

THE OLD ROMAN DEAD.

Allen G. Thurman Passed Away Peacefully in Columbus, O.

Ex Senator Allen G. Thurman died at his home at Columbus, December 12. The death of Mr. Thurman was a painful shock to the general public there.

Allen G. Thurman was born in Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 13, 1813. His father, Rev. P. Thurman, and his mother, only daughter of Colonel Nathaniel Allen, father of the late Governor Allen, removed to Chillicothe, O., in 1810, where young Thurman was well educated, studying law with his uncle, the late William Allen, then United States senator, and subsequently with the late Noah H. Swayne of the United States supreme bench.

On retiring from the supreme bench he resumed the practice of law in Columbus from 1856 to 1868, and in like manner on retiring from the United States senate in 1880, although he was for years thereafter engaged in Europe as United States monetary commissioner by appointment of his old competitor, President Hayes. While Judge Thurman made his national reputation as senator, he was known in his state as one of the most eminent lawyers and jurists.

Nervous women will find relief in Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it enriches the blood and thus strengthens the nerves.

WATERING HORSES.

THE EXPERIENCE OF AN ENGLISH VETERINARIAN IN INDIA.

An English veterinarian writing to the London Live Stock Journal says: "Prejudice dies hard, but the hardest of all to die in the minds of grooms is that it is injurious to give a horse a drink of cold water when he is heated from exercise. Years ago, when I used to train horses for racing in India, I grappled with this prejudice, and clung to it with such tenacity that I used constantly to have horses 'off' their feed after a strong gallop. One day I returned to the messhouse very hot and very tired after a long run, and suddenly thought fit to mentally put myself in the place of a race horse. 'Shall I have,' I asked myself, 'a better appetite for breakfast if I refrain from drinking till I have cooled off or if I have a drink right off? Knowing that I could not eat heartily unless I have first of all a drink, I took it, and thereupon felt so fit to eat, and went so strong over a course of beef-steak, ham and eggs, quail, muffins, etc., that I resolved to try the same treatment on my horses. My lead was attained with such success that nowadays all the trainers in India give their horses about half a bucket of cold water to drink immediately after a gallop, and with the best results as regards the appetites and health. I have not alone never seen, but have never heard or read of any harm to a horse from drinking cold water when he was heated. I have, however, seen hundreds of cases of colic occur in horses from drinking water after being fed on occasions when they had, previous to eating, been deprived of water for some time. Were all grooms to take my advice as to watering, I am afraid that many an honest and hard-working veterinary surgeon would find his income from colic cases seriously diminished."

Light Street comes next in order. It was formerly two hamlets known as Sidel town and Light Street. By not crowding their buildings too closely, they have succeeded in getting the two pretty well consolidated, and one name has been dispensed with. Light Street has the advantage of most towns in our county, from the fact that it seems to be pretty nearly finished. When I get to Orangeville I am pretty nearly home. It has increased both in quality and quantity within the last fifty years. Fifty years ago it contained two stores, two churches, four hotels and one stillhouse. Whisky seems to have been the most prominent industry. The improvements in quality consist in the demolishing of the stillhouse, the reduction of the number of hotels, the increase of churches and the respectable schoolhouse which has taken the place of the dilapidated one of former years. The number of dwelling houses has greatly increased, and their appearance betokens thrift and enterprise. The diminution of the whisky traffic and the adoption of useful industries has greatly helped to produce those happy results. The change in some other localities has been as great as those mentioned, but they have not been so directly within the scope of my observation.

Many of our exchanges are strongly in favor of a curfew bell at 9 o'clock in the evening to hustle the kids off the street. When we were kids our mothers used a piece of barrel stave for a curfew, which brought us in quicker than any bell would have done, and if mothers would use these same persuaders there would be no need to ring bells.—Painted Post Monitor.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

A few months ago there appeared an article in your paper, mentioning certain changes that had taken place within the last fifty years.

Thinking that some of your younger readers might be interested in reading of some changes not mentioned in the above named article, I have concluded to point out a few of them. Fifty years ago there was not a mile of railroad in operation within the limits of Columbia and Montour counties. The Catawissa road had been laid out and partially graded somewhat earlier than that, but it was not completed until several years later.

Fifty years ago Columbia and Montour counties constituted a single county with Danville as the county seat. Bloomsburg contained no court house, no jail and but one lawyer. It was a peaceable village at that time, and one lawyer was sufficient to keep matters straight. The population of Bloomsburg at that time was not much if any over six hundred. I find by statistics that Bloom township which then included the present limits of Scott township with the village of Esputown and Light Street polled less than four hundred votes on the question of removing the court house to Bloomsburg. The probability is that a pretty full vote was polled.

The streets of Bloomsburg were not named nor numbered as at present. The different portions of the town were locally known as Bloomsburg, Morgantown and Smoketown. The whole was by some of the older residents of the county (who did not take kindly to modern innovations) called Overtown.

