

To Every Man who Intends being Warm and Comfortable this Winter.

We are selling hundreds of buyers now their Winter Suits and Overcoats. We are getting word from all quarters in regard to these Clothes.

The fact is—leadership of low prices belongs to this house like its name.

Grain is low, wool is low, and it's against sound common sense to hold high prices for manufactured Clothing.

You'll make no mistake buying our $5 and $6.75 Men's Suits for All-Wool.

On account of handling the wool in raw state, these Suits receive special recommendation from Mr. Wanamaker.

You'll get former $35 quality in purchasing our $25 Overcoats.

Boys' Clothes, strong, stout, serviceable and lower in price than ever. All Wool-Suits for biggest boys, $5.00.

In addition to the very low prices, we pay Railroad Fare on the purchase of a very moderate amount.

OAK HALL SIXTH AND MARKET TWELFTH AND MARKET WANAMAKER & BROWN. WM. H. WANAMAKER. PHILADELPHIA

WASHINGTON.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22th, 1895.

Not another bond will be issued by the administration, until the republican Congress has an opportunity to extricate the Treasury from the embarrassment into which it was forced by the republican legislation.

Secretary Morton has written the following letter which explains itself: "I hasten to respond to your letter of inquiry inclosing newspaper clipping relative to the abuse of the franking privilege."

It is not a pleasant thing for a democrat to write nor for democrats to read, but as nothing is ever gained by dodging the truth it must be said that the spirit of concession, which it was expected would exist among prominent members of the party at the beginning of Congress, is as yet conspicuous by its absence.

Mr. Frederick C. Waite, of the Agricultural department, read a paper before a meeting of the National Statistical Association, held in Washington this week, which contained some startling figures in the rapid growth of the stay-at-home vote in this country.

of a lecture on "The industrial development of the New South," at Columbia University: "We will have to be content to keep the negro with us, and we should try to have the best negro possible."

Secretary Morton has written the following letter which explains itself: "I hasten to respond to your letter of inquiry inclosing newspaper clipping relative to the abuse of the franking privilege."

It seems as though every republican member of the House who arrives, brings a different opinion as to what the republicans ought to do at the session of Congress about to open.

"UNCLE REMUS—AND BRIER RABBIT"

"Uncle Remus," in Joel Chandler Harris' charming book of negro folk lore, tells the children of how "Brier Rabbit," being hard pressed by hungry "Brier Fox," escaped by climbing a tree.

Alike "Brier Fox," the Seaboard Air Line, with its handsome and speedy "Atlanta Special" vestibule limited train, operated solid between Washington and Atlanta, is pressing its competitors so hard that one of them, at least, is attempting to "climb a tree" and announces to the public that it is "the only line entering the Exposition grounds," while the fact is that all of its through passengers are landed in the Union Station—the station used jointly with the Seaboard Air Line and other lines entering Atlanta, and must transfer to the street cars or to another train for the Exposition grounds, paying the regular fares to and from the grounds, just as do passengers reaching Atlanta over the "Seaboard Air Line."

Millions For Soldiers' Orphans.

The Cost of Conducting Schools for These Children Over $10,000,000.

The annual report of the soldiers' orphan school commission for the fiscal year ended May 31, 1895, has just been issued. The total number of children in the schools under the control of the commission at the date of the report was 852, as against 714 a year ago.

There are still on file in the office of the commission 284 of such applications, which the commission has been unable to finally act upon because of the lack of room in the schools. As fast as vacancies may occur these will be taken up and cared for.

The schools still under the care of the commission are, Chester Springs, in which there were on June 1, 236 scholars; Harford, in which there will be 147; Uniontown, with 234, and the Industrial school at Scotland, five miles north of Chambersburg, the population of which is 240.

We all know that any tired muscle can be restored by rest. Your stomach is a muscle. Dyspepsia is its manner of saying "I am tired. Give me rest."

