NYE'S EFFECTIVE SPEECH.

It Made Even Summer Laugh, but Did the Business.

Prewart's colleague during a portion of the reconstruction period was J. W. Nyo, a violent partisan, but a man of ling common sense and homely yet cansile and delightful wit. In earlier Hee he had been an extremely popular mp crator, and in the Senate he was crien able, with a telling anecdote or a laugh-provoking illustration, to demotish at a blow the labored arguments of an opponent. On one occasion a bill to admit the Chinese to equal privileges of citizenate, and Mr. Sumner had the floor. His speech-as usual elaborate, studied and classical-was an earnest appeal for the children of the flowery kingdom, and at its conclusion it was evident that he had made a deep impression. But as soon as Mr. Summer had taken his seat Mr. Nye sprang to his feet, and spoke somewhat as follows: Mr. President:-I was born in the grand old county of Steuben, New York State, and raised upon a farm. My parents were hard-working, God-fearing cople, and we had morning and evening prayers, in which appeals were alslaves. My good mother-green be her memory-was a careful housewife, and, among other standard delicacies, doughputs were always provided. We all level doughnuts, and I often watched my mother when she made the dough, and knewled and shortened it until it was in ilt condition. The result of my observation was that she always took small piece of dough and fried it in the fat before she risked the whole batch. She tried it first, and awaited results. I live on the Pacific coast, and know a good deal about the Chinese, They have nothing in common with us. They save their money, and then return, pigtail and all, to China. You cannot make a citizen of a man who will not sacrifice his pigtail! We have enfranchised the blacks-they are now free and citizens and I am content. My friend from Massachusetts has made an able and exhaustive argument, but I suggest to him that it is far better and safe to follow my good mother's ex-ample, and fry a little piece of this suffrage dough before we risk the whole Chinese batch.

The effect of this speech was marvelous. Mr. Sumner seldom had a ready appreciation of humor, but on this oc casion he leaned back in his chair and laughed until the tears ran down his cheeks. He did not atempt to reply, and the bill failed through the homespun argument adduced by Senator Nye.-Washington Star.

Stoned as a Witch.

Mrs. Irene Oles, an alleged witch, of Washington, Pa., pleaded for relief from public osctracism in Common Pleas No. 1 court recently. She is sixty years of age and supported her-self and daughter by nursing the sick and selling home remedies. She lives in a neighborhood filled with superstitious people. Among these is a family named Newman, which has a boy fourteen years old. In November, 1893, he was seized by a peculiar nervous malady. He became delirious and in his delirium he repeatedly told them to keep Mrs. Oles away, that she had put something in his mouth.

Neighbors heard those remarks and seeing the boy's condition rumors began to circulate that he was under the evil spell of the Oles woman. Dr. Irwin, the family physician, pronounced the boy's condition the result of a serious nervous shock. He might have been frightened by Mrs. Oles. A local newspaper took the matter up and published so much about it that Mrs. Oles was stoned and humiliated by her neighbors. She her services as a nurse, she was driven from house to house and practically ferced to hermitage.

She sued for damages. During the trial the boy's father and mother testified that Mrs. Oles had been at their house just before his illness, and that the boy had nided her down the steps and part of the way home. On the contrary. Mrs. Olnes testified that she had never met the boy, never had been es-corted anywhere by him and had never treated him. Mrs. Oles told her story in such a sympathetic way that the jury gave her a verdict for $600,-Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Sultan's Joke.

"Did you ever hear the story of how the Prince of Wales asked the Sultan to go and see the derby run?" said Orwise: The race for the derby was about to be run, and as the Sultan was then visiting England the Prince sent one of his lords-in-waiting to inquire if the astern potentate would like to go and witness the classic contest. The son of the moon and stars was seated, propped up by custions, smoking placidly, when the royal emissary was ushered into

His Royal Highness bids me ask your majesty if it would please you to witness the race for the derby?" said he bowing low.

quired the Sultan blandly.

'He does, Your Highness,'
'Tell the Prince that I cannot do ro,' replied the ruler of the faithful. 'Why should I want to go? All men who are not fools now that some horses are swifter than others."-Philadelphia Press.

A Strange Bed-Fellow.

A. R. Goodwyn tells of rather an awazing incident but what might have proved a serious accident which occur ad near the Lincoln county line. Aaron Voody, with his family, lives in a small dug-out near Barnard, and one night last week Sam White's cattle broke out and one of the steers weighing about teen hundred pounds wandered onto the roof of the dug-out and went directthe fell across the headboard not directly on the sleeping occu-I with. Mr. Woody finally got the steer and looked after the injuries of his and child. The latter he at first with had been killed, and a doctor court for, but it speedily recovered o serious injury except a terrific Front country, where cattle wander on top of the houses and fall in on people while they are asleep.-Minneapolis Mensenger.
