

THE WORK OF THE HUSBANDMAN.

Encouragement the Bible Gives to the Tillers of the Soil.

In these days when so many of our young men are leaving the farm for the allurements of city life, it might be profitable to turn to the Bible to see what encouragement may be found in it for the husbandman and his work. After the creation of the earth we are told "There was not a man to till the ground" (Gen. 2: 5), so Adam was formed and placed in the "garden of Eden to dress it, and to keep it" (Gen. 2: 15), thus dignifying the occupation by God's own establishment of it. And after Adam's woful sin had brought a curse upon the ground as well as upon mankind, and Eden's gates were closed behind him, God's command still was to "till the ground from whence he was taken" (Gen. 3: 23). And after the flood had wrought its devastation, lest the husbandman might be discouraged by the fear of a like catastrophe, our God graciously displayed his bow in the heavens to seal his promise that while the earth remaineth "seedtime and harvest shall not cease" (Gen. 8: 22).

While Bible precepts offer every encouragement to the faithful husbandman, he is warned against indolence and incited to diligence by such passages as "The sluggard will not plow by reason of the cold, therefore shall he beg in harvest and have nothing" (Prov. 20: 4); "He that observeth the wind shall not sow and he that regardeth the clouds shall not reap;" "In the morning sow thy seed and in the evening withhold not thy hand, for thou knowest not whether shall prosper either this or that, or whether both shall be alike good" (Eccl. 11: 4, 6); "He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly, and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully" (II. Cor. 9: 6); "He that tilleth his land shall have plenty of bread" but he that maketh haste to be rich shall not be innocent" (Prov. 28: 19-20); "They shall not plant and another eat . . . they shall not labor in vain" (Isa. 65: 22-23).

Not only does God call and encourage the husbandman, but he promises guidance. "Doth the plowman plow all day to sow? Doth he open and break the clods of his ground? When he hath made plain the face thereof, doth he not cast abroad the fitches, and scatter the cummin and cast in the principal wheat and the appointed barley and the rye in their place? For his God doth instruct him to discretion, and doth teach him" (Isa. 28: 24-26). To obtain the divine blessing on his work the husbandman must be faithful to his Lord. "The land is mine" (Lev. 25: 23), saith the Lord. But "if ye walk in my statutes and keep my commandments and do them, then I will give you rain in due season, and the land shall yield her increase and the trees of the field shall yield their fruit. And your threshing shall reach unto the vintage, and the vintage shall reach unto the sowing time and ye shall eat your bread to the full and dwell in your land safely."—Mrs. A. H. Borden, in American Agriculturist.

The Flowering Raspberry.

Those who have been along the rocky banks of the Hudson in summer time must have noticed the abundance of what appeared at a little distance to be small purplish roses. Upon closer inspection these flowers would probably have turned out to be those of the flowering raspberry (rubus odoratus). All raspberries flower, but this has so much larger blossoms than any other native one that it has received this popular name. It has numerous stems, and when growing with plenty of room makes a large clump, from three to five feet high. The leaves are not compound, like those of the common raspberry, but are large, simple and lobed. All the young growth, as well as the flowers, are covered by numerous hairs that exude a sticky secretion, which makes the plant clammy to the touch, and which has a peculiar odor. The flowers, which are produced nearly all summer, are about two inches across, of a rich purplish crimson color, and of a delicate texture. They are succeeded by a broad, flat fruit, which is of very good flavor, but which is not produced in sufficient abundance to make it worth while to cultivate the shrub for its fruit. An ornamental shrub

Rubus Odoratus.

It is worthy of more attention than it has received, as it is hardy and of easy culture. By cutting out the old wood occasionally, and shortening the new, the plant may be kept from growing unshapely. It does best in a partial shade, as the hot sun soon destroys the beauty of the rather delicate flowers. We do not find this shrub generally kept in the nurseries, but it is not rare in rocky places in the Northern States, and is readily transplanted.

Remedy for Kicking Cows.

Cows seldom kick without some good reason for it. Teats are sometimes chapped or the udder tender, harsh handling hurts them, and they kick. Sometimes long and sharp finger nails cut their teats, and sometimes the milk-culture, or pulling the long hairs on the udder, while milking. Shear off the long hairs, cut long finger nails close, bathe chapped teats with warm water, and grease them well with lard, and always treat a cow gently. She will never kick unless something hurts her, or she fears a repetition of former hurts. When handled gently cows like to be milked. When treated otherwise they will kick and hold up their milk. It is quite as consistent to whip a sick child to stop his crying as to whip or kick a cow to prevent her kicking while being milked.