This is the shaker method of curing indigestion, and its success is best attested by the fact that these people are practically free from what is without doubt the most prevalent of all diseases. The Shaker Digestive Cordial not only contains digested food which is promptly absorbed without taxing the tired digestive organs, but it is likewise an aid to the digestion of other foods in the stomach.

Laxol is the best medicine for children. Doctors recommend it in place of Castor Oil.

A Plan For Williamsport. A Proposition to Build Guard Banks Thirty-Three Feet High.

The plan of John A. Fulton, of Johnstown, for preventing the destructive overflows of the Susquehanna at Williamsport is endorsed by the State Board of Health, which will call the next sanitary convention at Williamsport to arouse interest in the project. The plan proposed is the raising of the banks of the river to the high water mark, thirty-three feet, by changing the railroad tracks and removing obstructions in the bed of the stream.

An Easy Way Out of It.

"Well, Bill, you know I'm going to be married next week?" "So I hear. Let me congratulate you, old man."

"That's all right. Now, what I want is a little advice."

"You see, you've been married quite awhile and I want to know what to call my mother-in-law. Don't call her. Just keep right on bluffing."

"You know what I mean. I have to address my conversation to her sometimes and attract her attention. I don't know her very well and maybe she wouldn't like to have me call her 'mother' and I sort of hate to call her 'Mrs. De—' How'd you work it?"

"Oh, easy enough. Let me see. The first year I called her 'Say,' principally, but after that I got along all right. Things sort of shaped themselves."

"What did you call her after that?" "Grandmother."

Lippincott's Magazine For December, 1895.

The complete novel in the December issue of Lippincott's is "The Old Silver Trail," by Mary E. Stickney. It deals with Colorado mining life, with strikes, plots, and various underground proceedings, as well as with scenery and mountain breezes.

The scene of "Bennett's Partner," by James Knapp Reeve, is in a wild and lonesome part of the great West, which lends itself naturally to exciting adventures. Harry Stillwell Edwards, in a striking tale, shows "Where the Clues Met," which was in Georgia.

"Three Fates," as outlined by Virna Woods, are, varying fortunes which would, or might, have befallen the California heroine, according to which of three suitors she married. "The End of Captain Ferguson," by Beulah Marie Dix, is a brief but vivid sketch, in the modern heroic manner, from old wars in Germany.

Under the title "Opposing View-Points," Frederic M. Bird considers the question whether editor and contributor are natural enemies.

"Shrived," by Margaret Gilman George, is an unusually successful revival of the old ballad style, handling a delicate subject with vigor and feeling. The other poems of this number are by Elizabeth Harman, Alice I. Eaton, and Carrie Blake Morgan.

Secretary of Agriculture Edge says one of the chief difficulties he finds in holding a farmers' institute for the first time in a locality is the prevalent belief that it is a scheme out of which somebody wants to make money.

Lots of Life in Them Yet. People whose forty-fifth birthday is behind them fancy that their power to resist disease is lessened because a cough sticks to them a few days.

There was an increase in fire losses during October this year, as compared with October, 1894, in the United States and Canada amounting to $5,224,800. In this particular October was a calamitous month, bringing up the aggregate of fire loss for the year to $109,689,400, as compared with $105,789,600 for the first ten months of 1894.

Bob Ingersoll once said: "when Kentucky goes Republican I will believe that there is a place of future punishment" Under such a doctrine Republicanism and damnation must go hand in hand.

Harper's Magazine IN 1895.

Prints, a new novel by William Black, written with all the author's well-known charm of manner, will begin in the December Number, 1895, and continue until May. A new novel by George Du Maurier, entitled "The Martyrs," will also begin during the year. It is not too much to say that no novel has ever been awaited with such great expectation as the one now to be published. The personal recollections of Joan of Arc will continue and will relate the story of the future and martyrdom of the Maid of Orleans.

The volumes of the MAGAZINE begin with the Numbers for June and December of each year. When no date is mentioned, subscription will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss. Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.
