MRS, SAMUEL A. ADAMS.

It has been Adopted in over 300 Cities and Towns.

Has Proved Satisfactory in Almost Every Case Where Enforced — Let the Bloomsburg Council give the Matter Their Cousideration.

In the days gone by in "merrie England" the curfew tolled "the knell of parting day" and this custom has given name to a law which has had marked popularity in towns west of the Mississippi river. It is now in operation in over three hundred cities and towns, some of them of the size and importance of Omaha and To-The object of the law is to prevent children not accompanied by their parents or natural caretakers from remaining on the streets after a certain hour, usually 9 o'clock p. m. The idea is gradually working its way east and will make its appearance among the legislative bodies of some of our towns during the coming winter. It needs no argument to show that it is dangerous to the manners and morals of children to permit them to remain unattended on the streets late at night. Wherever tried the plan has met the unqualified approval of parents even those who originally opposed it as an interference with their parental rights. Of this feature the Ladies' Home Journal says: "In each case the excellence of the law has become apparent, opposing parents have conceded its wisdom, and even children are said to be pleased with it. It has placed in the hands of the police a most effective weapon for clearing the streets of hoodlums at night, and in many cases where disorder reigned at street corners, quietness, law and order now prevail. So well has the ordinance worked that reports, gathered from not less than forty towns where it is a law, show that the fine or imprisonment penalty has not been inflicted in a single case. The first caution has served the purpose. These reports show too that the ordinance is not enforced in any oppressive manner. In the case of evening winter or summer entertainments, which would keep the children out later than the curfew hour, authority is easily obtained and readily granted by the mayor or town official tor an extention of the time. Its rigid enforcement is applied most strictly to the hoodlum element, and with this class the police claim they have never been able to deal so successfully.'

There is not a town in this state in which a curfew law would not be a great blessing since in every one there are crowds of unruly youths whose actions are annoying and whose example lead astray many who would otherwise lead quiet and orderly lives. Every reader can point out from his own experience many whose first steps down the way to wrong doing and disaster began by running the streets at night. Every consideration of public order and public morals demands that there be a reasonable check upon the youthful rowdyism so conspicuous in every town and village. There is need for something and nothing better has been suggested than the curfew law.

Tramps Attend a Wedding.

The experience of a young married couple in Hicksville, Ohio, a small town reads more like the creation from the brain of some of the writers in the comic papers than a sober reality. G. L. Rider and Miss Hattie Newcomb, living near Hicksville, were married the other evening. The ceremony had been performed and the guests were just about to do justice to the wedding supper when fifteen hungry and villainous looking tramps put in an appearance and held up the house as completely as any stage robbers in the far West could have done it. First, the tramps yelled: "Hands up!" and proceeded to search the guests for money and valuables, and as none of the guests had thought of coming armed, they were completely at the mercy of the tramps. Having obtain-ed all the guests' belongings, the tramps then proceeded to drive them into a milk house, in front of which they established a guard. They then sat down and ate up the entire wedding supper to the last crumb. Among the other things taken from the wedding party was the groom's coat, in the pocket of which was the marriage license. Three of the tramps were afterward arrested.

Silver King Clark of Montana and His Memorial to His Wife.

William A. Clark, who is known as the silver king of Montana, and who residents of Bloomsburg. is reputed to be worth more than $20,000,000, has accepted an architect's plans for a granite mausoleum to be erected in Woodlawn cemetery Eunice Weaver, and was one of a at a cost of about $100,000 as a memorial to his wife, who died about two years ago in New York.

Mr. Clark is a man of great prominence in the west, and is also well known by capitalists of the east. He owns at least 15 silver mines in the neighborhood of Butte, holds a controlling interest in two railroads of Arizona, is president of the Clark bank of Butte City, and is proprietor of the Butte Democratic newspaper. He is also president of the United Verds Copper company.

Mr. Clark is now 57 years old. Thirty-four years ago he left Philadelphia, where he had spent his youth, and at the head of a mule train, with a pick over his shoulder, went to Montana. There he and his wife opened a country store and sold to the miners the cheap necessaries of life. Clark peddled goods to the miners in a wagon, going from camp to camp. By dint of hard labor and perseverance he succeeded in saving enough money to buy an undeveloped copper mine. Before commencing work in this, however, he started east and studied mineralogy and chemistry for one year in Columbia college. He then returned west and began his mining career, which has made him perhaps the wealthiest man in Montana.

