

The Columbian.

ESTABLISHED 1866. The Columbia Democrat, ESTABLISHED 1871. CONSOLIDATED 1899. PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY MORNING at Bloomsburg, the County seat of Columbia County, Pennsylvania.

GEO. B. ELWELL, EDITOR. GEO. C. ROAN, FOREMAN. TERMS.—Inside the county, $1.00 a year in advance; $1.50 if not paid in advance. Outside the county, $1.25 a year, strictly in advance. All communications should be addressed to THE COLUMBIAN, Bloomsburg, Pa. THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1896.

An exchange sarcastically says: "It is rather curious that McKinley does not like the bicycle, since he is so fond of a straddle."

A San Francisco Democrat wagers $500 that if Pattison is nominated at Chicago he will get more electoral votes from the state of California than the Republican candidate would get from that state. Pattison is strong in the west because of his stand in the Pacific Railroad case.

Let us hear no more Republican wailing about the condition of the Treasury. By their votes against the beer tax the hypocrisy of the plaintiffs and professions of Republican Senators has been made a matter of record. A tax on beer would all go into the Treasury, but would do no good to the Trusts.

Appropriations by this Congress exceed by $15,000,000 those of any single session in the history of the country. With a prospective deficit of $50,000,000 during the next fiscal year, Congress is going to adjourn without in any way providing the money to meet it. That's the sort of statesmanship the voters will be asked to endorse.

The coronation of the Czar of Russia cost the lives of nearly 1,500 people and $40,000,000 in money. The Czar is no doubt undisturbed by the loss of life, as life in Russia is held very lightly, but the world at large will look with disgust upon a pageant of such grandeur in a country where millions of peasants are dying of starvation. The people of America may be glad that they do not live in a country where such a display of inhumanity is possible.

It is rather cheeky to ask the Legislature to pay the expenses of the Philadelphia "Lexow" committee, which were to be borne by the Phila. Municipal Reform League. The committee was simply a Quay annex, to be used to scare or castigate some of the Philadelphians and Pittsburgers who were not in line with the boss. The committee was forced for its own welfare to abandon its so-called investigations, and the Philadelphia people who wanted reform naturally abandoned the committee. Probably Quay can induce his Reform Legislature to pay the bill.

The Czar.

The coronation of the Czar has absorbed the attention of the world for some days, and certainly the spectacle with its accompanying circumstances is well worthy the notice of mankind. According to all accounts the coronation has surpassed the dreams of the poet in all its barbaric splendor. Millions of dollars have been expended that nothing might be lacking to the impressiveness and brilliancy of the event. Aside from this the position of the Czar as the autocratic ruler of almost one hundred millions of people, widely scattered, and of diverse races, with the surging discontent of nihilism beneath the surface, makes the situation doubly interesting. It is recognized that at any moment the caprice of the policy of the Czar may plunge Europe into war. The Russians themselves appreciate the leading part assigned them in the drama. The correspondents at Moscow unanimously report the discovery that the Russians think they are a match for all western Europe without any allies. Nor is this merely a matter of curious interest; there is with it a feeling that the time is not far distant when their belief in this will be put to the test. The nihilists are said to be in a state of armed neutrality awaiting the revelation of the policy of the Czar subsequent to his coronation. There are the usual stories of the reforms, amnesties and liberties to be granted after the coronation, but there is a reasonable doubt of the fulfillment of these expectations. The one thing perhaps of most personal interest to Americans has been the effect made by the simple dignity and plain costume of the Ambassadors of the United States as contrasted with the gorgeous paraphernalia of other countries. The comparison made by the correspondents is usually with France, and the United States loses nothing in the comparison.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

EAST BENTON.

The hot and dry weather is now superseded by wet and cool.

Corn is coming up slowly. The young plants seem to be tinged with yellow on account of the wet and cool weather.

The winter grain does not promise much of a harvest. Now and then a good piece of rye greets the eye over the landscape.

The weather prophets seem to foretell coming storms, but they miss on schedule time.

Oats has taken a start and now promises a fair crop.

Decoration Day was delightful except the evening program was sidetracked by the rain.

The new woman can never get a fair start until the old woman gives her the right of way, and this she will not likely do.

The political pot is simmering in every direction, and a good deal of slopping over may be expected.

Warm feet and cool heads are all that is needed in a hot political campaign.

We were obliged to take up our water pipes and clean them. Now we have an abundant flow of water at the door.

Our roads have been repaired to a considerable extent, hence the candidates find more convenient to look after their political fences.

The Passenger Department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, on June 1, published its annual Summer Excursion Route Book. This work, which is compiled with the utmost care and exactness, is designed to provide the public with short descriptive notes of the principal Summer resorts of Eastern America, with the routes for reaching them, and the rates of fare. There are over four hundred resorts in the book to which rates are quoted, and over fifteen hundred different ways of reaching them, or combinations of routes are set out in detail. The book is the most complete and comprehensive handbook of summer travel ever offered to the public.

Its 215 pages are enclosed in a handsome and striking cover, in colors. Several maps, presenting the exact routes over which tickets are sold, are bound in the book. It is also profusely illustrated with fine half-tone cuts of scenery along the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad and elsewhere.

Any doubt as to where the summer should be passed will be dispelled after a careful examination of the contents of this publication.

On and after June 1 it may be procured at any Pennsylvania Railroad ticket office at the nominal price of ten cents, or, upon application to the general office, Broad Street Station, by mail for twenty cents.