A convenient way of memorizing the number of bones in the human body, as published by the "Medical Recorder."

- How many bones in the human face? Fourteen, when they are all in place.
- How many bones in the human head? Eight, my child, as I've often said.
- How many bones in the human ear? Three in each, and help to hear.
- How many bones in the human spine? Twenty-six, like a climbing vine.
- How many bones in the human chest? Twenty-four ribs, and two of the rest.
- How many bones in the shoulder blind? Two in each—one before and behind.
- How many bones in the human arm? In each one, two in each forearm.
- How many bones in the human wrist? Eight in each, if none are missed.
- How many bones in the palm of the hand? Five in each, with many a band.
- How many bones in the fingers ten? Twenty-eight, and by joints they bend.
- How many bones in the human hip? One in each, like a dish they dip.
- How many bones in the human thigh? One in each, and deep they lie.
- How many bones in the human knees? One in each, the knee-pan, please.
- How many bones in the ankle strong? Seven in each, but none are long.
- How many bones in the ball of the foot? Five in each, as the palms were put.
- How many bones in the toes half a score? Twenty-eight, and there are no more.
- And now altogether, these many bones find And they count in the body two hundred and six.
- And then we have the human mouth, Of upper and under thirty-two teeth.
- And now and then have a bone, I should think, That forms in a joint, or to fill up a chink. A sesamoid bone, or a wormain, we call, And now we may rest for we've told them all.

GOLD NEAR SUNBURY.

Justice Emanuel Wilvert Has Found it on Thomas Lyons' Farm.

A large deposit of auriferous sand and rock, containing gold and silver, has been discovered by Emanuel Wilvert, of this place, on the lands of Thomas J. Lyons, about three miles north-east of Sunbury. The discovery was made at the head of a canyon or gulch at an altitude of four hundred feet above the level of the river. The canyon is full of dykes and at the top of the hill where the find was made is a regular upheaval or eruption covering from ten to twenty acres full of anetamorphic matter, and red and black sand. The place has been partly opened and about ten feet below the surface a regular vein was discovered which is likening to a tree that has been crushed between massive rocks. On the west and east sides there are veins of syenitic rock. The top rock over the vein appears like a hanging wall of a sort of granite with gold disseminated through it. Mr. Wilvert had several essays made by the Penn Smelting and Refining Works, at Philadelphia, who reported from $5 to $14.20 gold and from $3 to $5 in silver taken from the surface. He has lately gone down some six feet, and two different essays made by Messrs. Ricketts & Banks, of New York City. They reported to him from $9.09 to $20.67 gold and a small quantity of silver. At the opening there is a cone like formation to look as though it had been melted into a regular mass, running in an east and west course. Mr. Wilvert has a lease on the lands and is preparing to make a general opening. He says he expects thus to open several fissures that are in tight and is satisfied that there is a large quantity of silver ore below the gold strata from the indications of the dykes in the canyon, as every one shows indications of silver further down. He has sent some of the ores to a smelter to have a further test made.—Sunbury Daily.

HARPER'S BAZAR.

The successive August numbers of the Bazar will be especially attractive to readers who enjoy outdoor life, and who cultivate acquaintance with Nature in her various moods. "Birds in Midsummer," a charming study by Caroline A. Crevy; "A Feathered Ishmaelite;" by Marion Harland; and "The Story of a Duck Farm," by Ruth McEnery Stuart, will be given. For those who enjoy fancy-work, there are several papers on "Summer Embroidery," by Candace Wheeler, and the series on "Household Decoration," begun in July, by Mary Artois, will be continued through August.

Drug envelopes, Nos. 1, 2 and 3 manilla, white or colored, coin envelopes, and shipping tags, with or without strings, always in stock at this office.

Peaches Will Be Abundant.

From present indications there will be no lack of Maryland peaches this year, as the indications point to a big production. In Kent county, the great peach growing centre of the Maryland and Delaware peninsula, reports promise a fine crop. The sale of peach baskets, in anticipation of the large yield, is enormous. Factories are running on full time, and in addition hundreds of thousands of baskets will be shipped. The estimated crop of Kent county, this season is 950,000 baskets. Queen Anne's county, over Chester river, will yield at least 500,000 baskets and one of the extensive growers in Kent estimates his crop at 30,000 baskets. Others make nearly as large estimates.