Mr. Clark has had political ambitions, and in 1892 received the Democratic caucus nomination for United States senator, but Marcus Daly ordered a bolt by the Democrats from Deer Lodge, and Mr. Clark was defeated-Philadelphia Press.

Appendicitis and Fruit.

The Clinton Democrat says appendicitis has become a very common affliction and the British Medical Journal has entered upon a crusade to destroy the popular notion that tomatoes are productive of cancer and the disease which has cost the lives of so many persons. Medical journals so frequently jump into a series of explanations and hints about diet and care of health that the readers become disgusted in course of time with it. If they were to take up the subject of eating fruit and the great benefits to be derived therefrom it would be of vastly greater service and very much more appreciated. The appendicitis scare has caused about every other person to be afraid to enjoy raspberries, blackberries and grapes, or for that matter any small fruits with seeds, owing to their dread of the disastrous lodgment of one of the numerous small seeds, causing the disease which has proven fatal in so many cases. Indeed, experience has proved that such danger is so rare as to be nihil. Every person should be aware of this fact, so that they may enjoy the fruit which is so abundant at this season of the year. Our forefathers ate fruit and enjoyed them, appendicitis being unknown at that remembered by many of the older Phoebe J. Weaver was born in Bloomsburg, Pa., in the year 1838, being the daughter of Henry and family of seven children, but two of whom are now living, Mrs. Eliza Huffman and Miss Margaret Weaver. The dead are the brothers, John and Joseph, and sisters Miss Catherine Weaver and Mrs. Sarah McRoberts, wife of Brice McRoberts, who died in this city June 1, 1894.

Deceased first came to this county early in the sixties, her sister, Mrs. McRoberts, then living in Pre-emption township. She taught school for several years, meeting while here Mr. Samuel A. Adams, who in the spring of 1866 went to her home in Bloomsburg, Pa., where the marriage contract was solemnized March 6 of that year. They immediately took up their residence on Mr. Adams' farm in Richland Grove township, where they resided for eighteen years, or until their removal to Aledo in the spring of 1884. During her residence of twelve years in this city Mrs. Adams endeared herself to many of our people. She united with the Episcopal church in early life and always displayed a Christian character and example. While on the farm she was active in Sabbath school work, and since coming to Aledo has been especially active in works of charity, being one of the promoters and influential members of the Ladies'

Benevolent Union. Mrs. Adams died at her home in this city Friday afternoon, Aug. 28, 1896, and the funeral services occurred from the house at 2 p. m. Sabbath, conducted by Rev. W. S. Davis. The attendance of friends was very large, and in his desolation the husband has the sympathy of all who knew the

The Planning Time-

The time to advertise is all the time; but for mercantile advertising purposes the time to arrange plans for the fall and winter is the first part of September Business is generally dull at this time of the year, and no better opportunity for considering this important matter is likely to arise in any line of trade. It is the well-planned, systematic advertising that tells; and the money spent for advertising that does not tell is more than wasted.

WOMEN WANT TO KNOW.

TO WHOM CAN THEY TELL THEIR TROUBLES?

A Woman Answers "To Me"-Anxious Inquirers Intelligently Answered-Thousands of Grateful Letters.

Women regard it as a blessing that they can talk to a woman who fully understands their every ailment, and thus avoid the examinations, experiwolf ments and theories of incompetent physicians, whose sex deprives them of knowing by experience. The endless confidence placed in Mrs. Pinkham by American women. prompts them to seek her advice constantly. Female diseases yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. Inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, ovarian troubles, spinal weakness and kidney complaints, all have their symptoms, and should be "nipped in the bud." Bearing-down pains, backache, headache, nervousness, pains in groins, lassitude, whites, irregularities, dread of impending evil, blues, sleeplessness, faintness, etc.

Here is testimony right to the point: "The doctors told me that unless I went to the hospital and had an operation performed, I could not live. I had falling, enlargement and ulceration of the womb. "I was in constant misery all the time; my back ached; I was always tired. It was impossible for me to walk at a time. I was surely a wreck, I decided that I would give your Compound and Sanative Wash a trial.

"I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and used two packages of Sanative Wash, and I am now almost well. I am stouter and healthier than I have ever been in my life. My friends and neighbors and the doctors are surprised at my rapid improvement. I have told them all what I have been taking." -MRS. ANNETTA BICKMEIER, Bellaire. Belmont Co., O.
