence, but I will add that my knee is far stronger than it has been for thirty-five years. I took one pill at my meals three times a day. I gladly give you this statement. Yours, S. R. CALTHROP.

Since writing this letter Dr. Calthrop has not had any visits from his old enemy and is even more cordial now in his recommendation of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than he was then. To the reporter he said: "I am continually recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to acquaintances and those I chance to meet who are troubled with rheumatism or locomotor ataxia."

"Pink Pills," continued Dr. Calthrop, "are the best thing of the kind I know of. They are infinitely superior to most medicines that are put up for sale. I know pretty well what the pills contain, and I consider it an excellent prescription. It is such a one as I might get from my doctor, but he would not give it in such a compact form and so convenient to take."

"I recommend the pills highly to all who are troubled with rheumatism, locomotor ataxia, or any impoverishment of the blood." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have an enormous sale. An analysis of their properties shows that they contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of a grippé, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppurations, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. There are no ill effects following the use of this wonderful medicine, and it can be given to children with perfect safety.
