

NOTES ABOUT WOMEN.

Fraulein Marie Schwartz is the first lady who has ever been appointed director of a girl's public school in Vienna.

Eighteen American women bear the title of Princess in Italy, Russia, and other continental countries where Princesses are plentiful.

"Her Celestial Husband" and "A Man's Foes," two popular books of the day, have been written by women, although at first credited to men.

Women have long figured among the contributors to the London Punch, the list including Miss Georgiana Bowers (now Mrs. Bowers Edwards), Miss Coode, Mrs. Romer (Mrs. Jopling-Rowe), Mrs. Field, Miss Fraser, Mrs. Mansell (Mrs. Bull), and Miss Maude Samboorne.

The "new woman," of Wooster University, who are reported to have assumed masculine dress at a sociable, showed their one redeeming feature when they blushed and became terror-stricken at the discovery of their masquerade. It is the woman who really glories in her unwomanliness that is dangerous.

Queen Margherita, of Italy, is about to make her first appearance as an author by the publication of her experiences as an Alpine climber. These records of the jaunts she has taken in the effort to reduce her growing embonpoint will be illustrated by sketches from her own pencil.

Swiss brides in several of the mountain cantons receive a most prosaic wedding gift—a Gruyere cheese. This cheese is made by the bride's girlfriends, and is placed in the new house under a glass case. It is never eaten, but the record of each important family event is marked on the rind.

Miss Emma Bates has bought the paper entitled Western Womanhood, and will remove it to Fargo, N. D., where she will edit it with the co-operation of prominent Dakota women. It will be the organ of the State Equal Suffrage Association, lately organized at Grand Forks.

It was after the ex-Empress Eugenie of France that Princess Beatrice's little daughter was named. The unfortunate Empress holds the children of Princess Beatrice very dear to her, and is seen much with them during her residence in the Highlands and when she stays with her majesty.

Miss Molly Elliot Sewall, in a letter against woman suffrage, written to the Boston Transcript, says: "If I may be pardoned for a personal allusion, I would say that, after an experience of some years in literary life, where one is brought not only into contact with men, but into competition with them, it is my belief that a vote would have been a very serious hindrance to me at any time."

For Dresden Bed Rooms.

Cretonnes still hold their own, and novelties in design are constantly being thrust upon the public. The fleur-de-lis is much admired and is seen on an ecru background in its natural tint of blue. The cretonnes woven in Bedford cord stripes and in dainty Dresden patterns appeal strongly to woman's artistic sensibilities. These vary in price from 40 to 75 cents, according to whether the design is exclusive and the material imported.

Romero and Juliet.

Chains and Beads Very Fashionable.

Chains are extremely fashionable this year, and the jewelers in Paris are showing them in great variety, but the fine gold chain, with a single pearl every four or five inches, has the preference. A pretty chain of a fanciful description is composed of pearls set alternately with olive-shaped beads of dull chased gold. Some chains are made of small black agate beads, also separated at intervals by single pearls. There is a decided fancy for these black agate beads, which are deemed—not without reason—extremely becoming to the complexion; necklaces are made of them, their simplicity relieved by the addition of a diamond clasp. A row of black beads, divided on either side by a long S in diamonds, makes a beautiful ornament for the throat.

In the gold chains, pink coral beads are sometimes substituted for pearls. Chains are also made of black or blue steel—a metal in as high favor as ever—the pearls introduced as in those of the more precious metal; they are not only used for watches and eye glasses, but chain purses and other knick-knacks, such as pencil cases, tiny powder boxes, mirrors and charms are suspended to them. These, however, must not be worn openly; it is considered a breach of good breeding to have a bunch of valuable trinkets dangling about the person—to say nothing of the danger of such a proceeding—and it must be hidden either in the breast pocket of the coat or beneath the folds of the dress.

Elizabeth Ney's Fine Work.

Elizabeth Ney, daughter of Marshal Ney, famous in Europe for her delicate work in sculpture, is found to be the same woman who for twenty years has worked quietly in Texas, where she has been known as "The Strange Lady." Miss Ney—now Mrs. Montgomery—is said to be a very beautiful woman, untiringly devoted to her art, and to have accomplished wonders in the way of raising the somewhat hazy aesthetic standard of Texas. In the Texas Building at the World's Fair was a finely wrought marble statue of Gen. Sam Houston, the work of Mrs. Montgomery.

Will Obey the Law.

The Nuns employed in the public school at Frenchville were taken out last week, by order of the Directors, who had been notified that they had teachers who were teaching in violation of the Garb law. One of the Directors, F. L. Coudriet, proposed making a test case of it, but when he found on advice of Frank Fielding that they were violating the law in employing the Nuns, he very wisely dropped his test case and the school is now awaiting a teacher.

Dr. M. Salm, 53 Downing Block, Erie, Pa.

Every Word a Truth.

"When you see the editor on the street stop him and tell him something about yourself or your neighbor. The public—if you are interested in you and in him—if you are at all interested in the public. Of course it is not expected the True Republican will be made a medium through which to vent spite against anyone. It is the pleasant things we want. Only when scandals and troubles have grown to a proportion that they have got into the courts are they proper for newspaper publication. Then they are public property and our readers entitled to the particulars. The erroneous backwoods notion that it is a mark of modesty to keep your doings out of print has been done away with in these times of the modern newspaper, and now a person who attaches undue importance one way or the other to the appearance of his name in print is looked upon as possessing a morbid sense of his own importance, and often his acquaintances cannot help but be reminded of the quotation 'evil deeds love darkness.' Be sociable with the editors. Open up and tell them what you know. They will not only be interested but they know the public will be interested too. They never think it incumbent upon you to apologize for telling them for publication something about yourself. Give us a boost, friends."—Sycamore Republican.

The Proper Time.

When the most benefits is to be derived from a good medicine, is early in the year. This is the season when the tired body, weakened organs and nervous system yearn for a building-up medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla. Many wait for the open spring weather and, in fact, delay giving attention to their physical condition so long that a long siege of sickness is inevitable. To rid the system of the impurities accumulated during the winter season, to purify the blood and to invigorate the whole system, there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. Don't put it off, but take Hood's Sarsaparilla now. It will do you good. Read the testimonials published in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla, all from reliable, grateful people. They tell the story.