Scott town did not then have an existence save the site upon which to build. It was just forty-nine years ago this last summer, that I helped to haul stone for the foundation of the house that was afterward built by Dr. Scott, which gave the name to that portion of the town. The same summer the court house was being built, and as the citizens were getting a little proud of their town, they straightened Main street from the brow of the hill down through Scott-town. It had formerly circled in toward the creek. I presume to secure an easier grade.

John K. Grotz and William Neal were men doing business in the town of Bloomsburg, when I first knew the place, which is somewhat over fifty years. Just how much I do not care to state, as it might lead some of your readers, to suppose, that I am getting old. If there are any others still living who were doing business at that time I am not aware of it.

About the bears and deer that lurked about the wilds of Bloomsburg fifty years ago all that I have to say is, I did not see them. Being a pretty good boy and not prowling around o' nights may account for my not seeing them.

I shall now leave Bloomsburg and move up the creek. Light Street comes next in order. It was formerly two hamlets known as Sidel town and Light Street. By not crowding their buildings too closely, they have succeeded in getting the two pretty well consolidated, and one name has been dispensed with. Light Street has the advantage of most towns in our county, from the fact that it seems to be pretty nearly finished.

When I get to Orangeville I am pretty nearly home. It has increased both in quality and quantity within the last fifty years. Fifty years ago it contained two stores, two churches, four hotels and one stillhouse. Whisky seems to have been the most prominent industry. The improvements in quality consist in the demolishing of the stillhouse, the reduction of the number of hotels, the increase of churches and the respectable schoolhouse which has taken the place of the dilapidated one of former years.

The number of dwelling houses has greatly increased, and their appearance betokens thrift and enterprise. BOSTON DEMOCRAT.

Joseph Quincy, ex-Assistant Secretary of State, Elected Mayor.

Joseph Quincy, Democrat, was elected mayor of Boston by 4,376 plurality. Out of a registration of 91,000 over 75,000 voted.

The Democrats swept everything, electing seven alderman, a street commissioner and a school board.

It is the first time in years that Boston has seen a Democratic school board.

The council is overwhelmingly Democratic, and the jubilation around the street beggars description.

Mr. Quincy may have sported a "poker face" for some time past, but now he wears a smile broad enough for a foot ball goal.

The Republicans are in the dumps. The leaders are cursing Rev. Boyd Brady, who in a sermon on Sunday called upon all believers in "Reform" to vote for Curtis, supplementing his plea for votes with the announcement that the A. P. A. organization was with Curtis hand and glove. Brady is called Curtis' Burchard.

But men of sound political judgment, while admitting that Brady may have made a few Democratic votes, say that Quincy would have won out, Brady or no Brady.

The Hebrews stuck to Quincy throughout the city, so did the Germans. "No license" received a tremendous setback. Mayor elect Quincy's term will be for two years.

The present mayor of Boston, Mr. Curtis, is a Republican.

This was the first election under Boston's new city charter, which was secured largely through the exertions of Mayor Curtis, and the mayor elected on Tuesday, and those chosen hereafter will hold the office for two years instead of one.

"Passes Free," You Know.

One of the beauties and charms of an editor's life is his dead-heading it on all occasions. One who has never tasted of the sweets of that bliss can begin to take in its glory and happiness. He who does $200 worth of advertising for a railroad, gets a pass occasionally; rides $25 worth; and then he is looked upon as a dead-head or dead-beat. He "puffs" a concert troop $20 worth and gets $3 in "complimentaries," and is thus passed "free." He blows; and puffs a church festival free, to any desired extent, and rarely gets a "thank you" for it. It goes as part of his duty as an editor. He does more work gratuitously for the town and community than all the rest of the population put together and gets cursed for it all, while in many instances a man who donates a few dollars on Fourth of July, base ball club, or a church, is gratefully remembered. Oh it is a sweet thing to be an editor; he passes "free" you know.

Lead Us Not Into Temptation.

It is painfully hard for the average young man to help a pretty girl on with her coat and tuck her fashionable sleeves inside, and then stop right there.—Somerville Journal.

Woman-hood

has its own special medicine in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. And every woman who is "run-down" or overworked, every woman who suffers from any "female complaint" or weakness, needs just that remedy. With it, every disturbance, irregularity, and derangement can be permanently cured. It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and strengthening nerve, and the only medicine for women which—once used, is always in favor. In periodical pains, displacements, weak back, bearing-down sensations, and every kindred ailment, it is specific.

A Great Offer.

The "Twice-a-Week" edition of the New York World (formerly the Weekly) has proved a phenomenal success. It is a Semi-Weekly of six pages, mailed Tuesdays and Fridays; eight columns to the page; forty-eight columns each issue. It gives the news fully half a week ahead of any weekly paper, and, at the same time, retains all the literary, agricultural, miscellany and other features which made the Weekly World so popular. Yet the price is only $1.00 a year. For sample copies address THE WORLD, N. Y. Arrangements have been made by which we can furnish this paper and the Twice-a-Week New York World all for $1.75 a year. Take advantage of this offer and get your own local paper and the Twice-a-Week World at this special rate.
