Danger in Rope Jumping.

Timid mothers who fully realize the dangers of the foot ball field for their sons rarely appreciate the perils of the apparently harmless jumping rope for their daughters. And yet the latter has its victims every year, and though they are not so numerous as those of foot ball it would probably be found, if complete statistics were available, that the mean total reaches a figure sufficiently startling. One of the first deaths of the season from this cause occurred in Brooklyn, N. Y., last week, where a little girl of o years died from the effects of too prolonged indulgence in rope skipping. Jump-ing rope may or may not be good exercise for girls when taken in moderation, but it is very easy to overdo it, and when rapid and protracted it is a severe strain on children whose hearts are weak or who may be otherwise delicate.

What appears to have been a fiendish attempt to poison the entire populace of Rockville was made there last week. Some scoundrel put a great quantity of Paris green in the village well, from which nearly all the citizens drink. The town is five miles west of Harrisburg, and the wholesale endeavor to assassinate the people has caused much alarm and excitement there.

The discovery was made by Jacob Tibbins, the village blacksmith's son. tions. The pump stands by the roadside under a great tree in front of the village inn. This morning Tibbins when going to work felt thirsty and that follow in its train.

Private blood and skin diseases speedily, drank it. It did not taste as usual, and while he was cogitating over the matter he grew deathly sick. A doctor was sent for and with his stomach pump he saved the young man's life. An investigation was made and traces of Paris green were found in the cup. Then it was discovered that a large quantity of the poison had been thrown into the well. The residents of Rockville are greatly excited and are on the hunt for the villain. The pump was a great stopping place for Harrisburg people who drove up the river road. There is no clue to the identity of the poisoner.

The effort of any newspaper to build up a town is practically nullified unless it is backed up by business men. A stranger turns from the news columns of a paper to its advertising pages, and if he fails to find the business card of the merchants and professional arms, he comes to the conclusion that the publisher is not appreciated, in which case it is a good place for him to keep clear of. No town ever grew without the active aspapers grow and build up their locali to the newspaper that they are not only building up their own business, but helping to support that which is steadily working for the growth of the W. Zahner administrator of Paul Zahner late whole town .- Franklin Transcript.

C. P. Jadwin, of Scranton, has in connection with his son been engaged in arranging the details of a "horseless carriage," which promises to be a pronounced success. The carriage is practically completed and the test will be made within a week's time. The motive power will be gasoline, which will be generated from oil. One interesting feature will be the cheapness with which the motive power will be obtained. It is estimated that twenty-five cents worth of oil will supply the will be generated from oil. One infive cents worth of oil will supply the power for twenty successive hours, thus placing the cost at one cent per hour.

Tried to Bob Senator Quay.

Senator Quay's committee room on public buildings and grounds was broken into last week and an unsuccessful attempt made to break into his desk. The iron bolts fastening the doors at the top and bottom were pried out of the sockets, showing that strong tools had been employed.

How It Got There.

Something got wrong with a Jersey Shore gentleman's watch last Thursday and he handed it to a jeweler for repairs. Upon examination a bed bug was found imprisoned in the works. How the mischievous little bug got there was a profound mystery until the Vidette suggested that it got there between the ticks.
